LIQUOR TABOO
IN GERMAN ARMY

Emperor Orders That Only Non-Alcoholic Drinks Be Consumed.

German Officer Elopes With Pretty Milliner; Czarina Recuperating.

(By MALCOLM CLARKE.)

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—The temperance folk and strict church members here are highly gratified at the stand against tipping in the army during the maneuvers in Eastern Prussia.

One of his reasons for this strange attitude on his part is that hundreds of soldiers have been dropped from the army because of heart trouble springing from the use of liquor. The emperor ordered that only non-alcoholic beverages be served to him, as he has found from experience that they enable him better to withstand the strain in the saddle. He also called upon the troops to cut down their indulgence in liquor to the lowest possible point. This exhortation is all the more in place since statistics show that, in consequence of the rising consumption of alcohol in the army, the number of soldiers whom it has been necessary to discharge for heart affections has increased tenfold. For the foreign officers who were his guests the emperor ordered a supply of wine. These were transported in ditches motor train, which this year is used for the first time. It carries a marquee with a collapsible table, chairs, crockery and glass for 12 persons. Two new transportable houses were constructed for the accommodation of the emperor in case the operations should render it necessary for him to pass the night away from headquarters.

SAD ROMANCE.

The sad sequel to the elopement of a German ex-lieutenant of artillery and a pretty milliner was told here lately when Alexander Jentsch was sentenced to three months' imprisonment for desertion.

The desertion of May Byass, daughter of an hotelkeeper of Brighton, London, Jentsch made the acquaintance of Miss Byass when he was living in London. A love affair ensued, and the man persuaded his sweetheart to elope. They took an apartment in the Dussau Strasse, this city. Miss Byass died there June 29 from heart failure, resulting from the administration of drugs. Frau Jentsch, who assisted the ex-officer in the administering of the drugs, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Jentsch pleaded, in palliation of his conduct, that he successfully ignored the girl to marry him, and resorted to the drugs after she had repeatedly threatened to take strychnine. The prosecutor asked that the ex-lieutenant should be imprisoned for a year, but the court decreed that were circumstances to justify the milder sentence.

When Miss Byass disappeared he was supposed to have gone to some friends at Aldershot.

OFFICER IN SCANDAL.

General Gargern, an eminent officer of the German army, has just been involved in a painful scandal, the details of which have aroused much interest here. It is stated that some of his brother officers went to him and requested him to commit suicide, saying that self-destruction was the only way in which he could wipe out the stain in the character of the German army. He advised them to try their own medicine before recommending it to him. It is significant of the general trend of feeling on such matters that the alleged advice given to the general appears to be generally approved by public opinion.

CZAR AT PLAY.

The czar of Russia availed himself of his freedom at Bad Nauheim. While visiting the Schloss, I found the czar at play with the carawitch as unconcerned as if he were a detective and police bloodhounds never existed.

The little grand duke had climbed onto the box of a victoria in the courtyard, and had impressed his foot into the service as "horses."

They were tugging vainly at the shafts in an effort to respond to the boisterous imitation of a Cossack driver's commands, when the czar stole up from behind him, and, together with the Grand Duke of Hesse, pushed the carriage forward. The heir apparent shouted for joy at his successful handling of the imaginary reins. The czarina was treated as a patient much in need of a "cure." She avoided all diversions involving strain, even from motor car tours. The beginning of the cure was delayed to permit her to acclimatize herself more thoroughly to the invigorating mountain air, to which she has so long been a stranger.

MYSTERY IN SUICIDE.

Some mystery, which the socialists are sure to connect with the czar, surrounds the suicide of an over-seer of a 2,300-man unit works. The over-seer, George Becker, had the honor last Friday of conducting the czar over the works. He was found dead a few days later with a bullet wound in the head. He had, it is supposed, shot himself, but whether by accident or design is not known.

SWORDS FOR ALL.

Not long since I reported an imperial decree which added firemen to the enormous number of non-military officials who carry out useless swords. The minister of justice has now issued an order that the swords of the law courts shall be removed with orders in the future.

SHAW OPPOSES
PRISON LASHING

Author Declares Methods Used to Punish Criminals Is Abominable.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The question of the methods to be used for the repression of the apocryphal continues to occupy the public mind. Quite a warm controversy has been going on as to whether the lash should be used upon a man guilty of highway robbery, felonious assault or living upon the wages of shame. George Bernard Shaw, the Irish playwright, has just written a letter to the Times in reply to an article recently published advocating whipping. Shaw protests that it is a mistake to assert that London owes the suppression of garroting to the lash. In reality, garroting happened long before the law of the lash was applied. It is wrong, says Shaw, to assert that the whip is the only chastisement feared by the hoodlums, and that once they've felt it they never recommence their malpractices. The whip produces, on the contrary, a savage rage within its victim and intensifies his hatred of society and contempt for the law and its defenders. Shaw concludes Shaw, "you think your ragged hawks love the right to be treated humanely, have the courage to kill them, but don't dishonor the whole French nation by the abominable practices which are the shame of English prisons."

There is another interesting view of the position. Hitherto Germany has been drawing her eggs from the eastern side of Europe but her increasing demand for eggs has now forced her to draw from Western Europe also, and as her imports from the latter direction grow so well England's supplies of first-class foreign eggs fall. This must be so, because there will be fewer countries near enough to supply.

COURTING CARS.

The honeymoon railway carriage having lost its novelty the newspapers are heralding the arrival of golden-lined motor cars for courting couples. They are special cars for two only at special prices. The demand has far exceeded the supply. The cars are furnished with mirrors and other fittings and in front hang baskets of flowers. The run on these cars has been great, and the taxi-cab owners now clothe their cars with a like atmosphere of romance. They have hung flower vases in front as a bait for lovers.

BREED MICROBES
AS SURE REMEDY

400,000,000 Germs Nursed and Guarded, All for One Patient.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—According to a medical correspondent 400,000,000 microbes are being carefully nursed and guarded in the laboratory at St. Bartholomew's Hospital until they can be used as a cure for a patient in the institution. The patient is suffering from a chronic empyema, which resulted in the formation of abscesses somewhere between the lungs and encircling ribs. The disease first appeared seven years ago and apparently was cured by an operation. Since then, however, three fistulous openings have occurred in the chest region, showing that the causative germs never had been thoroughly driven out of the system.

MICROBES HAVE PEDIGREE.

The microbes under cultivation are direct descendants of germs collected from lung secretion. The part they will play in effecting a permanent cure of the patient was explained by one of the bacteriologists at the laboratory. "We found that three micro-organisms scientifically known as first, streptococci, second, staphylococci and third, pneumococci were present in about equal quantities in the discharge from the lungs."

"These germs, therefore, were cultivated and when they have grown three kinds to practically the same microbe strength the microbes will be killed by heating solutions and a dose of dead microbes, 10,000,000 of each variety, will be injected into the tissues under the skin of the patient's arm."

WILL KILL TROUBLE MAKERS.

"These dead microbes in the patient's body will lead to the formation of substances which will attack and kill the three varieties of live microbes causing trouble in the lungs. At intervals larger doses will be given, until finally 100,000,000 germs can be injected. The maximum dose, it is expected, will complete the root of the destructive microbes in the patient's lungs and make the cure permanent."

AVIATOR SMUGGLES
IN FLYING MACHINE

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The first smuggling record was recorded on Saturday when Newport won the cross-country race at the Manteville flying machine, near the Belgian frontier. He landed at Grandmont and returned with flowers and cigars presented by young Belgian women. He distributed his trophies among the notables present who included an officer of the French customs, the head of the department automobile club and a Belgian aviator. Newport's apparatus was not prepared for contraband work.

Government Clerks in Ireland

DUBLIN, Oct. 1.—The temperance movement started in this city and its suburbs of the Jesuit Fathers is growing steadily. Eight thousand persons attended one of the temperance rallies. Father Fottrell, local head of the order, said the hope of any nation to bring up the children, also young men, in accordance with temperance laws.

A number of Tipperary farmers have decided to cease raising barley unless the price is raised to 10s. per bushel. These who buy the produce pay higher prices. Since 1885 prices have dropped almost 25 per cent.

The Improvement Committee of the Limerick Corporation has recommended that twenty-six workmen be employed and that steps be taken to acquire a vacant four additional be secured by condemnation proceedings.

Of 598 males arrested in this city during the year 1909 only 107 were not white, 5130 could read, only 107 had a wife and 107 were married.

An official report concerning appointments in connection with the court of justice in Ireland shows that five officials have held office for a number of years.

Each Doyle chief clerk in the King's Bench Bankruptcy Division has been in the city since 1871. He is now 71 years of age and has been in the service of the King's Bench Bankruptcy Division since 1871.

James Skelton, first clerk in the Waterford District Registry, is a record of fifty-five and a half years, and F. J. Fletcher of the Judge's Record and Wit office fifty-one years.

It is two years since he was created a Marquis and when his name was given, his daughter came out from his room to greet him and received him amid a crowd of personages in waiting including a German deputations.

Man Who Had Heart Stitched Leaves Hospital Unaided.

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—While the recent visit of the German Kaiser to the Emperor Franz Joseph is officially said to have been of a purely personal nature and without political significance, it is stated in high circles that the two monarchs discussed fully and confidentially the Near Eastern situation and have come to a definite understanding on many questions which will do much to lessen the Balkan situation.

Among other things I understand which was discussed was a close agreement between Turkey and the Dual-bund. Both Kaiser and Emperor are said to be heartily in favor of this move as calculated to preserve the Balkan status and to effectually put a quietus on any attempt to carry out King Ferdinand of Bulgaria's scheme for a federation of the Balkan states and ultimately a Balkan empire.

A man who had his heart stitched up at a hospital at Scheerding, Austria, seven weeks ago after he had been stabbed, has left the hospital in excellent health.

AMBASSADOR STRUCK
BY TURKISH CABMAN

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1.—The Porte has made satisfactory explanation and apologies to the Italian ambassador who was recently assaulted by a cabman and the incident is closed. The refusal of the cabman to drive the ambassador and the party from Tophaneh to Pera led to a fight between the cabman and his cavas.

The ambassador went to the residence of the latter, and striking the cabman with his cane, succeeded in forcing the cabman to get into the cab. The cabman, thereupon, turned upon the ambassador, but the cavas managed to keep off the assailant by using his sword. The scuffle attracted the attention of the people in the neighboring area, who were chiefly of the lower class and who sided with the cabman, uttering insulting epithets.

The party was compelled to abandon the cab and to continue the journey by another route. The conduct of the crowd and the absence of the police are much deplored and the government has promised that a permanent police force shall be maintained out to the suburbs.

Introduction of Taxis May Be

(By THOMAS EMMETT.)

DUBLIN, Oct. 1.—The Catholics have taken a stand on the subject of an aggressive pugilism and anything approaching it. Recently the Archbishop of Dublin made an effort to prevent the exhibition of prize fight pictures in this city. And since then Bishop Brownrigg of the diocese of Ossory issued an edict against a prize fight in Kilkenny. He wrote as follows:

"I have been told that our city has been placarded with sensational announcements of a series of pugilistic fights between prize boxer to take place in the theater in Patrick street. 'I am very much shocked and pained at this attempt to introduce a debasing and degrading form of amusement for the people, and I raise my voice in solemn protest against and against those who are responsible for bringing it here.'"

REAL W-HALE STORY.

Now, here is a real whale story which comes from Cork. The inhabitants of Loughranahan, a village on the coast, experienced surprise on the discovery a few mornings ago of a whale lying dead, wedged between rocks. The monster 108 feet long, had evidently been dead some days. It broke along the coast monster fish have from time to time been driven ashore, but the inhabitants declare that nothing such as this whale has ever come under their notice. Its backbone, right at the center of the body, was broken and dented in some feet. The belief prevails that the fish was struck by an Atlantic liner.

CARNegie WELCOMED.

The Catholics of Limerick may give Andrew Carnegie, the American philanthropist, the freedom of the city. The reason is explained in the following dispatch sent from that city. "It was announced at the various masses in the Dominican Church yesterday that Andrew Carnegie had promised to pay one-half the cost of a new organ for that church. Mr. Carnegie has given £600 for a new free library for Limerick."

Seals are playing havoc with fish in certain parts of Ireland. For example at a meeting of the Carlingford Lough Commissioners attention was to the destruction of fish by seals. In Carlingford Lough, two species of fish companions said had almost been exterminated by seals—skate and flat fish—and other species had also suffered badly. He had seen as many as fifty seals in one spot in the Lough at a time.

TAXES CAUSE VIOLENCE.

The introduction of taxicabs in this city may be followed by violence. The city council have been very busy organizing in opposition to the impending introduction of the ubiquitous taxicab.

In the meantime a number of Jarvis are receiving lessons in the driving of a motor-propelled vehicle in the Phoenix Park.

The agitation in favor of government ownership and control of the steam railroads is spreading. Since my last letter there have been meetings in half a dozen business centers. At a meeting held at Omagh, recently, the local man said that the recommendation were carried out it would be at the public expense, and which the public might for a time, grumble against, but if carried out they would have lower railway rates and Irish people would be encouraged to travel.

There is a movement on foot to have Galway made a trans-Atlantic port with a view of receiving commerce between the west of Ireland and the United States. Bishop O'Dea of the diocese endorses the movement and has promised to help the movement financially.

DEAD PHILOSOPHER
LAUDED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Few foreigners' deaths have attracted so much notice from the French press as that of William James. The late appreciation written by Guillaume Fierro, his two colleagues of Yngre.

"James was probably the first philosopher who could rightly be called American, not because he was born in America, but because his work showed fundamental differences between the culture of the old and the new world." Ferreio writes, "the profoundness of these differences is perhaps the spirit of civilization which replaces the old spirit of strife in the warlike souls of European philosophers."

It is a mistake to think of America as a land of the future. America can say she produced between the nineteenth and twentieth centuries not merely wealth and machines but fine art in noble conceptions."

REVOLUTIONARY CLUB

CALCUTTA, Oct. 1.—In the Dacca conspiracy trial a witness from Calcutta stated and also from the evidence of some of the witnesses, that there was a special room in the Camell (revolutionary club) House, called "The Abode of Silence" in which no one was allowed to enter except the privileged persons styled "Thunderbolts." Another room called "The Store House of Heresies" contained portraits of such an other Indian celebrities. One witness stated that his boat was hired for the purpose of carrying out a political robbery.

GIRL OF SEVEN HELPS ELECT
FATHER

Daughter of Chancellor Lloyd-George a Campaign Wounder.

Suffragists Curious About the Source of Fund to Fight
Their Cause.

(By LADY MARY MANWaring.)

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Chancellor Lloyd-George is one of the best liked and best hated man in King George's dominions. Of all his many thousands of admirers none is more ardent and sincere than little Miss Megan, Lloyd-George, the chancellor's daughter.

Although she is only seven years of age, her pretty little speeches, delivered with just the slightest of Welsh accents, and winsome smiles did much during the last general election to obtain many votes for the chancellor of the exchequer.

During one week this little lady made a whirlwind tour of the six boroughs her father represents in Parliament, and, of course, she spoke to the electors in her native language. To one old fellow, who had been employed at Carnarvon castle for fifty years, she asked, "Please will you vote for father?"

"Indeed, I will," was the reply, "but you must give me a kiss if I do."

"Ah," said she, "that would be bribery and corruption."

According to Mr. Lloyd-George's own supporter, Megan only made one tactical error during the whole campaign. It happened at a big fair at Crickboth. Both she and her father were "seeing the sights."

Presently the Chancellor found himself watching his little daughter trying her luck for ginger-bread at a "pull-away" stall.

A crowd soon gathered, and many were the low murmurs that went on. Later Mr. Lloyd-George was informed that Megan had been parading the stall of a prominent local conservative in his constituency.

WHO PUT UP MONEY.

The suffragettes would like very much to know the name of the man or woman who has sent Lord Cromer £100,000 for the purpose of helping a woman suffrage bill. Lord Cromer is very wise, perhaps, in keeping secret the name of the mysterious contributor. Otherwise it is to be doubted if he or she could remain in England in any comfort.

HAD TO BORNOW.

Apologies of the news from Lisbon that a creditor of Queen Maria Pia, the grandmother of King Manuel, has recently brought an action against her majesty in the civil courts for the payment of some old debts. It is interesting to note that several heads of royal houses have, before now, had need to resort to the friendly assistance of those gentlemen who carry on their business under the miller three hells.

The ex-Sultan Abdul Aziz pawned all his crown jewels for a million francs at the Mont de Piete at Paris, and they were only just redeemed by the Moorish government in time to prevent their being sold amongst other unrequited goods. The Sultan's jewels were pawned in Serbia as a sacred relic, was also pawned by a former king—while one well-known European monarch found himself in such straitened circumstances that the famous house of Attenborough once, temporarily, and possibly at all his old friends, Queen Isabella was, however, the most famous royalty who made no secret of the fact that she raised money from the pawnbrokers upon the security of portraits of her ancestors, which hung on the walls at the Palace Castle, her fatherland home. The royal lady often cleared her purse deeply she was indebted to her royal forebears for coming to let rescue and helping her out of her financial predicaments.

SHAKESPEARE'S FAMILY.

The Shakespeare Memorial committee displays a lack of energy in connection with everything associated with the name of Shakespeare. The committee's serious attempt has ever been made to ascertain if there is living any member of the great playwright's family. The last of the line of William Shakespeare is said to have been Lady Bernard, wife of Sir John Bernard, who was buried on February 1, 1869, at Abington, Shropshire, by his daughter, Susan, married Dr. Hall, and their daughter Elizabeth, became the wife of Thomas Hall of Wolcomb, a mile or two from Stratford. Being left a widow in 1847 she married again two years later, Sir John Leonard, who died in 1874. This granddaughter Elizabeth is described as the last of the Shakespeares. But was she?

The question is suggested by a statement which appeared some months ago in a daily contemporary to the effect that there is a descendant of the poet living in Warwickshire. The statement was given by a gardener on the borders of the Forest of Arden. He was born near Chisleote, and is named William. The man may be only a collateral descendant of his great namesake, still, it would be interesting to know whether he can claim kinship in any way with the William Shakespeare of Elizabethan days.

King George has now become patron both of the amateur and professional football associations and there can be no doubt that the national game will benefit largely in the future from his Majesty's support and personal attendance.

Last night, the association football, and now and His Majesty never misses an important service football match, whether army or navy. Whenever possible, he takes the young princes, who are all most enthusiastic footballers.

It was a very interesting match at a recent army and navy match at Stamford Bridge on the ground of the Chelsea Club. The Prince of Wales who is destined for the army, applauded excitedly when the soldiers scored the first goal and Prince Albert who is to enter the navy, was equally delighted when the sailors scored. The King was evidently taking a fancy to the association game which he had seen prior to his visit to the England and Scotland International at the Crystal Palace and there is just a possibility that he may attend the cup final this season. His visit to the "Soviet" International was made in response to the representations of an ordinary correspondent, who pointed out that "sovereign" followers would be delighted if he were to honor a representative match with his presence.

SOCIETY STAGGERS UNDER KILLING PAGE SET

Leaders of New York's Four Hundred Are Having Nervous Breakdown.

MISS SEARS IS WOOED BY ARDENT SWAINS

Immune From "Nerves" She Is Sought by Rainey and Vanderbilt.

By MARGARET WATTS DE PEYSTER

NEW YORK Oct. 1.—The recent nervous breakdown of Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg necessitating her taking a long rest, has emphasized anew the fact that the pace set by New York society is pretty nearly the pace that kills. The demands on the time and strength of a society woman who is at all popular are almost beyond belief and make her the strongest of the strongest.

It is not strange therefore that the close of the season marks a general exodus to the health resorts in an effort to recuperate sufficiently to meet the demands of the winter.

Among those better known society people who have been compelled to take time out for their nerves are Mrs. John E. Wilson, Mrs. Van Alen, Mrs. Herbert Harman, Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, Mrs. Craig Hildreth, Mrs. Edna Barker, Mrs. Kenneth Castleman, Mrs. Fongbrooke Jones, Mrs. Paul E. Andrews, Miss Van Cuzen and Mrs. Rosalind Vanderbilt.

There are a score of others whose names are well known, either on the sick or near-sick list.

ELEANOR SEARS IMMUNE.

Miss Eleanor Sears is not among the disabled. This remarkable young woman, perhaps the second to none as a hard worker, society girl, but she thinks of it. Perhaps the vigorous outdoor life she lives makes her immune.

I hear rumors by the way that Miss Eleanor may abandon her attitude of indifference to the male sex and that she is said to be being courted by Rainey and Vanderbilt. It is said that Miss Sears may soon decide to make one of them happy. Which one society friends say it cannot yet determine.

She has appeared at the majority of social affairs in Newport this summer and has been exceedingly popular. But she has been suffering from a nervous breakdown and has been unable to appear at the majority of social affairs in Newport this summer.

Not so with Vanderbilt and Rainey. They have been attending to their duties and have shown no determination to remain in Newport and avoid his love. Rainey, on the other hand, is thought to have taken the Arctic hunt as a means of proving his prowess to Miss Sears.

After the letter Miss Sears lauded to him before he started on the trip with the understanding it should be read within the Arctic circle means nothing. It indicates a keen interest by Miss Sears in him. He brought her back many pelts but whether he has won her heart remains to be seen.

WOMEN NEITHER BAD NOR GOOD

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Brown, father of New York for the marriage of Mrs. H. Brown's daughter, Miss Dorothy Carroll Trogo to Howard Bliss of Buffalo, Wednesday afternoon, October 2, at 4 o'clock, at the Christ Church, Hackensack, N. J.

Miss Trogo is the daughter of the late Albert Trogo of Baltimore and Washington. Her mother was formerly Miss Kate C. Trolle, a niece of William C. Cullen, who was for many years United States consul at Dresden.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waters, father of the President's brother and sister-in-law, received from Mr. and Mrs. Cullen, who they had planned arriving in early October.

Mrs. "Nell" Vanderbilt, with us again, she arrived from Europe last week and is expected to arrive here before opening her house in Fifth Avenue for the winter.

The young Baron von Blotcher of Berlin found New York society a rather pretty, not good, but delivers. I have not heard that any of the society women have donned mourning, because they failed to meet the approval of the young German financiers.

It is said that the young German financiers are judging by personal observation whether the real society women were pretty or homely.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—That Americans are by far the greatest asset to the German tourist industry is the most significant feature of the season that has just closed. Fewer of the British were here than in the previous year, but now Americans are filling the resorts.

It is estimated that the number of Americans who have visited the resorts in the last few months is ten times as many as the British.

At Austrian resorts the proportion of Americans to British is even more pronounced. Twelve Americans to every one British were counted at Carlsbad in the last few months.

AVIATION SWINDLE GERMANY'S LATEST

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Aviation has appeared for the first time as the bait of a swindle which worked very well for a time. An advertisement appeared in one of the numerous matrimonial organs which flourished in Germany stating that the inventor of a new and wonderful flying machine was without funds and wished to meet a wealthy lady (matrimonial) so that he might be able to finance his scheme and win enormous prizes with his machine.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The Kaiser preaches a great deal. That he does not, in fact, practice what he preaches goes without saying. At the recent German military maneuvers the emperor took a prominent part in the reviews. Still more recently the Princess Victoria Louise of Germany, affianced to the heir of the Spanish throne, led her regiment of foot guards past the reviewing line. And the Kaiser's daughter-in-law, the Princess Marie of Romania, is also teaching that women should confine themselves to the cradle and the kitchen and apiece as well known society woman.

CHURCH'S RELATION TO SCIENCE CHANGED

EVOLUTION NO LONGER SUGGESTS WARFARE

Rev. John Mockridge Accepts Call of Trinity Church, Broadway.

(By D. V. FRANCIS)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The relation of science to religion has for many years been undergoing a change and more and more it has come to be recognized that there is no real antagonism between the two.

In a recent sermon by the Archbishop of York in England the interesting question was dealt with in a most masterly manner.

The Archbishop said: "The middle of the nineteenth century was marked by constant collision of scientists and theologians. Science was up-lifted by its marvelous success in discovery and invention. It was full of the aggressive energy of self-confidence. 'Evolution' was a new word, and it was the world which was opened out to be beheld as older men were apt to do in the presence of science and self-confident youth to be resentful and indignant. But of late years there has been a striking change. Another spirit has been working."

On the one hand, science seems to have become aware of its necessary limitations. A true agnosticism which humbly recognizes the limits of scientific knowledge has taken the place of the false agnosticism which denied the existence of anything beyond those limits. There is nothing that could be known. On the other hand, religion or rather religion thinking itself out which we call theology has equally come to recognize its own limitations. Interpreted at least to its best mind it sees that it cannot claim to find in a personal God the climate of nature and worker of all things else. It is not right to decide a priori the methods of His working in the world.

Above all it has learned to recognize its own conception of God and to look upon Him not as standing apart from nature by asserting His power to occasional arbitrary interference with the laws of nature, but as dwelling within it, revealing Himself through it over all its workings in the world.

It is not strange therefore that the close of the season marks a general exodus to the health resorts in an effort to recuperate sufficiently to meet the demands of the winter.

Among those better known society people who have been compelled to take time out for their nerves are Mrs. John E. Wilson, Mrs. Van Alen, Mrs. Herbert Harman, Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, Mrs. Craig Hildreth, Mrs. Edna Barker, Mrs. Kenneth Castleman, Mrs. Fongbrooke Jones, Mrs. Paul E. Andrews, Miss Van Cuzen and Mrs. Rosalind Vanderbilt.

There are a score of others whose names are well known, either on the sick or near-sick list.

Not so with Vanderbilt and Rainey. They have been attending to their duties and have shown no determination to remain in Newport and avoid his love. Rainey, on the other hand, is thought to have taken the Arctic hunt as a means of proving his prowess to Miss Sears.

After the letter Miss Sears lauded to him before he started on the trip with the understanding it should be read within the Arctic circle means nothing. It indicates a keen interest by Miss Sears in him. He brought her back many pelts but whether he has won her heart remains to be seen.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Brown, father of New York for the marriage of Mrs. H. Brown's daughter, Miss Dorothy Carroll Trogo to Howard Bliss of Buffalo, Wednesday afternoon, October 2, at 4 o'clock, at the Christ Church, Hackensack, N. J.

Miss Trogo is the daughter of the late Albert Trogo of Baltimore and Washington. Her mother was formerly Miss Kate C. Trolle, a niece of William C. Cullen, who was for many years United States consul at Dresden.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waters, father of the President's brother and sister-in-law, received from Mr. and Mrs. Cullen, who they had planned arriving in early October.

Mrs. "Nell" Vanderbilt, with us again, she arrived from Europe last week and is expected to arrive here before opening her house in Fifth Avenue for the winter.

The young Baron von Blotcher of Berlin found New York society a rather pretty, not good, but delivers. I have not heard that any of the society women have donned mourning, because they failed to meet the approval of the young German financiers.

It is said that the young German financiers are judging by personal observation whether the real society women were pretty or homely.

AMERICA LEADS IN WANDERLUST

Fill German Resorts, Outnumbering the British by Ten to One.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—That Americans are by far the greatest asset to the German tourist industry is the most significant feature of the season that has just closed. Fewer of the British were here than in the previous year, but now Americans are filling the resorts.

It is estimated that the number of Americans who have visited the resorts in the last few months is ten times as many as the British.

At Austrian resorts the proportion of Americans to British is even more pronounced. Twelve Americans to every one British were counted at Carlsbad in the last few months.

Besides the more numerous Americans, the British are also more numerous than the Americans in the resorts. The British are also more numerous than the Americans in the resorts.

PAUPER IN ENGLAND; RICH MAN IN AFRICA

LONDON, Oct. 1.—It is to be seen that in England a pauper is a pauper and in Africa a rich man is a rich man.

WOULD MAKE IT EASY FOR MAN BEHIND BARS

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A House Secretary in London has proposed a plan to make it easy for a man behind bars to get out.

It is estimated that the number of Americans who have visited the resorts in the last few months is ten times as many as the British.

MISS HELEN TAFT, the charming 18-year-old daughter of President Taft, who will not return to Bryn Mawr College this fall, but will make her debut in Washington society.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Undoubtedly the principal social event in Washington during the coming season will be the coming out of Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the President, which I understand has been fixed for Christmas week.

Miss Helen is a most charming girl, simple and unaffected, but full of life and spirit. She is very fond of dancing and horseback riding and is a fine swimmer. She will be formally in society for the first time in the season in the younger set in which she already is very popular.

Her particular girl chums are Miss Sophie Johnston, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, and Miss Louise Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander. Miss Johnston is the daughter of the German ambassador, Misses Jessie Alexander and Misses Louise and Alice Alexander are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander.

All the young people in society it may be said are preparing for an unusually brilliant season.

HORSEBACK ENTHUSIASTS.

By the time the social season is well advanced most Washington women who go for horseback riding will be in the saddle. The speed of a cross saddle equestrianism will be a marked feature of the season. The riding will be done in the parks and the dunes, who but a few seasons back were thought a bit of a novelty for a woman.

Some of the most popular riding parties will be those in which the riders will now have the advantage of long practice over the girls who have at last decided to mount a horse.

When Miss Ruth Hanna, now Miss Modell McCormick of Chicago, daughter of the late Senator Hanna, first rode up the hill to the White House, she was the first of the great West from the horse. Her mount was a fine bay horse, and she was riding in a fashion that was a little bit of a novelty for a woman.

Little by little the West is being introduced to the city. The riding will be done in the parks and the dunes, who but a few seasons back were thought a bit of a novelty for a woman.

SOCIETY.

 ss. Henry Mills Bull will give the largest reception and tea that has been held in Oakland for many years on the afternoon of Thursday, October 13th, to introduce her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Latham, who will make her initial bow to society. Four hundred invitations have been issued for the affair, which will be elaborate in every detail. The magnificent home of Mr. and Mrs. Bull, 531 So. Pablo avenue, will be beautifully decorated in autumn colors for the occasion. The guests will be received between the hours of 3 and 6. A roster of the friends of the young daughter of the house will act as hostess in receiving. Among the guests will be Miss Marie Dieckmann, Miss Hazel and Grace Lavemann, Miss Eva Gruninger and Miss Eva Finner. Miss Latham was a hostess last Thursday afternoon at a luncheon in honor of Miss Evelyn Jones, bride-elect, whose marriage to W. E. Little will take place on November 1st. Jones was late for the tea, and guests and the decoration were in shades of yellow. Miss Latham is one of the members of the younger society circle of this city and her home is famous for its hospitality, and her mother is one of the most prominent leaders in the social set.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Believing the baby was found in the "palatial white lined" wing of the St. John's Catholic Church, Sixteenth and Chestnut streets, Wednesday's morning, a gift from heaven, Mrs. T. Tracey, 2311 Wash street, will go to St. Ann's Foundling Asylum, where the baby was taken by the police, and claim it for her own.

Frankie Leach, though of a frailer type than his Heeseenan, will without doubt run him a close race while that good-natured youngster, Gustie Mann, is another promising applicant. Little Jirrmie Edoff's friends have sent in his name and declare they will leave no stone unturned to win the prize for their popular protégé.

At the suggestion of the committee, Oakland the committee will have difficulty in choosing a number to enter for the show. Their best bet is to choose a number that is best liked and they will probably leave the maskers that night to suggest the number.

It is a hard nut to crack. This sturdy little chap will have the others in a run for their money. The committee has promised to have a contest on hand for him to amuse himself. He will be a probable candidate for the prize. Frankie Rigor the annexation kid is another name that has been suggested. He is a big fellow. CARE OF THE HAIR.
Switches will be and soon among women

Women troubled with falling or thinning hair, or with a straggly hair, excess of dandruff or oily condition of the scalp, will do well to shampoo with eggol, which I have often advised. This removes the accumulation of dirt, oil, sebum and feeds the scalp and stops itchy skin. The shampoo should be used twice a month for a time, then once a month.

For a month a debilitated hair tonic to use in connection is made by mixing equal parts of brandy and water, and adding a pinch of alcohol and water. A gentle massage with this every day for a few weeks will, when once a week, will stop falling hair and soon produce a fine, long, glossy and luxuriant growth.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—Believing the baby she found under the pulpit while kneeling in prayer in St. John's Catholic Church, Sixteenth and Chestnut streets, Wednesday morning a gift from heaven, Mrs. T. Tracy, 2121 Wash. st., will go to St. Ann's Foundling Asylum, where the baby was taken by the police and claim it for her own.

"I wanted to take it as soon as I found it, but I thought my husband would object," said Mrs. Tracy. "Tracy is a pious and sensible man, but I feared it."

Mrs. Tracy had a cry, and, assuming that a baby was being baptized, did not heed. Nearing the end of her prayer and holding a litiged candle in her hand, she turned and saw the baby.

"I was so startled that I will admit the baby should hit proper object to my mother having it."

Ellery's famous Royal Italian Band which has been the delight of the music lovers for the last few weeks will remain at Idora until the close of the season on October 30. This only possible way to realize the difference between the music of the Italian band and that of other organizations called bands is to hear one of its concerts as given every evening in the theater at Idora. The music is such a pleasure to the ear as to afford to the people of small cities a superlative quality that no money consideration should be mentioned in connection with them.

The latter adopted by Eugene W. Presti from Roy Borch's famous story of life in the Alcazar is now being commuted. The Alcazar is a play of equal interest, but it is not with any skill. While all the Alcazar people of the novel are retained they are allowed to meet the requirements of those theatergoers who prefer realism to extravagance. The latter, it is said, is the ultimate means.

CAN FEEL GAZE OF KINDLY PERSON

"No, I was at school. My thoughts were for my sisters. I sent word by the father of a child that I was distinct."

"Speaking of Clyde," I inquired, "are the blind fond of pets?"

MATERNAL INSTINCT. "Does it alter the desire to perpetuate life—the mother love?"

No, indeed. Rather I should say, blindness stirs the romance in woman that expresses itself as queen of her house. Naturally her maternal instinct is strong. She cannot see the value of her father's voice, its patting feet, can feel its little hands. I pity a childless woman."

Slowly in life, Miss Mass realized she must resign all hope of attaining a woman's highest ambition—wifehood and motherhood. But of that knowledge was born disgust for the term "old maid."

"It is not," she said, "a gentler expression of what could become obsession. It is most distasteful to those women."

Through it all is the strongly sustained love story, graphically told, and ending happily. But, I believe, ought to be do. Another thing I noticed in that picture are so very well done, is that of Duncan McAlpine's grandmother, whom everybody called "Mary Lyon." She is so capably the keeper of tongue, that she reminds one many times of Mrs. Forster in Adam Evede.

"The fact that neither my grandfather nor I ever dared disobey Mary Lyon was a sort of bond between us. I never saw her with a frown on her face nor yet to the outward eye a powerful woman. You had to look her in the eye to know. But there you saw a flash of fire. You could never tell when there was something masterful and even martial in her walk. All knew she had just to be obeyed, and there was an end of it."

When my father and she clashed, it was like the meeting of Miltonic thunder clouds over the Caspian. But on the whole it was safe to wager that even then, grandmother got her way.

There was another thing I noticed in my married daughter. I think Mary Lyon was not a little sorry for my father, John McAlpine, in his choice of a housekeeper. I could see this by the occasional dethe weather. These men wrote for audiences which were fresh and wide-awake, ready to receive the best that the dramatists had to offer. Shakespeare, in all his classes of people, men bound together, nevertheless, by a common enthusiasm for England's past, and a common confidence in England's future, was able to bring his leading in contact with persons from all parts of Europe, with sailors and travelers who had seen the wonders of the New World and the Old; men so stimulated by the discoveries, the new knowledge, the new views, that they hardly anything, even the supernatural, seemed for them impossible. Outside of ancient Athens, no dramatist has had a more favorable environment.

Interesting chapter entitled, "How Shakespeare Got into Print," and then, after this most fascinating introduction, there are able analyses of the works of Shakespeare, as we are with "The Merchant of Venice," with "Othello," with "Romeo and Juliet," we learn to see them all in a new light, for the analyses are so full of new facts, and Shakespeare's sources of information—and many characters analyzed with extraordinary accuracy—from a human standpoint, as charming as the best of the old.

THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

The utterances of the "prophet" have caused fear and trembling among negroes who have heard him, and among the negro population generally. The last time he came to the city, through this city he sounded a warning and said that he was going to happen." Shortly after he left, the St. Paul Baptist church collapsed, killing several persons and injuring many. Jones promptly announced that this was the fulfillment of his prophecy.

When Jones next came to the city he foretold the Galveston flood, the big Baltimore fire, the San Francisco earthquake, the assassination of President McKinley and numerous other fatalities and catastrophes. He is here now, he says, to warn the people that they are prepared for the war when it comes.

That it will come, he has no doubt. In a clear, crystalline vision, he says, he can see the sinking of the last American battleships by the fleets of England.

Then he says that he is here to warn the people that they are preparing for this war. He tells his hearers, "because it will punish the people for dealing so unjustly with the negroes."

Speaking locally as it were, "Prophet" Jones has something to say about the coming to Philadelphia by and by of the people of the city, he says, "you will be able

SOLOMON'S QUARRIES VISITED BY OAKLANDER

The Ancient Order of Hibernians of Alameda county gave a "Ladies Night" at the Casino hall on last Wednesday evening which was a delightful social success.

The Ladies Auxiliary, their friends and the wives of the members were the guests. During the evening refreshments consisting of sandwiches and coffee, cream and cake were served and the members, while the refreshments were being served, listened to a program of songs, oratory and recitation. The following was the program carried out:

Opening remarks, Chairman W. B. Sullivan. "The Hibernians of the Sea," recited by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan. "The Shannon River Flow," recited by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan. "The Gaelic Movement," recited by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan. "The Gaelic Movement," recited by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan. "The Gaelic Movement," recited by Mrs. J. J. Sullivan.

MRS. FREDERICK J. LAIRD, ex-state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution and vice-regent of Oakland Chapter.

On Thursday evening, September 22, Oakland County No. 1 of Ben Hur gave an open house entertainment and dance, which proved quite a success. Among those taking part in the program were: Vocal solo, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan; piano, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan; recitation, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan; and a variety of other entertainment.

With the accession of last meeting and contemplated series of entertainments, Sierra Council seems to be setting the pace for the bay councils of the Royal Arcanum, and as well as in the State. A delegation of Alameda Council, consisting of Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, and Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, visited the Council on Thursday evening. On Thursday evening, the Council of Ben Hur held a dance, which was a success.

The Lyon Relief Corps, No. 6, was organized by the department, president Mrs. Carrie Dibble, on Tuesday afternoon, September 27.

A large crowd attended, as all the corps around the bay were invited. Mrs. Carrie Dibble was the recipient of a handsome umbrella, presented by Lyon Relief Corps. The team were a success. The program was a success. The program was a success.

Long Rail Journey

From Cairo to Assuan by rail, the distance is five hundred and eighty miles. I broke the journey at Luxor not only for the purpose of visiting the ruins there, but also because I did not wish to travel in the day time only, but I might view the country as I journeyed, Egypt, including its part of the Nile valley, five hundred thousand acres of cultivated land, yet it has a settled population of eleven millions. In the Nile valley, the cultivated portions of the Nile valley, the cultivated portions of the Nile valley, the cultivated portions of the Nile valley.

Upon the edge of the desert on the west side of the Nile, and far from the ruins of Memphis, the ruins of a large temple built by Rameses II and known as the Ramesseum. It contains many colossal statues of the king, and a large number of smaller statues. The temple was built by Rameses II, and it is one of the most important ruins of the Nile valley.

Climate Is Dry

Owing to the extreme dryness of the climate the desert is absolutely devoid of vegetation, and a shrub or blade of grass or even a weed is nowhere to be seen. The soil is very hard and dry, and it is very difficult to dig. The climate is very dry, and it is very difficult to dig.

Will Gossip Finally Force the Marriage of Katherine Elkins and the Duke of Abruzzi?

Is This "International Episode" to Become Another Case of "The World and His Wife," Wherein Two Innocent Victims of Wagging Tongues Were Forced to Marry in Self-Defense for Three Mortal Years They Have Been Hounded by a Curious and Not Over-Scrupulous Populace?

CAN the newspapers and through them the "world and his wife," bring about the marriage of Katherine Elkins to the Duke of the Abruzzi whether they will or not, as the gossips in Bolognara's play married Donna Teo to Ernesto?

If there is anything in thought power, open declaration and the reiteration of all the newspapers of the world, Miss Elkins may be fated to marry the duke in spite of the dowager queen of Italy, the Duchess of Aosta, and all the royal family. In spite also of the proud and determined stand that has lately been taken by her father, Senator Elkins.

"The world wills it so," would seem to be the only interpretation that can be put upon the dispatches that have flown over the heads of this couple for the last three years. As in the play adapted from the Spanish by Charles Nordlinger, the world, and particularly her countrymen, believe that Miss Elkins is the only bride for the duke and the duke the only husband for her. Such is the persistency and power of rumor.

Victims Powerless to Resist.

The play shows what gossip can do—how it has the power to pick up its victims, drive them, and hurl them wherever it wills. In "The World and His Wife," the gossips broke through the almost impenetrable fortress of Castilian pride of family. They accused a couple of being in love with each other in spite of all denials, succeeded in getting the husband estranged from his wife and killed in a duel and afterward sent the innocent pair into matrimony in self-defense.

In the case of the Spaniards, as befits that land of swords and duels, calumny was the form the gossip took, but it none the less forms a good illustration of the wonders that a great many minds concentrated on one thing can perform.

Julian, the husband, did not believe the accusations that were made against his wife and his friend, Ernesto, and indignantly repudiated the gossip when it was brought to him. But his friends and relatives were determined to have it so and circumstances swiftly shaped themselves so that Julian was drawn into a duel and killed. After this there was no use any longer in his wife declaring that she had no thought of Ernesto.

There was no use any longer in Ernesto going away, as he had intended to do. The "World and His Wife" of the town in which they lived insisted that Teo and Ernesto were made for each other. Never was couple more blameless, but there was nothing for them to do but to work out the situation that had been made for them. In sheer desperation they married each other. It was the only way of escape.

Modern Gossips of Different Mind.

"Now for the first time it is the truth," said Ernesto, "and wonder of it all, you lot have made it truth. Now, but never till now. Come, Teo, you are mine, now, mine, mine."

The gossips of the old Spanish city worked their miracle with ugly scandal, on which they had set their evil minds.

The gossips of the United States and Europe, quite the contrary, have set their hearts on a beautiful fairy story.

They have known Miss Elkins ever since she was a little girl and used to play in the White House in the Harrison régime. Her own country has gloried in her fearlessness ever since she began to ride to hounds and chase to have her father buy her an entrance into the most expensive riding club in America rather than to have a coming out party. She was their favorite, their typical American girl.

When the duke came and saw and admired the country went wild in the romance of it. Here for once was a duke who was a brave man, a scientist, and a worker. A fitting husband for Miss Elkins and none the worse in reality because he was a prince, while in the romantic sense he was the better. In the real fairy tales it is always a prince who comes and gets the beautiful maiden, and Miss Elkins' countrymen had started out to spin a fairy tale at more natural than that, as long as he was a good fellow and a prince, too, that they wanted him? After all a prince wasn't any too good for Miss Elkins.

Italians at First Indignant.

Part of what it means to have a great nation set its mind on a thing is the way the other nations have gradually fallen into line with the idea. At first they opposed. Italian papers were indignant at what they called the presumption of the Americans. "They think they can buy anything, even a kingdom," the papers said. Now, however, the dispatches that constantly announce the marriage of Miss Elkins alternate from Rome and Paris, while the denials come from this country. Senator Elkins alone almost against the whole world, denies and denies and denies, but the world persists and persists and persists.

And in the meantime how does the heart of a maiden fare in the midst of this game of love that the world is playing round her? Through it all she has never spoken and yet nobody doubts but that she loved the duke and that he loved her.

There is a little game called "dand lion" that a girl plays when she loves. She takes the blossom that has reached the puffy stage and then she blows its feathers off with successive puffs. "He loves me, he loves me not," she whispers alternately. Finally with one of these little challenges that she throws out to fortune the last fuzzy blossom blows off and the question is decided.

Miss Elkins knows just how much she loves and how much the duke loves, so the same of fate for her takes another form. "We marry, we marry, not," one imagines her whispering, only that she does not need to invoke her fate with a dandelion. The paper brought to her in the morning with her roll and coffee for the continental breakfast takes the place of any charm that can be woven about the blossom. Every other morning their headlines retailed "They marry." On every alternate morning they said so positively "They marry not."

The Duke de Abruzzi

Katherine Elkins

It was Aug. 8 that the newspapers began again to blow hot and cold for the marriage. The moment, in fact, that Miss Elkins and her mother took up their residence in Germany. The papers began "because the tongues of the world and his wife had started again to wag away furiously."

Tongues of Gossip Start Again.

"They will marry," said a special dispatch from Rome to the Petite République on that day. "The greatest opposition has been overcome because the Duchess of Aosta is away."

"They will not marry," said Senator Elkins in dispatches, according to American papers on the next day. "There is nothing in these reports. Mrs. Elkins and Miss Elkins are in Germany for their health."

"They will marry," said a dispatch to The Echo of Paris from Baden. "The duke has made four calls on Miss Elkins and has presented her with four huge bouquets. She and her mother will soon leave for Paris, where they will be joined by the duke."

That was Aug. 10.

"They will marry," was printed on Aug. 14. The Marquis H. Viti Mariani, who was visiting in Brooklyn, declared it. "I am certain the marriage will take place shortly," said he. "The duke and persistent pleading of the duke and his powerful friends has finally weakened the stubborn opposition of Queen Margherita. I have been assured that this opposition has been overcome and that the duke is free to marry."

Wind Shifts to Opposite Direction.

"They will not marry." The wind blew badly on Sept. 2. On that day it was pointed out that it was geographically impossible for the duke to reach Miss Elkins at Toblach in his automobile when he was making his headquarters in Venice. "It is over 100 miles distant and 4,000 feet up a mountain," said these dispatches, so that it would be physically impossible for him to go three times a week, as it has been reported. "They will marry," said a special cable to The Chicago Tribune on Sept. 5, by which it will be seen again that the world and his wife, when once it gets its mind made up, does not pay attention to voices of protest. It was the diplomatic world that was insisting on the marriage this time, so the dispatch said. "Miss Elkins will become a Catholic and will receive as her wedding dower $5,000,000. The Duke of Aosta has met his brother, the Duke of the Abruzzi, and has given in," was the statement.

"It looks as if they would marry," came the message from Rome on Sept. 7. "Senator Elkins has refused a title that has been offered to him by the king of Italy." "This only confirms what we have been saying all along," said the world and his wife at this particular dispatch. "Of course, the negotiations are pending—we told you so."

World Refuses to Change Opinion.

"They will not marry," said Senator Elkins again from West Virginia on the following day. But that did not prevent the belief that the wedding would take place. The world believed that negotiations were again pending for the marriage and it refused to believe otherwise. "Where there is so much smoke there must be fire," said everybody.

That some of the smoke has real fire back of it in 1908 is remembered. It was after the first meeting of the couple that the women of the Elkins family discussed the chances of a marriage.

"The duke followed my sister to Palm Beach," said Miss Elkins' sister at that time.

"Really, you must have patience and wait a little longer for that information, for we don't know ourselves," said Mrs. Elkins. Miss Elkins at the time was standing by her mother and smiled happily. "I wish I could tell you something definite," Mrs. Elkins then added, "but really we don't know ourselves."

"Katherine will do as she pleases," said Senator Elkins at that time.

Questions the Psychologist Asks.

"She has as good blood in her veins as the Abruzzi," said her grandfather, Senator Davis. Strange to say, a woman genealogist soon made the discovery that Miss Davis traced her ancestry back to Charlemagne on her mother's side and to Alfred the Great on her father's. This investigation was approved by the registrar of the Herald's college of England.

"Will the couple, goaded on, remember their love in stead of being allowed to forget it, as they seem to have tried to do? Will they marry in spite of themselves?" is the question that the psychologist asks; for that there is a psychology of nations as well as of individuals and that it can be played upon by outside forces is an accepted fact. King Emmanuel has shown himself particularly susceptible to the modern way of looking at things, although he is set in the middle of the formalities that are supposed to hedge about kings.

Precedents have been established in which American girls married royalty. Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore married Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor Napoleon, and afterward king of Westphalia. Miss Elise Hensler of Carver street, Boston, married King Ferdinand of Portugal under a morganatic agreement. Miss Alice Heine of New Orleans, granddaughter of the poet, Heine, married the Duke of Richelieu and afterward the Prince of Monaco.

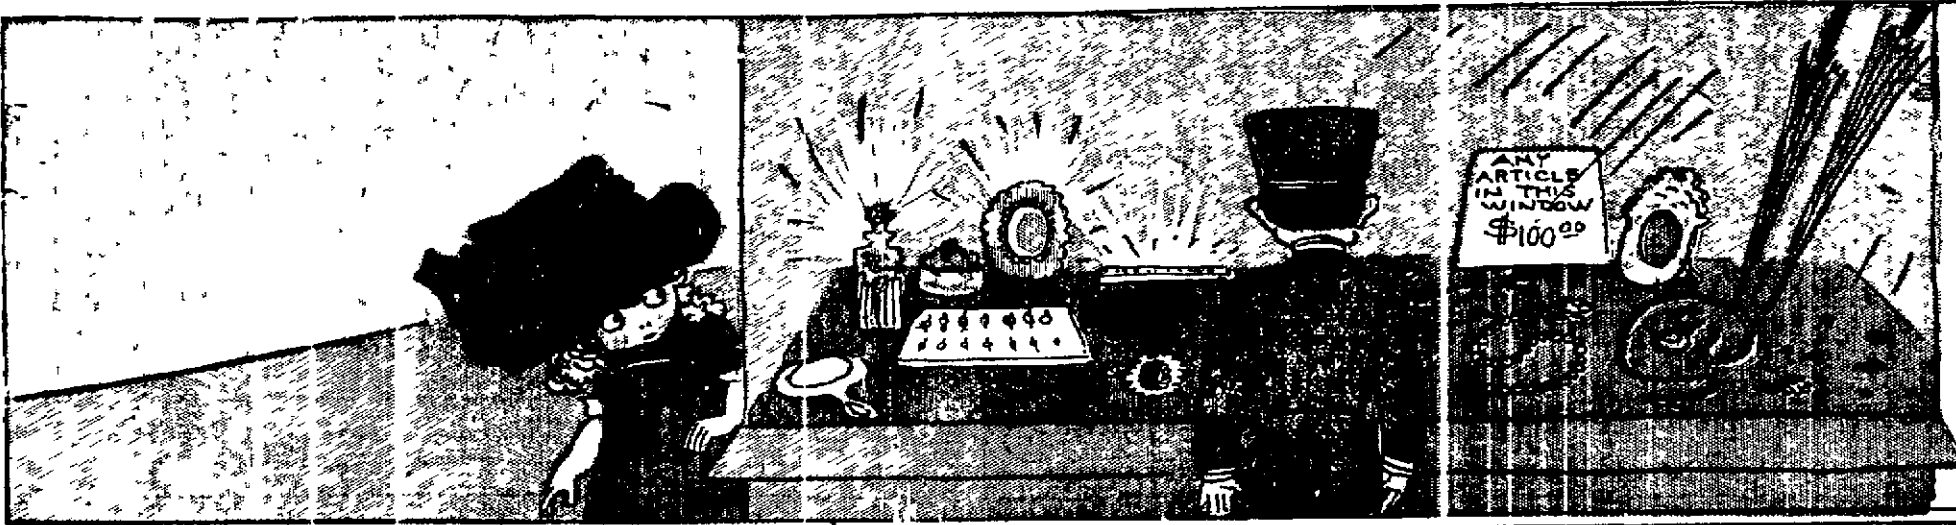

None of these marriages ended happily, but genealogists had not then begun tracing back American families. With Charlemagne and Alfred the Great as her ancestors, and with the thought of the whole world concentrated upon it, may it not be possible yet that Miss Elkins will sit next to the throne of Italy?

IN AUGUSTUS-WHERE ON EARTH CAN THAT COW BE?

UP IN THE AIR WITH HUNGRY HALLEY.

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE

Well, yes, Captain Kidd was a bold, bad man, a smuggler and a pirate of no mean repute. But he belonged to a kindergarten when compared with the young scamp I once locked horns with. This fellow had been the scourge of the high seas for years and years, but your Uncle Opie eventually put him out of business. When I look back to the day that I took from his deep sea den a chest containing a hundred and twenty-nine million pesos, I wonder at my prowess and nerve. The black flag and skull and crossbones of piracy held for me no terror in those old days.

OLD OPIE DILLDOCK'S STORIES

(Copyright 1910 by The Tribune Company, Chicago, Ill.)

Well, this browned, swashbuckling buccaneer, this smuggler, who ran amuck on the deep sea, was to be my prey. I met him one day off the island of Stickerdeep. He penetrated my splendid disguise, laughed (the young scoundrel!) and snapped his fingers in my face. Thus he challenged me to a combat of wits.

A few days later I stood in the shelter of a huge rock and focused my eagle eye on the ship of this piratical villain, this demon freebooter of the bounding main. Long I stood there and watched them unload their contraband from the low, rakish craft into a small boat. I saw them pile in a monstrous chest.

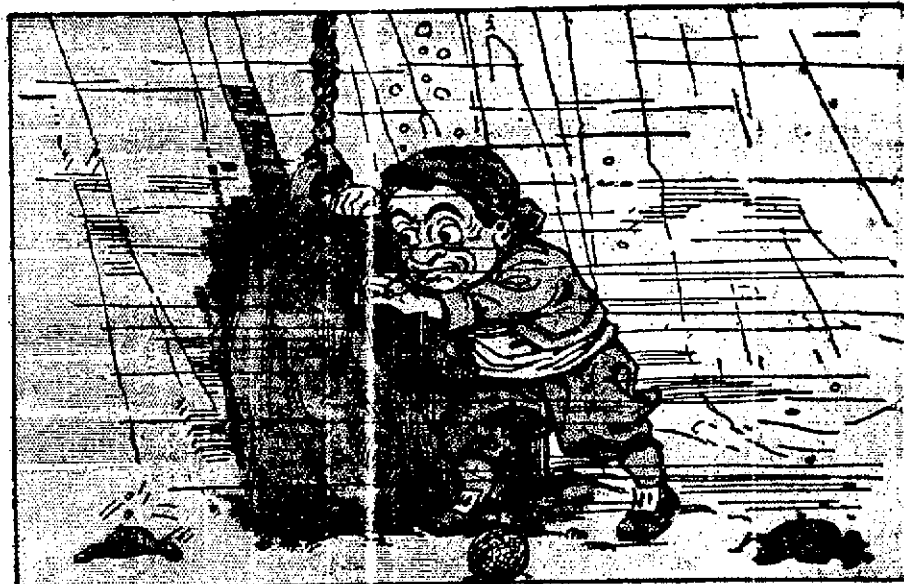

The small boat loaded, they started for some great rocks which loomed up in the distance large as the Rock of Gibraltar. They couldn't climb these, I argued, yet they made for them, albeit I could see no opening through which they could steer their plunder laden boat. I followed with great, strong strokes.

Their load evidently was exceedingly heavy, for they tugged and pulled at the oars laboriously. Suddenly, as if the sea had opened and swallowed them, they disappeared. I rushed my boat up to the rocks. I could find no opening, not even a small crevice, through which this gang of plunderers could have gone.

Well, I knew they got through somewhere, but for the life of me I could find no place. But I had to find them. So I took a ball of twine, tied one end to my boat, and dived into the sea. Down, down, down, countless fathoms I went, the ball unwinding as I descended. Two hours later I struck the bottom of the ocean.

I ran about as fast as the suction of the water would permit, looking for some clew to their whereabouts. Finally I came upon a seven ton boulder, anchored to a heavy log chain, which stood before a small aperture in the base of the rock. I pushed the rock aside and peered into the opening. All was darkness.

Taking a deep breath of air, I plunged into the forbidding passage. For half an hour I waded through its windings, bumping against the walls here and there as I hurried forward. Suddenly I came to the end of this subterranean road, thrust my head out of the water—and found myself in the den of the notorious smuggler.

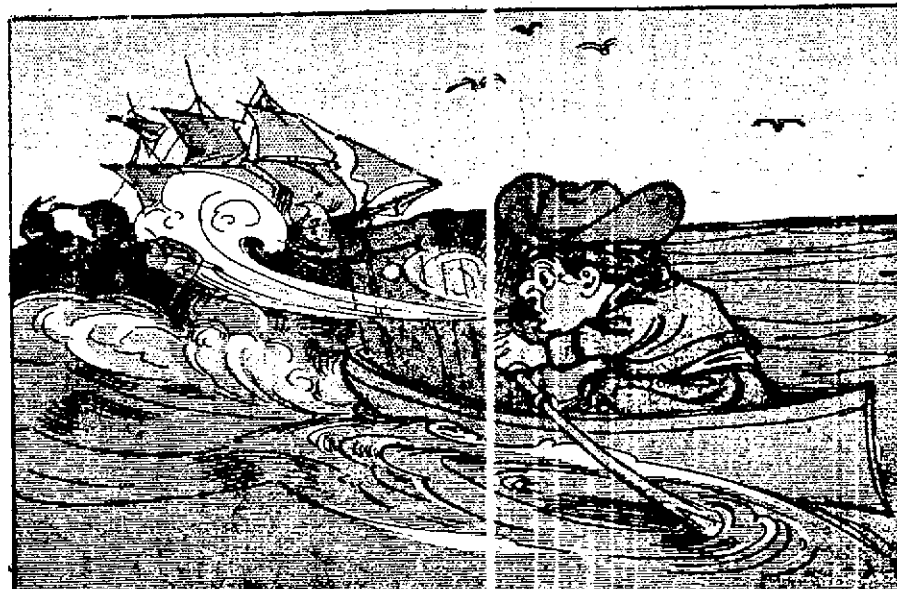

They were drinking and clinking their goblets together, the ribald laughter and jeers of their desperate leader rising above the tumult. When they fell asleep, I crawled out and shouldered the enormous chest of gold. Then following the course of my ball of string, I again was submerged in the black underground passage.

Coming to the base of the big rocks, I rested a moment, and then clutched the heavy chest of gold between my feet. In this way I lifted the chest to the surface, hoisting the entire dead weight by winding up the slender string as I floated to the top. There I deposited the chest with its precious contents in my boat.

As I was adjusting the heavy load wild yells broke the silence and behind me rose the small boat of the smugglers. Furious over being discovered, they brandished huge pistols and leveled them at me. But I was out of their range and the bullets spent themselves before reaching me. Insolently I lighted a cigar.

The big ship hailed me and demanded my surrender. This demand, of course, I paid no attention to. I had a heavy load to pull, but with wonderful strength I bent on my oars and started across the briny deep. Their small boat, manned by sturdy cutthroats, set out after me. It was possible I might be overtaken.

It was then that the great guns on the big boat opened fire upon me. I up-ended the steel treasure chest and the leader of the smugglers (who was an excellent shot) sent a broadside against it. This shoved me ahead several hundred feet, and two or three more broadsides put me out of harm's way. Thus I returned home.

Harry F. Grant Repeats
Last Year's Performance and Wins Big Contest

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Four killed and twenty-seven injured, half a dozen of them mortally, surgeons report, is the record of today's Vanderbilt cup race.

Although Harry F. Grant repeated his last year's performance of winning the race and achieved a new record, there was not a cheer from the packed stand as his winning car thundered over the line. The cumulative reports of deaths and injuries had only hushed the thousands in the stand, but the multitudes along the course as well.

MANY FATAL SMASHES.

Throughout the last two hours of the race the air had rung with the ambulance gongs and great crowds had witnessed the fatal collisions and smash-ups. Yet, notwithstanding that the race will take its place with the Paris-Madrid contest as an appalling slaughter under the guise of sport, William K. Vanderbilt, manager of the races and donor of the cup, declared that the long chapter of tragedies would not interfere with the international grand prix race to be run on Long Island October 15.

HEAVY TOLL OF DEATH.

Two mechanics were slain in smash-ups. Harry Stone, driver of the Columbia No. 12, may die of his injuries, and Louis Chevrolet had his arm and shoulder broken when his racer cut a touring car in half and injured three women.

Ferdinand D'Ziura, sales manager for the Pope-Hartford Automobile Company, was the only non-participant of the race killed outright. He met death on the way to the race, and his wife, a bride of two weeks, was seriously hurt. Both the woman's legs were broken and she was bruised and cut on the body. The D'Ziuras were speeding to the race in their own car when it turned turtle on a dark down-hill curve in Westbury, L. I. Four men and one woman, Mrs. D'Ziura, were in the car when it turned over.

CUTS-CAR IN HALF.

Chevrolet's mechanic, Charles Miller, was killed on the course two miles west of Hicksville when his steering gear broke and his car whirled into a touring car standing by the roadside, cutting the machine in half. The three women occupants of the car were injured, two seriously.
Their legs were broken and they were hurt internally. The great racing machine, without its speed decreased, struck a tree.

It shot along twenty yards and went through a hedge surrounding the grounds of the home of William Black, a farmer. Mrs. Kate McCarhy was in the front yard with her baby as the machine shot by her.

WOMAN NEAR DEATH.

She escaped death by a hair's breadth. She injured her leg in dog-ing the machine. The car crashed on the porch of the house and turned over. Miller was caught and crushed.

SCORE OF WARSHIP
SAILORS DROWNED

Cutter Capsizes and One Hundred Bluejackets Are Precipitated
Into the Water

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A sailing cutter of the battleship New Hampshire, crowded with from 80 to 100 men, returning from shore leave, was swamped by a wave in midstream in the North river off One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street at 10 o'clock this evening.

FOUR KNOWN DEAD.

Four sailors are known to be dead and, according to eye witnesses, it is likely that the death list will number from twenty to twenty-five.
Sixty-one men had been accounted for at midnight. There is hope that some of the others were picked up by private craft and carried to shore.
Although the officers of the New Hampshire do not admit that there were more than sixty-five in the cutter, persons who saw the packet boat leave the foot of One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street declare that it carried nearer 100 men.

CUTTER OVER CROWDED.

The cutter in charge of Midship-man Chevalier was being towed by the steam launch of the battleship.
According to those who saw the vessels leave the pier, the cutter was so filled that men were standing in her bow. She was low in the water and there was a strong tide running.
The launch was tugging along at a good clip when a large wave struck the cutter broadside. The next minute all on board were plunged into the river—a straggling shouting, tangled human mass.

Speaks at Dinner of National Republican League in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—President Taft as the guest of honor at the dinner of the National Republican League at the Hotel Astor tonight departed from his usual custom and did politics. The occasion, he said, seemed a propitious one for a consideration of the issues to be decided by the electorate.

SPEECH APPLAUDED.

The President received a warm greeting from 500 members of the league and from friends. His speech was punctuated with enthusiastic applause. The gallery boxes were crowded with handsomely gowned women. In the northern center box were Mrs. Taft and Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

TAFT'S SPEECH.

"Gentlemen of the National League of Republican Clubs
"I am here because I believe this league is a most important aid in the upbuilding and defense of Republican principles. As president, I prefer to avoid partisan controversies, but there are occasions, and it seems to me the present is one, when it is not improper for me to discuss the issues soon to be considered and decided by the electorate.

ANARCHIST IS ARRESTED IN

Dead Totals Twenty-One

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Three hundred searchers toiled among the ruins of the Times building tonight and up to midnight the body of J. Wesley Reaves, secretary to Manager Harry Chandler, had been recovered in a badly charred and almost unrecognizable condition. It was reported that two other bodies had been found, but this was unconfirmed at midnight.

Dramatic Scene at Wrecked Building

The scene at First and Broadway during this grewsome salvage of the dead possibly never has been duplicated in all the history of Los Angeles. All day the relatives of the employes who were missing and who inevitably were buried under the bricks and gnarled debris of the building, hovered near the ruins and waited for the work of excavation to begin. Those who had wept hysterically through the long hours that dragged by until the work of reclamation began at dark, became dry-eyed and gazed with silent grief at the work of excavation in the ruins.

Twenty-One Is List of the Dead

After canvassing the homes of its employes who were reported as missing, the Times tonight gave out a list of twenty known and one unknown dead.

Seventeen injured had been reported as receiving treatment for burns, bruises or broken bones received while escaping from the burning building.

The work of rescue was doubled in energy as the evening progressed. Lines of electric lights were strung above the ruins and several arc lights were pressed into

LIST OF KNOWN DEAD

Although none of the bodies have been removed from the destroyed Times building it is positively known that the following men lost their lives:

CHURCHILL HARVEY ELDER, assistant city editor, jumped from building and died two hours later at a hospital.
HARRY L. CRANE, assistant telegraph editor; married;
one child.

GRANT MOORE, head machinist; married; three children.

HOWARD CORDOWAY, assistant machinist.

HARRY R. FLYNN, linotype operator.

JOHN HOWARD, printer; married; one child.

EDWARD WASSON, printer; married.

CARL SALADA, linotype operator.

ERNEST JORDAN, operator; married; one child.

W. E. TUNSTEL, linotype operator.

EUGENE CARRESS, linotype operator; married; one child.

DON E. JOHNSTON, operator; married; one child.

Well-Known Anarchist Arrested

The police tonight made what they considered a very important arrest when they took into custody Michael Egan, who is said to be a well-known anarchist and has been arrested several times both here and in the East. Egan was arrested in Westlake Park, near the home of General Otis, by Detectives Ingram, McNamara and Zeigler and booked at the Central station in detinue. Egan, who is alleged to advocate the settlement of trouble between capital and labor by the use of the torch and the bomb, was found today making a threatening demonstration in the vicinity of General Otis' home. In his possession were a number of communications evidently prepared for mailing, but which had been destroyed by tearing into bits. He will be held for investigation.

Statement of Chief of Police

An important announcement was made by Chief of Police Galloway tonight. Chief Galloway's statement follows:

"A careful, cautious investigation is now being made by experts and although they are of the opinion that the explosion and fire were the result of an explosion of dynamite or nitro-glycerine, no definite conclusion has been reached.

"I don't believe that the bomb—and we are assuming that such an explosion caused the tragedy—was placed in the building by any Los Angeles man. I believe that it was placed there, if placed there at all—and I am inclined to that theory—by some person who came here from the North or from the East.

"The nitro-glycerine was possibly stolen from the Los Angeles aqueduct. The powder found at Mr. Zeelandelaar's home was packed by the Giant Powder Company at Giant, Cal. It was possibly shipped to the Los Angeles aqueduct and stolen from there. The date on the wrapping is September 20 and it must have been delivered after that date of shipment. If it develops that no other shipment was made to Southern California I will regard this as highly important.

"It would appear that the list of men who left the aqueduct, either at the north portal or at San Canon, after that date, would include the names of the plotters. They could, of course, only be identified with the attempt at Mr. Zeelandelaar's house unless additional evidence develops.

Trains Are Watched

"All my men are working extra, all outgoing trains are being watched and many men are being questioned. We have taken six into custody. They might have guilty knowledge of the tragedy. The men who made these bombs must have created a certain suspicion by their actions; they must have had rooms somewhere in the city. With the assistance of the public the men who attempted to destroy Zeelandelaar's home and who were responsible for the horrible Times tragedy will be captured."

Z. Cushing, a powder expert who was appointed by Mayor Alexander to investigate the ruins and determine what had caused the explosion, made a careful survey of the wreckage. Cushing is the southern representative of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company of San Francisco and has an intimate knowledge of the characteristics of the various kinds of giant and black powder.

As Dynamite

AFTER CLOSELY INSPECTING THE RUINS CUSHING MADE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT:

"IN MY OPINION THE BUILDING WAS WRECKED EITHER BY DYNAMITE OR BLACK POWDER. I REACH THIS DECISION BY THE CONDITION OF THE SHATTERED GLASS IN THE TAJO BUILDING, DIRECTLY OPPOSITE TO THE BLIND ALLEY IN THE TAJO BUILDING THE WINDOW GLASS IS PECULIARLY SHATTERED, NOT BROKEN IN BITS, BUT STRANGELY SHATTERED. I HAVE OBSERVED SIMILAR BREAKAGE BEFORE AND THERE IS A STRIKING PECULIARITY SEEN ONLY AFTER TREMENDOUS EXPLOSIONS.

"FROM THE MANNER IN WHICH THE HEAVY IRON BEAMS ARE TWISTED AND CURLED I BELIEVE THAT THE EXPLOSION OCCURRED NEAR THE ELEVATOR SHAFT IN THE BLIND ALLEY BETWEEN THE AUXILIARY SHOP AND THE BUILDING PROPER."

Proof of Theory

When the debris is cleared away from the alley it will be found, I believe, that the portions of the cement pavement will be found to be shattered in the same way that the glass in the Tajo building was.

The opinion expressed by Mr. Cushing is practically concurred in by the other members of the investigating committee. They

"It Is an Outrage," Says General Otis

By GEN. HARRISON GRAY OTIS.

The purpose of the fiends who blew up our building and killed our men was further exemplified in the placing of bombs under my house. The discovery of this and the one under Zeelandelaar's residence proved conclusively that the explosion, wrecking the Times building, was not gas nor anything else but an outrage. The Times will be issued daily from our auxiliary plant.

will reserve their findings, however, until the ruins have been cleared of all the twisted iron and bricks.

The Los Angeles Examiner offers a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons feloniously causing the destruction of the Times building and placing the bombs at the residences of General Otis and Mr. Zeelandelaar.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Following the explosion and fire this morning that completely wrecked the building occupied by the Times-Mirror Publishing Company and resulting in the probable death of more than a score of employees of the newspaper, two dynamite bombs or infernal machines were discovered today by the police, one at the home of the publisher of the newspaper, General Harrison Gray Otis, and the other on the premises occupied by F. J. Zeelandelaar, secretary of the Los Angeles Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Shortly after noon today Detective T. Rice, assigned to the residence of General Otis from police headquarters, together with the caretaker of the place, made an investigation of the grounds surrounding the home of the Otis family at Wilshire boulevard and Parkview avenue. They searched among the trees and shrubbery surrounding the residence for some time and then went to the front of the place to continue their investigations. In an "ell" at the corner of the home and directly under a bay window leading to the reception room they discovered a suit case concealed among the bushes.

Thought It a Valise

Thinking that the valise was the property of Mrs. Franklin Booth, daughter of General Otis, who had been preparing the home for the reception of its owner who returned to this city this afternoon from a trip through Mexico, they went into the house. She disclaimed ownership of the suit case and Detective Rice started across the street to Westlake park to ascertain the contents. At this juncture he detected the whirring of clockwork.

He cut a semi-circular slash in the leather case and disclosed twelve sticks of dynamite bound together with wire and an ordinary alarm clock of cheap pattern. The detective hastily dropped the suit case and made a race for a place of safety. He had retreated about fifty yards, when, with a roar that shook the neighborhood, the infernal device exploded. Beyond tearing a great hole in the turf of the park and uprooting several trees no damage was done.

Could Wreck Building

C. C. Gabert and W. H. Flockham, special watchmen on the Otis premises, declared that they had made a detour of the place several times during the night and that the case was not in the yard up to the time of the fire. It is the belief of the police that the infernal machine was placed there early this morning. The receptacle contained enough high power explosive to have wrecked the entire building.

The other bomb was found earlier in the day by a servant near the foundation of the Zeelandelaar residence. It was connected with fifteen sticks of dynamite and the clock was set to explode at 1 o'clock. The mechanism, however, had been wound too tight and the bomb failed to explode.

The discovery was made by Elizabeth Wilder, the maid servant at the Zeelandelaar home. She called to a passerby who telephoned to police headquarters. Sergeant Adams and Detective Rice and Jarvis hurried to the scene and Rice took the explosives and machine into the street.

Wrapped in Cotton

The sticks of dynamite were wrapped in cotton batting and a newspaper enclosed the bundle. One stick had been connected in two pieces with nine feet of two-time fuse. The fuse had been connected with a battery nailed on the side of the house. The battery was an ordinary dry cell and it was connected to the small alarm clock with a three-inch dial. A piece of brass was soldered to the alarm key so that the movement of the hand when the alarm went off would move a brass plate on a pivot thus making the electrical connection.

The alarm had been set for 1 o'clock, at about the same time as the explosion occurred at the Times building. The key had been wound too tightly, however, and the alarm did not go off as intended.

The bomb was set directly under the window of a room occupied by Miss Lois Zeelandelaar, daughter of the secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Placed There Late

Zeelandelaar said that he was on his porch until 10 o'clock Friday night, when it began to rain. The newspaper enclosing the explosive was not wet, so it would appear that the infernal machine had been placed in its position between 10 o'clock and 1 a. m.

Zeelandelaar told the police that two weeks ago a screen covering an air chute on the north side of the house was torn away by some unknown person.

The explosive, it developed, came from the factory at Giant, Cal., and the wrappings were dated September 20. Friday night there were four persons asleep in the house—Zeelandelaar, his wife and daughter and the servant. Throughout today the police have been concentrating their efforts in a roundup of a suspicious persons found in the city.

Two Arrested

Shortly after the fire at the Times building they arrested Harry Plake and William Irwin. The former was afterwards released while the latter is held in detinue pending an investigation of the fire and explosion. Irwin was taken in custody by the detectives while he was standing on the street in the vicinity of the fire in the newspaper plant.

What is believed by the police to have been an attempt to wreck the warehouse of the Times-Mirror Company at College and North San Fernando street occurred this morning at a time coincident with the fire at the main plant. Three suspicious-looking men were seen lurking about the building. The special watchmen of the Baker Iron works near by saw them and took three shots at them.

They also were seen by watchmen in two other plants and an effort was made to intercept them. All three reported the occurrence to the police, but the men had disappeared before the arrival of the officers.

JOHNSON HAS STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN ON IN SOUTH

Makes Five Speeches in Afternoon; Civil War Veterans Furnish Music Along the Way

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—With a scant three hours' rest after his jump over the Tehachapi into the southern end of the state, Hiram W. Johnson, Republican nominee for governor, continued his political campaign immediately after he had lunched with a score of prominent men of this city at the California Club at noon.

Five speeches were made in the afternoon by Johnson on a swift swing by special electric car to Long Beach and back. The Long Beach meeting was one of the biggest of the campaign, there being 2500 present.

In the evening the Republican leader was given a reception and later was a guest of honor with the Republican editors of Los Angeles county at a banquet. Philip A. Stanton, who opposed Johnson in the primaries, was one of the after-dinner speakers.

The strenuous afternoon of campaigning began at 2 o'clock, when Johnson journeyed out to Watts by special car, accompanied by thirty Republican committees and candidates of Los Angeles. On each side of the car was a 25-foot banner, which announced in big red letters, "Hiram Johnson, California's Next Governor."

Five veterans of the Civil war, who compose the life and drum corps of the guard, contributed music along the way with instruments which they played upon while in service nearly fifty years ago.

At Long Beach Johnson spoke under the trees in Pacific Park on the ocean edge. A brief stop and speech were made at Wilmington and the last meeting of the day was held in San Pedro.

No rest has been provided for the Republican leader while he is in the South. He leaves tomorrow for San Diego and will devote all of Monday in campaigning in the farthest point south. From San Diego he goes to San Bernardino, Redlands and Colton and will be the guest of honor at a dinner in the Glenwood Hotel at Riverside Tuesday night. From there Johnson will go to Santa Barbara via Los Angeles, arriving in the latter place about noon Wednesday.

Polygamy Far Better Than False Standard of Morals

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Polygamy in preference to a double code of moral laws is advocated by Dr. Katherine B. Davis of the University of Chicago, who is head of the New York State Reformatory for women, the only state institution of its kind in the United States.

"I advocate polygamy as an institution, open and recognized, if the identical standard of morals is impossible for both men and women."

Dr. Davis said today that "the cause of the crimes committed by the majority of women is due to the fact that there is one set of morals for men and an entirely different standard for women."

partment, a force of 200 men has been at work since noon searching the ruins of the Times plant for the bodies of the score or so men who are reported by the officials of the company to be missing. A number of men also were engaged in pulling down the walls which seemed to totter under the breeze and added danger to the rescue forces. The ruins, however, were found too hot to permit of any extended search and a number of firemen were engaged in pouring thousands of gallons of water into the pile in order to cool them.

No concerted efforts were made today to dig in the spot where most of the bodies of the dead are supposed to be buried, and this attempt will not be made until the twisted and tangled mass of iron and steel can be removed from the ruins. Harry Chandler, manager of the publishing company, this evening reiterated an earlier statement that the bodies of at least twenty men still remain in the ruins.

Calls It Outrage

General H. G. Otis, president and general manager of the Times, arrived in the city from El Paso at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. He had been notified on the train of this morning's explosion. General Otis was somewhat tired from his protracted trip to Mexico, where he went as an ambassador to the centennial celebration.

"The purpose of the fiends who blew up our building and killed our men was further exemplified in the placing of bombs under my house," said General Otis. "The discovery of this and the one under Mr. Zeelandelaar's residence proved conclusively that the explosion, wrecking the Times building, was not gas nor anything else but an outrage. The Times will be issued daily from our auxiliary plant."

Zeelandelaar's residence proved conclusively that the explosion, wrecking the Times building, was not gas nor anything else but an outrage. The Times will be issued daily from our auxiliary plant."

Exonerates Unions

Chief of Police Galloway tonight gave out a statement in which he said he did not believe the explosion at the Times was the work of Los Angeles unionists, although he was satisfied it was done by dynamiters.

Determination to get at the real cause of the explosion was expressed at a long conference held this afternoon by the city and county officials. The meeting was held at the mayor's office and was attended by the city's chief executive, Chief of Police Galloway, county officials and members of the city council.

$25,000 to Probe

Following the conference the city council met in special session and adopted a resolution appropriating $25,000 from the general fund with which to conduct the investigation into the disaster. As soon as the council had taken action the mayor announced that he would immediately offer a reward of $2500 for the arrest of any person who can be shown to have caused the explosion with criminal intent.

Ralph L. Criswell, president, and E. J. Hickman, vice-president of the Typographical Union, early this morning sent a letter to Harry Chandler, general manager of the Times, tendering to him the aid of the Typographical Union in getting out the paper. Later they visited the Exhibition Proves to Be Mecca for Throngs, Both Day and Night.

Buffalo Bill and his Wild West show came, saw and conquered yesterday. At two shows, in the afternoon and last night, the big aggregations of men, women and animals drew crowds that set a new record for circus audiences as they gathered.

The exhibition will be held twice today, again, and from the demand for tickets there is no doubt that that part of Oakland and the neighboring section that did not see the show yesterday will fill the big tents today.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East shows are here. Wholly superfluous information for the small boy, to be sure. There were about 500 of him on his way yesterday morning to the portending unloading of the special train of 78 cars which transports the big organization.

He was active and enthusiastic in his work, but no sooner did the cumbersome red wagons, bearing canvas stakes and poles, reached the show grounds than the small boy rapidly multiplied himself, developed a most remarkable ubiquity, and his enthusiasm enlarged to a fever. At least 1000 youngsters volunteered their services as assistants to the men engaged in erecting the 22 tents that house the Wild West-Far East, its 57 nationalities, its 700 horses and other animals. They even offered the best of their muscular works to the men employed on the most arduous tasks upon the grounds.

COMMENTS AMUSE

The comments of the boys were often amusing, especially to Colonel Cody and Major Little, both of whom, it turns out, were once boys themselves. Prolonged laughter was frequently their acknowledgment of a particularly frank and adoring tribute to their greatness offered by a small, open-mouthed worshipper. "He's most a mile high." This from an urban, apparently contented by the imposing physical dimensions of the famous old scout. "Don't seem like he can be real."

"He's real, all right," assured another, a budding iconoclast, "and he's sure big, but he don't look to me like he'd ever killed Indians. He's too blamed good-natured looking." Major Little was a disappointment to many of the juveniles who have read exploits imputed to Pawnee Bill in the periodicals made so entrancing by eternal parental prohibition. To begin with, his thick hair did not overflow his shoulders, and in sartorial respects, his was the appearance of other successful business men of the West, far that is what the Major is. Also he is a banker, being president of the Arkansas Valley National bank, of Pawnee, Oklahoma, a city, by the way, founded by Pawnee Bill.

Again, the Major is the only showman in the world who signs his own bank notes, his position as bank president giving him that authority.

PLEASING PERSONALITY.

But however, disappointing to the small boy Major Little may have been, to adults who met him socially, his personality proved most interesting and pleasing. As business head of the big combination, which owes much of its success to his indomitable energy and executive ability, he received numerous callers, and to them his moral worth and importance were made known within the conversation of the last ten years. There is nothing spectacular in his make-up, but his career has been almost as stirring and romantic as that of his historic partner, Colonel Cody.

The latter was absent from town yesterday on a hunting trip and did not immediately receive the news of his brother's sudden death. He will probably leave for Los Angeles at once.

Affinity Buys Wife Clothes

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Accused of knocking up the home of Archie Rice, former newspaper man and art student of Berkeley, William H. Cornwell, a florist at Powell and O'Farrell streets, was taken into custody today and lodged in the city prison. His bail was fixed at $200 cash.

Cornwell is accused of persuading Mrs. Rice to leave her husband and 2 children to live with him. At the Wellington Hotel in Geary street, and at the Montclair apartments, Cornwell is said to have lived with the woman and to have posed as Rice.

According to Rice, his wife gave Cornwell $10 on one occasion. Rice also says that Cornwell purchased articles of apparel and had them charged to him. The bill came to $100.

Cornwell is said to have a wife living at 1411 Hyde street. He is also said to have deserted her several times since they were married 11 years ago in the Island of Maui. Mrs. Cornwell is said to have mortgaged her home for $300 and to have given the money to him to purchase an interest in Sievers' florist store at Powell and O'Farrell streets. Rice said his wife for divorce several months ago in Alameda county.

He declares that the case is not going to be carried to the highest courts, no matter what the costs.

SOME PAINTED PASSAGES.

Here are some of the more expressive passages from Noel's letter: "If I could see all of them burned and destroyed beyond resurrection I would leave to the world a record and a warning that has been made against me in Judge Smith's court in Santa Cruz."

At one time, as my friends all know, I had great hopes and expectations, and had selected Santa Cruz as the spot to nourish and develop them, after having for many years sought in vain to find one other place that so nearly filled my ideals on all accounts. But alas and alack! I did not calculate upon the Delilah and the Philistines following me as they did, and upon my being so unfortunate as not to have been able to employ one honest lawyer in Santa Cruz. Not but there might be more than one there, but I was unfortunate.

I WAS VILAINOUSLY TRIPPED.

When Smith gets through with his decisions, as he will be one day, six months' time expires, the people of Santa Cruz—my friends there—will be greatly interested in what I shall have to say, and am now preparing to say in my own defense to the federal courts, where this case will now be taken and tried before great juries.

One thing is strange to me, what Smith should think that all other judges in this case, this late in the day, and that, why, after starting in on this case this judge should refuse to proceed. I was villainously tripped, and am now in the hands of the law. I am now in the hands of the law. I am now in the hands of the law.

CRUEL CUSSINESS UNEQUALED.

I authorize you to say to the people of Santa Cruz that I am not yet settled, and that before I am an army of people will have to say what they know, doing so show that for cruel cussiness no one was ever waged against an honorable, upright and just man equal to this one yet penning before the great American people, and have declared, "millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute or blackmail," all of which I declared when his suit was first commenced against me.

Before leaving Santa Cruz Noel served notice upon the merchants here not to attend credit to his wife, and she was left without support or help of any kind except from friends; but she homesteaded the bed of home here and her first moves have been to defend and protect her property, which she has attracted so much attention.

MRS. NOEL'S WORK REWARDED.

Judge Smith in his decision gave all that Mrs. Noel asked for, and probably a little more, for he ruled that all of the property acquired since the marriage of the two was community property. Mrs. Noel having worked to amass the fortune of her husband, a number of different states.

Noel's letter, from which passages have been quoted, bore the postmark of Berlin Springs, Mich. Noel is now living in luxury at his summer home. The letter had been awaited with deep interest as the public was anxious to learn how the man of wealth would take the decision and what his next step would be.

of the many voices and could see through the gathering dusk that the cutter had disappeared—all save a fringe of bobbing heads that told how four score men were battling for their lives.

MEN BECAME DESPERATE.

The cooler of the men swam to the town launch and some were pulled aboard. But the greater number clinging to the submerged cutter, where those who could not swim grew weak and hung upon their stronger comrades and where those who were strong gave half their strength to aid others.

But as the boats began to drift upstream with the swift tide and still no cheering searchlight flashed upon the death scene in the black water, some of the younger fellows lost their heads and the struggle became desperate.

One sailor named Ryan told later how he had held up a friend until his own strength weakened and the other man had clutched his trousers and dragged them off before he sank and drowned.

Help was long in coming. The first aid to reach the drowning men was from the shore, two launches having been manned at boat houses on the Manhattan shore, where the cries for

SEYMOUR CHOICE FOR THE NEXT CHIEF

Former Captain of Detectives Is Choice to Succeed Martin

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—John Seymour, head of the Wells-Fargo Company, is the choice to succeed Martin as chief of police of San Francisco, unless there is a sudden change in the plans of the police commission before Monday.

The names of all the candidates were discussed at a meeting held today, and at its conclusion the members of the commission with the sanction of Mayor Dwyer, decided upon John Seymour for the place.

TO BE MADE MONDAY.

The appointment of the new chief of police will be made Monday. It was anticipated that last night that Sergeant J. O'Meara, Captain of Detectives, will, Steve Bunker and Bernard Judge, named as possible candidates, had all been eliminated.

Takes Strychnine; Dying in Hospital

John Foley of 617 Fifteenth street has been suffering from heart trouble for some time and last night consulted with Dr. Harmon Bell. He was advised by the physician and given some strychnine pills, which he was told to take every three hours.

He misunderstood the order and proceeded to take three the first hour, with the consequence that his loud cries of pain attracted the attention of neighbors, who summoned the police. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where heroic efforts were taken by Steward Platt to succeed in removing the immediate cause of complaint, though the patient failed to respond to the treatment.

Foley lies in a critical condition and the ultimate recovery of the patient is doubtful.

WILL WALK FROM N. Y. TO OAKLAND

Anderson Brothers Start in the Footsteps of Weston on Big Tramp Across Continent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Germany joined the international go-as-you-please pedestrian trip across the United States when two Teutons started from the city hall at noon last Sunday to walk to Oakland.

Three Italians started on the same trip fourteen days ago, and since Weston made his record from coast to coast there have been any number of willing walkers starting from here for the Pacific on foot.

The two Germans who got away Sunday are Bernhard and August Anderson, brothers. They are fond of walking, and while they intend to get to Oakland without riding on trolley, train or wagon, they do not intend to try for a new record, as the Italians do. The Germans are making the trip for enjoyment and exercise, and believe their experience on the road will well repay them for their efforts.

They will follow the Weston route closely on their trip across the continent.

Many Improvements in Sonoma County

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 1.—The town of Sonoma is about to begin the installing of its $200,000 sewer system. Some time ago the bonds were issued with hardly a dissenting vote, and the preliminary plans have already been adopted.

The city of Healdsburg is also considering a modern sewer system. In almost every city and town in Sonoma county some public improvements are in progress.

Largely. The commission was empowered to suspend any proposed increase of rates until the shipowners shall have a chance to be heard. In its recommendations, the interstate telegraph and telephone companies were brought within the regulation of the commission.

"A new court of commerce was provided in order that shipowners and railways might secure prompt decisions.

"Railway employees were protected by a new safety appliance law.

"The employers' liability act was perfected.

"An inquiry into the issuance of railway stocks and bonds was inaugurated.

"An inquiry into workmen's compensation for injuries received was instituted.

NEW CUSTOMS COURT.

"A new customs court was established.

"A postal savings bank system was authorized.

"A corporation tax was adopted.

"We need an important source of revenue and a new and effective method of assisting the government in supervising corporations.

"Two new battleships were added to the navy; a bureau of mines was established.

"Seventy million acres of the public domain were legally withdrawn from entry.

"Twenty million dollars in bonds were authorized to complete reclamation projects, after a board of engineers now at work should complete its investigation of existing projects.

"Enlarged appropriations were made to survey public lands.

"A definite commitment was made against 'piecemeal' or 'work barrel' system of river and harbor improvement.

NEW STATES.

"New Mexico and Arizona were advanced toward statehood.

"A peace commission was authorized.

"An investigation into business methods of conducting the government was begun.

"The appropriations for the current year were cut $24,000,000 below the appropriations of the year before.

"The tariff was revised without the usual disturbance of business. Because of its reduction of tariff rates, its maximum and minimum provisions, the free trade it secures for the Philippines, its fine revenue producing qualities, the Payne law is a creditable bill.

"Our platform promised to revise the tariff immediately and also to revise it to accord with the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad. The two promises proved somewhat inconsistent, in that immediate revision conforming to such a plan was impracticable, because the information needed was not at once available; but the inconsistency was met by provision of a tariff board to report the necessary facts.

COMPLETES REPORT.

"The new tariff commission, for the work of which $250,000 was appropriated, has already completed its preliminary report, and the commission is now at work in this country. I have authorized the chairman to make a public statement of the purposes and methods of the commission, but I have directed him not to make that statement until after the election, because in order as possible to desire the tariff commission from its very inception to be kept free from the vicissitudes of partisan politics, so that it will gain the respect and confidence of the whole country, regardless of party lines.

"Finally, since the bill passed, nearly all Republican candidates for congress and Republican state platforms generally have declared that hereafter when the tariff shall be revised by Republicans, it shall be revised on a schedule at a time, instead of by a general revision of the entire tariff.

FURTHER REVISION.

"We have provided the machinery for a further revision on the protective principle when the necessary information has been secured.

"In my judgment the country will hesitate before entrusting a further revision of the tariff to the Democratic party on free trade or tariff for revenue principles. That party has not, within our memory, revised the tariff without creating profound business disturbances and its revision was largely and justly repudiated by the country after a short but bitter experience.

"I have thus summarily stated the Republican accomplishments of a and commendable purpose of reducing the costs of production and distribution, have too often had the real purpose of suppressing competition, controlling prices and maintaining monopoly.

"Every one who is frank must admit that great progress has been made in fighting these evils. Fifteen years ago the rights of the people to their natural resources were freely disregarded. The natural resources of the nation are now in the way of being conserved for the people who are the ultimate owners of such resources and ought to remain so.

"Fifteen years ago, one of the commonest forms of corporate abuse was the management of our railways in the interest of favored individuals by secret rebate. That day has passed. Our new railway act goes much further and greatly increases the powers and duties of the interstate commerce commission. The discretion of the commissioners not within judicial control by appeal is now very wide, and they have in their hands for the weak or weak of general business a power that sometimes is a terrible. The personnel of the commission becomes, therefore, as important as that of our highest courts. The responsibility of the executive in the appointment of the commissioners is a heavy one. A trend or bias of mind on the part of a member is dangerous. The judicial quality of each should be fine.

"The existence of the impulse to down the bosses ought to rejoice every patriot with the hope that it will be turned to a useful and permanent betterment of our politics.

"But however defective these suggested changes may prove at first, I venture to say that no great permanent good can come from them alone, unless they are accompanied by a change in the individual voter and his awakened conscience to the constant watchfulness and effort on his part to prevent the old evils from appearing in a new guise.

ANTI-TRUST LAW.

"Every one will now admit that the Sherman anti-trust law, passed twenty years ago, and since amended, is a great and useful piece of legislation. It is effective for the purpose of breaking up combinations that result in the suppression of competition and the establishment of monopolies.

"There are monopolies in the supreme court cases which it is hoped will throw still greater light on the subject, making even clearer than they are today the lines between legitimate and illegitimate business. It has been thought that the decision of the supreme court in the case of the Standard Oil Company would greatly disturb financial centers, would halt general business and would bring on financial disaster.

"I do not share these fears.

"I have proposed to congress in this connection a federal corporation act, which might be taken advantage of by the largest corporations. It would give and it ought to give no immunity from the anti-trust law. But it would have this advantage:

CORPORATION SUPERVISION.

"It would give the government the benefit of direct supervision of these powerful corporations and it would afford to these corporations ample opportunity to do a legitimate business within the state borders.

"It gives me the greatest satisfaction to say that in spite of all the rumors of possible business stagnation our basic prosperity is assured for the coming year. In that the great volume of the products of the country is being harvested in value will exceed the products of our fields at any period in the past. Our corn crop, our cotton crop and our oats crop will equal approximately those of the year 1909. Our wheat crop will be valued at over a billion dollars and the value of the business of next year can hardly be overestimated.

"The millionaire, the great manufacturer, the capitalist, the laborer, the farmer, the small merchant, clerk and professional man.

PROSPERITY IMPORTANT.

"But in actual human comfort and happiness, prosperity is vastly more important to the wage earner than to the wealthy. Hence, it is a legitimate office of those charged of governmental responsibility to do what they can to prevent the rise of a class which will drive capital to its hoarding place and prevent the investments necessary to carry on the widely expanded business of this country from which our people derive their livelihood. Business men now view with favor rather than alarm the strict enforcement of law.

"There are other directions in which governmental progress can be made. The extension of the merit system on the whole greatly improved conditions in the government. For this reason I have within the last week placed 4500 assistant postmasters and clerical assistants on the classified list of the civil service. Fourth-class postmasters not requiring confirmation are, many of them, already in the classified list, but postmasters of the first, second and third class, collectors of internal revenue, collectors of customs, surveyors of customs and appraisers are not in the classified service and now receive their appointments on the recommendation either of the senators or the congressmen in whose district they reside.

CLASSIFIED SERVICE.

"All of these offices ought ultimately to be in the classified service. They would then be more efficiently and economically administered.

"The giving up of the power of confirmation is a great concession from the Senate, and we can perhaps not expect it to be made in respect to all local offices at once. I shall urge upon Congress a change in the methods of appointing postmasters at least the first, second and third-class postmasters can be classified and taken out of the category of political patronage. We can then patiently push on for further progress toward an elimination of all local offices from the field of politics.

"This is, however, but the beginning of civil service reform. The problem is not merely to take on the employees through honest competitive examination, but to maintain and to improve the efficiency of the initial efficiency of that employee; to give him the same real which he would display in private business.

GUARD AGAINST EVILS.

"We must also be on our guard against certain evils that have accompanied the giving of a permanent tenure to large classes of civil servants. Useful associations of classified civil servants have been at times perverted into combinations to force the Congress to increase the salaries of their better judgment it unduly to increase their pay or reduce the burden of their duties. The general public is not aware of the existence of such and I do not hesitate to pronounce it a serious governmental danger that calls for wise legislative and executive session.

"I am now directing an inquiry into the efficiency and economy of the departments, the aim being to improve the service and lower the cost of government.

"Our population has vastly increased, our tax-producing capacity has grown in proportion and the annual expenses of the government under the new conditions that surround it have been increased by many millions. Our Democratic friends are in the habit of saying that our government is taking out from the people in taxes a billion dollars a year and spending it for the expenses of government. This is an erroneous statement.

NOT TRUE INDICATION.

"The net expense of running this government derived from the proceeds of a tax on about $100,000,000 a year, not a billion dollars per year. The total appropriations is not a true indication of the expense derived from taxation. As an illustration I cite the postoffice department.

"In addition to the ordinary expenses of $600,000,000 appropriated for by Congress last year there was also appropriated for the expenditures of the postoffice department approximately $250,000,000, but the postal revenue was practically equal to the postal expenditures and the burden of that department upon taxpayers this year will therefore be practically nothing.

"Our Democratic friends are saying that the Democratic party came into power to power the people with the expenses of this government $300,000,000. Do they mean that the Democrats would abolish the pension list? Do they mean that they would give up the navy and disband the army? Do they mean that they would abandon Porto Rico and the Sandwich Islands and the Philippines? Let us have a little specification.

WORTH OF STATEMENTS.

"What are such statements worth unless the gentlemen who make them give us the details of the expenditures that they criticize and expect to avoid if they are let into power and become themselves the national government?

"It is possible to save money in carrying on this government and we are now struggling in this administration to find out how to do it on principles of business organization and efficiency may be applied to a governmental structure that has been handed down for a hundred years and never has been reorganized with the idea of securing modern business economy. But it is hard work and then one speaks glibly of $300,000,000 being saved each year in the ordinary conduct of the government and when that saving is made under the direction of a party so lacking in everything that goes to make up business cohesiveness and singleness of aim and view as the Democratic party, we regard the statement as a piece of idle chatter. These remarks without a reference to the action taken by our party in the State of New York during the present week.

DECLARING PRINCIPLES.

"The cause of Republicanism has been heartened by the declaration of principle and by the nomination of an exceptionally satisfactory ticket with a highest character and ability. Henry L. Stimson has been the powerful ally of good government in this administration and he has made under the direction of the party in the State of New York during the present week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—List of dead and most seriously hurt in the race.

The Dead:

D'VIVIA, FERDINAND, sales manager of Pope-Hartford Automobile Co.

BACON, WM. S., Stone's mechanic.

MILLER, CHARLES, Chevrolet's mechanic.

Seriously Injured:

LYNCH, EDWARD, 70 years old, of Glen Cove, L. I., knocked down and killed by automobile party of unidentified persons returning from race.

CHEVROLET, LOUIS, left arm and leg broken, possible internal injuries.

STONE, HAROLD, driver of Columbus car No. 12, may die.

D'VIVIA, MRS., leg broken.

PIREY, C. H., driver No. 47, severely injured.

HAGERHORN, H. H., clerk, mortally injured.

KITRELL, C. H., mechanic, critically hurt.

L. MORRIS of 221 East Broadway, leg broken.

MILLER, THOMAS, of College Point, skull broken and internal injuries.

HEIDMANN, MRS. GUSSE, 78 years, of Floral Park, bruised and cut, possible internal injuries.

ROOS, MRS. MARTHA, Floral Park, back hurt, cut, possible internal injuries.

COOKE, JOS., cut and bruised, possible fractured skull.

REED, C., leg broken.

PAMPIER, WILLIAM, New York, broken nose, contusions; struck by Mercer car.

PAMPIER, MRS. WILLIAM, cut and bruised; same accident.

ZEBECK, AUGUST, nephew of above, contusion; same accident.

CAFFRAY, WALTER, 13 years old, of Richmond Hill, fractured leg; struck by racing car.

GOLDBERG, MAX, of New York, fractured knee; struck by racing car.

HAYMEN, MORRIS, of New York, general contusions; same accident.

LEVYSON, MORRIS, of New York, fractured knee; run down by touring car.

BOIRBOUGHS, JOHN, general contusions; same accident.

like a fly under a steam boiler, while Chevrolet was hurled fifteen feet or more. His left arm and shoulder were broken.

In the automobile that the racer cut down were seated Mrs. Martha Roos, Mrs. Lillian Roos and Mrs. Gusse Heidmann, 70 years of age, mother of the other occupants of the car. Mrs. Lillian Roos' leg was broken and Mrs. Martha Roos' back was sprained. In some inexplicable manner Mrs. Heidmann escaped with bruises and shock. All were taken to the Hempstead Hospital. Miller's home was in Dallas, Texas, and this was his first race.

AUTO LIKE AEROPANE.

Matthew P. Bacon, Stone's mechanic, was killed when the machine leaped over the Meadowbrook bridge. The accident was caused by the bursting of the left rear tire of the racer. The car took the air like an aeroplane, clearing the cement parapet of the bridge and turning twice over before it crashed to the ground. Bacon was caught under the car as it fell. Stone fell clear, but was picked up unconscious. He was rushed to the Nassau Hospital.

misunderstanding. "But mistakes of this kind are not permanent. Let us constantly remember that if we stick to our principles, if we insist upon efficiency in government, if we perform our promises in the future as in the past when opportunity offers, if we determination to carry on the work of progress as we have understood it, then because we are an effective and progressive party, because we know how practically to carry on government, because we have principles by which we propose to stand in the face of victory or defeat, we shall certainly be continued in power."

DEAR MADAM—

Our Exclusive Custom Tailors have just sent us the most complete assortment of strictly Man Tailored Suits ever shown in Oakland.

The custom idea has been followed out in both styles and materials. Our buyer, Mr. Ferguson, selected the cloth personally from one of the largest importers of Men's Fabrics.

The line of Custom Tailored Suits displayed here this week are exact copies of imported custom creations from New York's most exclusive tailors that are asking from $85 to $125. This is doubly interesting when you know our prices are less than half the leading Custom Tailors ask.

COSGRAVE'S Custom Suits are equal in every respect to the finest models shown by any tailor. They are made of English tweeds, dark navy blue and black Serges, Mixtures and strictly mannish effects with new ideas in custom styles made from finest imported broadcloth, plain or stripes, in all the wanted shades, including the new tones of Gray, Dark Navy and Brown.

Our tailors use only the best linings and trimmings. Every suit made to hold its shape. Positively not ironed just to hold for a few days.

The racers did not swerve or diminish their white-tinted speed, and almost before the unconscious and mangled spectator had rolled into a ditch the car had vanished in a dip of the road.

AMBULANCES KEPT BUSY.

As fast as the ambulances and Red Cross automobiles could run off to the hospital with the injured, reports of more accidents were received.

Rounding the Westbury turn at sixty-five miles an hour the Pope-Hartford No. 67 driven by John Fleming, just nipped Thomas Miller of College Point as he was crossing the road. It was only a glancing blow, but its terrific energy spun Miller in the air, breaking his leg and ribs. He was rushed to the Nassau Hospital and his leg will probably have to be amputated. The machine that hit Miller continued.

MAN IS INJURED.

Morris Levinson of 221 East Broadway was in the crowd and was knocked down and his right leg broken. He was removed to Nassau Hospital. Knipper jumped from his car as soon as he stopped it and ran to the side of the injured man. When Levinson reached the hospital there were nine men and two women being cared for by the surgeons. All victims of the race. They were coming in so fast that it was impossible to get the names of all.

All of the accidents were witnessed by great crowds. Fully half a million

RACE FOR LIFE TROPHY; MET DEATH

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 1.—Before the eyes of 50,000 horrified spectators Alvin Karpis was instantly killed this afternoon when the automobile he was driving as an amateur in the Franklin life trophy race ran into the fence at the far turn of the state fair grounds race track. The fatality caused an abandonment of the rest of the day's racing program.

Vredenburg was president of the Springfield Automobile Club. He was host of Walter Brooks, the aviator, who was standing on the porch of the Sangamon Club talking to Vredenburg's mother when the situation at the far end of the course gave token that an accident had occurred.

Heart-rending scenes were enacted at the Sangamon Club. Most of the members of the Vredenburg family were on the porches. They were almost crazed by the shock. Vredenburg, who was only 24 years old, leaves a bride of only two months.

New Mexico Gains in Census Returns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The population of the territory of New Mexico is 327,356 as enumerated in the thirtieth census, according to the announcement of Census Director Lurand today. This is an increase of 138,086 or 65.6 per cent over 188,310 in 1900, when the twelfth census showed an increase of 37,854 or 24.6 per cent over the previous ten years.

St. Joseph, Mo., 77,403, a decrease of 25,576, or 24.8 per cent over 102,979 in 1900.

Shawnee, Ok., 12,474, compared with 3462 in 1900.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR IS UNDER THIRTY

ROBERT P. BASS, just nominated on Republican ticket for Governor of New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 1.—Robert P. Bass, who was recently nominated on the Republican ticket for Governor of New Hampshire, is a graduate of Harvard Law school. Following his graduation he was associated with his father in business. Upon the death of his father he gave up the practice of law to look after the family estate.

150,000 COTTON OPERATIVES OUT

Seven Hundred Mills in England Close Doors to Employees.

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 1.—The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners today declared a lockout of 150,000 operatives and at noon closed the doors of the 700 mills owned by its members. This tying up of the Lancashire industry is the result of a trivial dispute arising from the discharge of a single employee at the Fern mill in Oldham. The total number of men idle in England as a result of differences between employer and employee is now 200,000. Unless George Ranken Asquith, controller general of the commercial, labor and statistical department of the board of trade, is successful in his efforts to arrange a settlement of the latest quarrel hundreds of other workmen will be without employment next week.

Runaway Team Damages Track

Traffic on the Western Pacific was delayed for about an hour Saturday afternoon when a runaway team ran into and damaged a switch in Fruitvale, leaving it open.

The driver of the team, realizing that an accident might occur, notified the company and remained upon the ground, flagging all trains. The section crew was sent out to make necessary repairs.

late, in which pursuit he has recently been engaged. Bass is a young man, being still under 30, and his nomination has met with the approval of the entire party in the state. His legal education is one of his chief assets and the experience which he has acquired in the business world in the last few years adds another qualification which makes him a logical man for the high executive office in the state.

ZANGWILL, IN 'MELTING POT,' GAVE VIEWS

ISRAEL ZANGWILL, author of "The Melting Pot."

"Some years ago I began working on a problem having to do with the future of the Jewish race," says Israel Zangwill, author of "The Melting Pot," that is coming to the Macdonough, "and it was then early borne in upon me that two or three important things were bound to occur if the then-present plan should be followed. The Zionist movement, which had for its ultimate object the return of the Hebrew people to the land of nativity, Palestine, had been interested in a long time. I also was the president of the Territorial society, and this society appointed a geographical commission to find an alterative location for a Jewish state. If such a plan as this was feasible, as I wished to know it.

"America is the melting pot, the crucible in which all the nations of the earth are being fused to create a new race, the American people. This is concrete symbolism, if you will, but none the less symbolism.

SHE MUST LEAVE OR GO TO JAIL

Jennie Gay, by Name and Nature, Faces Long Term Behind Bars.

A solution of the problem of keeping objectionable characters out of the city was evolved by Judge Morison Smith this morning in the case of Jennie Gay, who has been before the court a score of times on vagrancy and drunkenness charges.

Judge Smith this morning sentenced the woman to six months in the city prison, and ordered the withholding of the commitment, giving the woman 12 hours to get out of town. Without further action on the part of the court, it will be possible for the authorities, should the woman be found in Oakland any time in the future, to execute the commitment and place her in jail for six months.

NOT PART OF TERM.

The action of the farist I based on a decision handed down in the United States Circuit court of a case which states that the term of imprisonment fixed by judgment in a criminal case does not commence to run until the defendant is actually delivered at the place of imprisonment and that any time he is temporarily at large by any legal means must not be computed as part of the term.

"Do you understand this law?" Jennie Gay was asked by the judge. "It means that you have served no time, but that I will not have the sentence put into effect at this time. You have 12 hours to leave town. At any time in the future, if you are picked up here, whether it is six months or as many years, this commitment can be executed, and you will have to serve your full term. Now go!"

Mission District to Hold Holiday Fete

Talks on Teeth

—BY—
(INCORPORATED)

Nature Out Done

It is a difficult matter to set a money value on a perfect set of teeth. Those who have lost nature's teeth and have had to rely on the various makeshifts which the average dentist can supply would be better able to ascertain what a perfect set of teeth would mean to them than would those men or women who had never lost any.

Heretofore the only substitute that any dentist was able to offer for missing teeth was a plate or the ordinary bridge, which is a structure set in between two teeth.

The first named is a nuisance, because it introduces a foreign substance into the mouth, a cumbersome affair which destroys the speech of the victim who is compelled to wear it.

The bridge, on the other hand, fills up the vacancy between the teeth, but it is not practical because, being higher in the middle than at either end, it is dangerous as well as painful to bite on it. It is also unsightly because of the fact that food can become lodged underneath.

The world was waiting for something better than these appliances for supplying lost teeth, and when the Alveolar Method was first announced by us some few years ago it immediately met with the public's favor.

It has been necessary for us to open offices in many of the leading cities of the country to take care of our rapidly increasing business. In time we will have to open other offices so that there will be a chain of Alveolar dentists from ocean to ocean and from the Northwest to the Gulf.

The Alveolar Method of supplying missing teeth without the aid of bridge work or plates is possible where there are two or more teeth left in either jaw. With these two teeth to work from and to act as anchorages we are able to supply all of the teeth which have been lost and to set them in the mouth so firmly that the wearer can use them with as much comfort and satisfaction as he did his natural teeth.

The process of supplying this work is one that calls for no surgical operation, no boring into the gums, cutting or any other discomfort or torture. It calls for the highest degree of skill on the part of the operator employed by us, for the teeth must sit exactly or there will be trouble.

Here is a letter from Mrs. Alvey, who lives right in your home city. Go and see her and see her teeth:

Oakland, Cal., July 29, 1910.
Rex Dental Company,

My Dear Sirs: Comparison is often made in connection with the modernity of the Rex Company and the obsolete mechanism of the ancient one.

Gentlemen, your up-to-dateness is of the kindest kind as far as I am concerned.

I wish I could help you in your quest for knowledge, but I am afraid you will have to look farther. Nature is all but outside. She will have to look to her laurels.

I can eat corn off the ear, for which pleasure I thank you very much.

Respectfully,
MRS. HATTIE ALVEY,
574 East Ninth Street.

Mr. Alvey says she can eat corn off the cob and thanks us for it and that our work is complete in every detail. We venture to say that it would take a good many thousand dollars to buy the Alveolar Teeth from Mr. Alvey, if she felt she would have to go back to her condition before she met us.

If you are having trouble of any kind with your teeth you will be doing yourself a great service by coming to our office at the earliest possible moment and having a careful diagnosis made of your case by our examining dentist. This service is entirely free and will not obligate you in any way to have any work done.

If it is not possible for you to come to see us at the present time, do the next best thing and send for our book, "Alveolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail.

It is a very valuable treatise on the teeth and written in language that the layman can easily understand. The book is free and we shall be glad to send it to you promptly upon receipt of your request.

Compulsory Vaccination Causes the Death of a Child.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 1.—Compulsory vaccination is held to have caused the death of a child.

The irritation resulting from the vaccination prompted the child to rub or scratch the wound, which became infected with tetanus germs. Evident symptoms of lockjaw appeared and though the boy was promptly taken to the Springfield hospital and given antitoxin treatment, he died after forty-eight hours of agony.

POLICE BALL PROMISES TO BE SUCCESS OF THE SOCIAL SEASON

MUSIC WILL BE EVENING'S FEATURE

Committee Meets With Hearty Reponse in Disposing of Tickets.

Indications point to the fact that the forthcoming ball for the benefit of the Widows' and Orphans' Aid association will be one of the largest affairs of its kind ever held in Alameda county.

Wednesday, October 12, Discovery Day, is the date selected by the police department in which to enrich the treasury of the association and in company with its friends and well wishers enjoy an uninterrupted night of merry-making.

The great pavilion in Idora Park will be ablaze with lights from the domes to the entrances and throughout the spacious grounds.

Among the many persons who have signified their intention to be present to help along the worthy cause of charity will be representatives of Governor Gillett's staff, members of the army and navy, the honored judges of the court and a host of representative citizens prominent in the affairs of the city.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Chairman of the general committee Richard McSorley, is very busy with the final arrangements for the ball and is being assisted by Sergeant Robert Forde and Officers Al. Poulter and J. J. Gardner, who are devoting the hour when they are off duty to the membership of the floor committee.

The latter committee is to be especially energetic in seeing that every person attending the great event will enjoy himself or herself, to the fullest capacity. The work of the floor directors will be a thing long to be remembered.

The band of music will be under the personal direction of Thomas Valera and previous to the grand march will render several selections from their repertoire.

TWO SOLOISTS.

Frank Pigone and Val Bakewell will be the soloists and a quartet composed of Messrs. McVey, Learn, Otis and Miller, will render a song or two.

A special committee from the police department is visiting the large concert hall in Oakland and are meeting with considerable success in disposing of tickets as the business men realize the worthiness of the undertaking, and are thereby assisting the police force.

The best of order will, as usual, be maintained and the Chesterfields are being rehearsed daily by Sergeant William McCloud who holds the record as being the personification of dignity and poise and is imparting his gifts to the members of his committee.

WHITE PLAGUE SHOW AT CHUTES

Prominent Women Plan for the Great Fair to Aid Crusade Against Tuberculosis.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Under the auspices of the San Francisco Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, a show will be given at the Chutes on October 16. It will be managed by a board of very well known women, with Mrs. William H. Crocker as chairman.

The Chutes Park has been chosen as affording ground for pleasure with room for the display of several exhibits pertinent to the cause. The latter are such as will attract more than passing attention, both through their artistic and because of the manner in which they will be presented.

They will be featured as electrical illusions in which many details of the disease are shown in a very vivid manner in addition to customs now in vogue for its prevention. The illusions are practical teachers but are arranged in very attractive form, the sudden transformation of a satisfying the onlooker and keeping his attention closely engaged.

WILL ASK PUBLIC AID.

The association which is in possession of these exhibits and many others will ask aid in finishing rooms in their building, which have never been furnished.

The upper floor will be largely used for the placement of models, and will be prepared also for a lecture hall, a committee room and used for other purposes. In something over two years of organization, the association has accomplished much, having built its own home, established clinics where the sufferers in all stages of tuberculosis are treated daily free of charge. It has made an effective crusade on insubstantial conditions and has spread the teachings of clean living to a wide extent. Now that the work may be further carried on, the public is asked to contribute toward the large army of tubercular patients.

The ladies having charge of the affair are Mrs. William H. Crocker, chairman; Mrs. Lawrence I. Scott, Mrs. George Pope, Mrs. Mountford Wilson, Mrs. Walter Martin, Mrs. Charles Joseph, Mrs. R. D. Gerwin, Mrs. John P. Merrill, Mrs. George M. Pinchard.

UPRISING IS NOT SERIOUS, HE SAYS

Prince Suin Certain That Reports of Boxer Troubles
Are Exaggerated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Reports of an uprising in China, to guard against which it is reported that the American army in the Philippines is being hastily prepared, are declared by Prince Suin, uncle of the Emperor of China, to be greatly exaggerated.

He said he thought the news reports were unduly alarming and that any uprising occurred it would be found to be of a purely local character.

Prince Suin, who is staying at the Plaza, said he had been much gratified by the courtesy which he met on all sides in this country and that his first visit here had been one of the most pleasant occasions of his life.

Prince Suin today went to the Brooklyn Navy Yard with Admiral Sain and four naval officers just back from Newport News. They went aboard the Connecticut and inspected the ship. Prince Suin, however, would make no comment for publication.

Enlistment in Navy May Cost Fortune

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The longing of Horace Logan Keeler, twenty years old, of Richmond, Ind., for life in the United States navy, may cost him a fortune of $2,500,000. It has been learned. The young man, a son of Harry C. Keeler of Richmond, enlisted at a naval recruiting station in Chicago on September 7. Two months previously his grandfather had died.

Keeler was not told of the provisions in his grandfather's will. By the terms of this will young Keeler's heir to property valued at $1,500,000, provided he earns not less than $75 a month until he is twenty-five years old. Keeler enlisted as a medical apprentice in the navy for four years at $2 a month. Lawyers representing the Keeler estate intimate that they will appeal to the War Department to save the fortune for the young man.

ELKS IN BATTLE FOR LEADERSHIP

New Monarch Rules in Golden Gate Paddock Across the Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Reno, the giant elk in Golden Gate Park, is no longer master of the paddock's open spaces. Nineteenth avenue. From the fiercest and most dangerous animal in the park, not excepting Monarch, the big grizzly, he has become almost in the single day the gentlest and most affectionate creature in the world.

For years Reno has bowed the paddock. Even Superintendent William Leland and his assistant, George Miller, have always been wary of entering the paddock until lately. Now they are able to stroke the mane of the giant elk. He even follows them about to be petted.

The complete subjugation of Reno is due to the teaching of Hans. Hans is another elk fully as big and a little bit stronger and more courageous than Reno. In the words of Superintendent Leland, Hans, "wiped up the paddock" with Reno a day or two ago. Hans is now master of the paddock.

RULER IS DEFEATED.

Hans was recently purchased by the park commissioners and placed in the same paddock with Reno. Hans' horns were still in the paddock when he came to the place. They were very tender. Reno had "rubbed" some time before he chased Hans about at will.

Then came the reckoning. Hans "rubbed" also. The battle came. It lasted all of one afternoon. The howling and the whistling of the giant elks could be heard from one end of the park to the other as they fought. The sun had set before it was ended. And then, through the dusk Reno, defeated ruler, crumpled and covered with blood, might have been seen slinking away while Hans bellowed his challenge attack.

On the following day Reno was a changed elk. From an outcast he had become the mildest creature in the park. For the past two days he has spent his time wandering around close to the fence rubbing his nose against the hand of every sightseer who passes by.

Boy Thrown Beneath Wagon and Injured

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Thrown from the rear of the wagon on which he was stealing a ride early tonight, Samuel Goldstein, a six-year-old boy, was run over by a truck at Mason and Market streets and seriously injured. The little lad's body was crushed under a wheel of the vehicle and received possible internal injuries and bruises and cuts on the head and face. He was treated at the Central Emergency Hospital.

Arrested on Charge of Making Threats

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Peter McDonough was arrested today on a charge of vagrancy. When he appeared in the police court it was stated that threatening letters had lately been sent to the offices of the California Transfer Company, situated at Pier No. 5, and that the prisoner was suspected of sending the letters. He was arrested in the neighborhood. The case was continued pending an investigation.

KING PETER'S RULE OBJECT OF ATTACK

Monarch Blamed for Country's Bad Industrial and Financial State.

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—A section of the Serbian press lately friendly to King Peter has suddenly begun to make violent attacks upon his rule, blaming it for the desperate financial and industrial situation and for the innumerable murders and other crimes at the general state of anarchy prevalent in the country.

The vehemence of the outburst is exciting unusual attention because it is inspired by the adherents of Prince George, who are unwavering in their efforts to announce his success in the throne.

George has been obliged to part with his favorite horse, his pockets are empty and he has not even a penny with which to buy postage stamps. His apartments are unheated and quite unsuitable to the Prince's health, which is delicate.

HARBOR LINES TO BE CONSIDERED

Reasons for Or Against Bulkhead Line Changes Will Be Heard by Board.

There will be a public hearing held by the San Francisco Bay Harbor Line Board in the Council Chamber of the Oakland City Hall, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, to consider any reasons for or against the change in the bulkhead line proposed by the city of Oakland between the Southern Pacific mole and the Key Route pier. Any other changes in the harbor lines on the east side of San Francisco Bay that may be brought up will be considered.

For Rheumatism and Nervousness

Excess uric acid causes more complaints, pains and ills than all other unnatural conditions combined. Rheumatism, Nervousness, Liver and Kidney troubles, Backache, Neuralgia, and all kindred complaints, result from excess uric acid in the system.

The quickest, surest and best way to eliminate excess uric acid is by wearing Electropodes. These remarkable galvanic insoles radiate life, health and strength to every organ and tissue of the body. Circulation is increased, nerves strengthened and entire system toned up. All poisons and impurities are eliminated, through the large pores of the feet.

What Others Say

One man from Nebraska writes: "My mother had Rheumatism so bad she was unable to get out of bed without aid. This is her second pair of Electropodes and she is now able to do her own housework."

A lady from Pennsylvania writes: "I was troubled with swollen and cramping feet. Since wearing Electropodes I have had no cramps, and the swelling in feet and limbs has nearly disappeared."

We will gladly furnish names and addresses of these parties on request. We have many similar letters from people whom Electropodes have cured.

The fare from Oakland to Salt Lake City has just been reduced by the Western Pacific and in the future passengers buying tickets to that city will only have to pay $23.58 instead of $30, the previous rate. The reduction went into effect yesterday morning.

LEASES BUILDING.

The Globe Express company has leased the building belonging to Kahn Bros. on Broadway, near Fourteenth, and plans are being made for extensive alterations. This building will be one of the finest offices in the state and the company expects to be able to move about the 20th of the month.

NEW INTER-LINE OFFICE.

C. F. Corrigan, traveling passenger agent for the Southern Pacific company, has returned from Suisun, where he has been for the past week assisting in the establishment of an inter-line ticket office. Hereafter San Francisco and Suisun will have a direct line of travel, and since the completion of the new depot at that place the company has made arrangements for this agent to be handled by the local agent. Corrigan reports business extra good during the past month.

ROSS TAKES VACATION.

John S. Ross, city passenger agent of the Southern Pacific company, left last night for the Kings River canyon, where he will spend his vacation.

MAKING HENS LAY.

"Billie" Frost, in the office of John Backus, representing the Burlington, has found a new way to make hens lay. According to reports in railroad circles, he has just an even dozen hens and reared eighteen eggs every day. He will not tell how it is done, but admits that the feed he gives his hens has a lot to do with his success. He says that he is still experimenting and hopes in a short time to be able to make all his hens lay at least two eggs per day. These hens are said to be of a very fine variety and their owner is very proud of the fact that they have not laid a bad egg since they came into his possession.

DUCK SEASON ON.

Employees of the Southern Pacific ticket office are now aware to the fact that the duck season is here. For the last two days the hunters have bought hundreds of tickets to the hunting grounds. The trains have all been crowded with hunters, many of whom have killed the limit and returned to their homes rejoicing. It is said that the ducks are plentiful this year, but as most of them are packed on the preserves the hunters are flocked to these places in large numbers. The waters have all been well baited and in the last few days the ducks have had a feast. They are now being received a grand welcome, as all the clubs are well represented.

Child's League to Convene in Alameda

Alameda will have a second Child's Welfare League mass meeting on Monday evening in the First Methodist church, corner Central avenue and Oak street. Rev. Willie M. Martin will preside and will introduce the following speakers:

Miss Bessie J. Wood, president of the Child's Welfare League; "What the Child's Welfare League Stands for," Superintendent Will C. Wood of the Alameda schools; "The Place of the Public School in Child Welfare Work," Mrs. Cora E. Jones, of the California Playground Commission; "Playgrounds in the Smaller Cities," Probation Officer Christopher Ruess; "The Juvenile Court and Public Opinion."

The meeting will be open to the general public. A previous meeting was held in the Alameda City Hall, and in November and December meetings will be held in central and in west Alameda. This is an example of the thoroughness with which the county is being covered by the present educational campaign of the league.

MAN DISAPPEARS ON WAY TO WORK

Wife Believes Husband Has Been Shingled by Sailors.

Leaving his home ostensibly to go to his work as a structural iron worker on the Oakland Hotel last Tuesday morning, James R. Williams of 22 Forty-third street, has disappeared and his wife is making a frantic search for the man. He did not show up for work, and no trace has been discovered to indicate what became of the man after he left his home early Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Williams has applied to the police of the bay cities, and a search of the morgues and hospitals has brought to light nothing concerning the fate of the man. As he was a man of regular habits and fond of his home, his wife fears that he has met with foul play, and has told the police that she believes a man may have been shingled. Orders have been issued to watch all ships leaving the harbor during the week.

Williams was a man of thirty-four years of age, medium height, dark brown hair, blue eyes. When last seen he was dressed in workmen's clothes. His wife is prostrated with anxiety over the man's disappearance.

The father of John A. Archibald, a San Francisco youth 17 years of age, has reported that the boy has been missing since the latter part of August. The Oakland police have been asked to assist in searching for him.

Miss Abbie Fisher Weds at San Clara

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 1.—Miss Abbie Fisher, formerly well known in Oakland and San Francisco, and married Wesley Baker, formerly of San Francisco, but now of San Jose, were married here last night at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. L. C. Schoor, 335 Harrison street. Only relatives and a few friends were present. The Rev. J. W. Palmer of the Presbyterian church officiated. A wedding supper followed, after which the couple left for Los Angeles where they will remain a week.

They will live in San Jose, where the bridegroom is in the contracting business. The bride's wedding gown was of embroidered chiffon imported from Venice.

POLICE COURT HAS BUSY THIRTY DAYS

September Banner Month for Fines and Forfeitures Collected.

September was the banner month in the annals of the local police so far as police court business is concerned, according to Court Bailiff Charles McCarthy, who keeps the records. Fines and forfeitures alone in the two courts amounted to almost $7,000, and the department registered a total of over $8500 worth of lost and stolen property recovered in the thirty days.

The report follows:
Total receipts for the month of September, $13,103; total receipts Department 1, September, $6720; total receipts Department 2, September, $6383; total checks paid favor Department 1, $6825; total checks paid favor Department 2, $7445; fines and forfeitures Department 1, $3554; fines and forfeitures Department 2, $3237; total number of warrants served September, 109; total number of subpoenas served September, 55; total number of arrests made September, 529; total value of lost and stolen property recovered September, $8,211.67.

French Boy Gives Tourist Odd Answers

PARIS, Oct. 1.—American motorists and cyclists who have spent their summer holiday in France doubtless will have noticed the difficulty they had in obtaining clear answers as to distance or direction from the peasantry. A correspondent who experienced water motoring from Pont-taise by a pretty road which led through villages toward Rouen. The correspondent writes:

"A lad was fishing and I asked him how far Rouen was."
"That depends," he said.
"You seem an intelligent lad," said I.
"What is your name?"
"The same as my father's, monsieur," he answered. I looked for a smile, for he was perfectly serious. "Are there many of you in the family?" I asked.
"As many as my plate have you?"
"One each," was his answer.

BESSIE ABBOTT NOT TO DISROBE

Stage Curtain Will Drop as She Loses Clothes in Godiva.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—November 14 will be the biggest day that New York has had for many reasons. There will be three "operings"—those of the horse show and of the Metropolitan opera and also the first production of Mascagni's new opera, "Ysabel," in which Bessie Abbott will play the part of Lady Godiva, who rode through Coventry. Ralph Edmunds, who has just arrived in Paris from Milan, says that Miss Abbott is indignant over the reports of her contemplated management of the scene of the famous ride. The fact is she will wear a blue velvet cloak designed by Caramba of Milan, and dressed thus she will cross the courtyard of the palace to where her white horse waits. Then as she drops the cloak the curtains will be drawn.

The story of the ride is told in the intermezzo. Miss Abbott, who is now in Paris, will sail October 19 on the Oceanic. The complete company, with chorus and orchestra, will sail from Genoa, October 13. Before he sails, Mascagni will give concerts in London and Paris. This is the first opera Mascagni has produced since "Amica," which he wrote five years ago.

MADAME AND HER Private Chauffeur; THEIR STANDING

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—What is the proper relation of a private chauffeur to his lady patroness? That is a question just now agitating San Francisco society's most exclusive circles. It came up from Santa Barbara, where society this year has indulged in all the transports of summer fun-making.

The question was started by the actions of a middle-aged matron of the highest social standing and the most spotless reputation. She appeared on the scene with a chauffeur a out half her age—a personable and presentable young fellow. He kept her motor car in excellent order, and was duly attentive as a servant.

But Madame insisted on having him at table with her and on lodging him in the part of the hotel reserved for guests. She wanted his room next hers, so he could be attentive in case she wanted to have her car hastily called at night. At the table she was most solicitous as to what he would eat, and sometimes insisted on ordering dishes not on the Hotel Potter's regular American plan bill of fare. In fact, a lady seated at a nearby table reported that Madame was heard to say:

"My dear, wouldn't you like a squab?"

Out of this simple arrangement there arose much talk. Relatives of Madame had much to say. The chauffeur lost his place—at least, temporarily. So up comes the question: What is the proper relation of a private chauffeur to his lady patroness?

Why Have a Duck Limit?

Today the duck season opens, and tonight many a man will sit with his mallard or sprig and his bottle of properly temperatured Burgundy and declare that life is worth living again. We are especially favored in having good duck shooting close at hand and a great variety of fine fat birds for the huntsman.

But now arises the old question whether there should be a limit bag on ducks? Time was when the huntsman went out and shot as many ducks as he could without fear or fee. Then it was said he was destroying the game and that ducks on the marshes would soon be extinct. So a limit bag of fifty ducks was imposed by law and each hunter was taxed $1.00 a year, part of the money being spent in seeing to it that he did not exceed the limit of his bag.

The ducks did not become more plentiful. So that limit was cut to thirty-five ducks a day. But there was no appreciable effect on the game. Then down came that limit to twenty-five ducks. Still there was no increase in the number of birds on the marshes—possibly a decrease.

And then it was found that the bag limit was all nonsense—that the limit was all on the wrong end. The protection was after the horse had left the stable and not before he had run away.

It seems that the scarcity of ducks is not attributable to the hunter at all. It is caused by the chaps who gather duck eggs in the northern breeding grounds—gather them by the millions upon millions for the albumen used largely in photography. So it is the egg and not the duck that needs protection and a limit.

The Pheasants of Phil Bekeart

Down in the marshes of your county Phil B. Bekeart has established a preserve—one of the most elaborate in the State—that he calls Curlew Lodge. In addition to seeing to it that his ponds are properly baited to attract the ducks, Bekeart, who is a famous wing shot and sportsman, has set about raising a lot of fancy fowls in which he takes pride.

Knowing his liking for the matter, his friends have been sending him eggs of different breeds of fowl, until he is getting a great collection. It also is to be borne in mind that Bekeart is a practical joker of persistent ability. I was he who got Pete Sloan to kill and retrieve a back-load of mud-hens under the impression that they were rare black teal.

A short time ago some chaps in Seattle wrote to Bekeart: "We are sending you a setting of eggs of the rare Chinese pheasant." The sportsman awaited the shipment with eagerness and anxiety. Sure enough, the eggs came through in perfect condition.

Bekeart made a special trip to Curlew Lodge to have those eggs set at once. Reaching his shooting box he asked his keeper:

"Have you got a settin' hen?"

"Not one. They are all busy on other settin'gs."

"Then go out and buy one."

"They are hard to buy just now."

THE KNAVE

TRIED TO HATCH Pheasants From GUINEA HEN EGGS

"Pay $5.00 for one if you have to. I must get these Chinese pheasant eggs under a hen right away."

The man hustled, and at last bought the hen. A few days ago Bekeart got this message:

"Those Chinese pheasants are only Guinea hens."

Now Was This Just Politely Clubby?

San Mateo and her "set" are talking a good deal about the way a trick was turned at bridge whist. It wasn't the odd trick, and yet it was an odd trick for all of that. This is the tale:

There was a pleasant little bridge club in San Mateo—a women's bridge club. It was made up of the swagger matrons of the place. Of course some matrons felt they were swaggers than others, and of course the others didn't think so at all. That is the way of bridge clubs among the maids and matrons.

After a time there came to be a more or less general notion that one matron played bridge so badly that—well, she was an undesirable citizen, as T. R. would say. But her social standing was of the best. She wasn't "talked about." There was no way of bringing a charge against her. But it was felt that she played so badly it was impossible to keep up interest in the game as long as she remained in it.

So that trick was turned. One day the club matrons got together and solemnly voted to disorganize, disband—go out of existence. The matron who played so badly couldn't exactly tell why, and she couldn't get any very cogent or definite reason. But the club was voted no more, and this matron and the others went to their homes.

A week or two afterward that bridge club was re-organized, revived—put on its feet again. The members were the same as those in the old club. Did I say all—yes, all but one. That poor player was left out. And, now, was that just clubby?

Not All Bubbles in the Glass

When you see a wine agent keeping the corks in the air, riding in automobiles, leading the social route, popular at the clubs, you may be inclined to envy him his lot. His life seems all summer. He makes his money in doing what many of us do for fun—in eating and drinking and being a jolly good fellow.

But there is another side to the picture: It is not always summer for this butterfly of the champagne. It's a hard life, after all, and by and by the knots come in the fingers and the doctors have to do a lot of patching up between the bouts. And then, when it is hard to keep being a jolly good fellow and the younger men with the fresher stomachs and harder kidneys begin hitting up too stiff a pace for the veteran, he is apt to be thrown into the discard with no note of warning and left to shift for himself.

I'm minded of this by the case of "Jack" Caffrey, once an Irish patriot on the Ould Sod, and for many years one of the most widely known champagne men in America. Well, Jack has been with the house of Pommery for over twenty-two years. He has grown gray in the service. He has the knots in his fingers. He isn't just in condition to jump into a new line of trade.

Yet the other day came a curt and formal letter from the house he had served so long and so well, telling him that after the first of the year his services would be no longer required. So he just as formally set in his resignation, and was left to ponder on the brusqueness and ingratitude of a world that on the surface is all bubble and sparkle, without a trace of "lees."

Don't Show Your Ignorance

If you are passing that splendid classic building of the Metropolitan Life up on Nob Hill you may notice that the two flagpoles on the front lawn are painted a decided red. When you have noticed that fact, be just a little careful about how you comment on the color or the taste of it.

A good many people have so commented. Those red flagpoles have caused almost as much comment as the big beer sign that, thank heaven, is polluting the night no more. But if you think about the red poles, keep your thinks to yourself.

A fresh young man tackled J. R. Miller, the architect of the beautiful structure, the other day:

"Say, Jimmy, in the devil's name, why did you paint those flagpoles red?"

"What is the type of architecture in the building?" asked Miller calmly.

"Why, Grecian, of course. In Greece the flagpoles are all red."

Which shows that if you are artistically ignorant it is far better to keep the fact to yourself and not go around singing about it.

The Forest King

Some remarkable things happen in the game of politics, but the singular conditions they develop frequently vindicate that they are the result of a rare foresight and that their purpose is a particularly sane and practical one.

This country, this State, is undergoing a somewhat strenuous agitation on the subject of conservation. In California, as in some other States, the agitation is directed largely to the conservation of timber. I have been told that the leader, the real head of this conservation disturbance, is none other than Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, the "lumber king."

That Weyerhaeuser should have a keen interest in the conserving or cornering by the Government of all the timber not already in private holding or in Government reserves is apparent in the fact that he now holds or controls fully 30,000,000 acres of timber land, 10,000 square miles, an area six times as large as the State of New Jersey. With all the timber that could in any way compete with that within his control conserved, that owned by Weyerhaeuser would advance by leaps and bounds, so as to make him twice the billionaire which it is estimated he now is.

Weyerhaeuser is master of great stretches of forests from the Wisconsin lakes to the Pacific Coast. Pretty much everything outside of the Government forest reserve is tributary to Weyerhaeuser. This "lumber king" is credited with personally owning more timber acreage in the United States, Canada and Mexico than any ten other lumber men combined. His wealth, mostly in vast reaches of forest, is said to exceed that of John D. Rockefeller, by popular repute the richest man in America.

The name of Weyerhaeuser has for years been associated with that of James J. Hill, the railway magnate. His partners are thousands and through some of them his transactions in California and the Northwest have been enormous. Acting through one of his many partners, Weyerhaeuser has been steadily and quietly gathering vast tracts of timber lands in this State. These movements have been construed as the forerunners of the plans of James J. Hill for railroad building in California.

Harking back to the political significance of "Lumber King" Weyerhaeuser's interests in conservation in this State, attention has been called to the fact that his principal partner or representative here has been active in the current campaign. His interest has been shown in his personal, if not financial, support of conservation or insurgent candidates.

This interest has not been displayed demonstratively, but rather through club and other social channels. It is perfectly consistent with the methods pursued by the "lumber king," the "man of mystery," who for the past fifty years has worked so secretly and persistently to accumulate the vast forests, the possession of which is believed by lumber men and those advised in the financial world to make him the richest man in America, and with a prospect of doubling that fabulous fortune in a comparatively few years.

Heney Is a Problem

In anticipation of the arrival of Francis J. Heney in this State, announcements having been forwarded that the special prosecutor is going to deliver "several speeches," Meyer Lissner, chairman, and other managers of the new Republican organization, have been busy posting signs, "Keep off the grass." There was some telegraphic correspondence between Lissner and Heney when the latter was at Salt Lake, and prior to the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee going south a week ago.

While all are mum on this subject at headquarters, it is said that Heney expressed a desire to orate in his campaign, but that Lissner forcefully protested against his "butting in."

The executive committee of the State Central Committee was divided on this question, the Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers wishing to both banquet and put Heney on the stump, but Lissner and his followers having just declared for a straight Republican ticket, they could not consistently call upon a Democrat to take the speaking platform for a hybrid ticket, including both the Democrats and Republicans selected by the Good Government League, to talk for which Heney had been called back to California.

The Heney clique insists, however, that he will deliver "some speeches," but just under what auspices they do not state. The first enthusiasm over a complimentary banquet is on the wane and interesting developments may be forthcoming.

The managers of the new Republican machine say that they have troubles enough already, and they have warned Heney to keep off their reservation.

Among the quite recent arrivals in this city is William J. Burns, tailor, detective and orator. He may take the stump with Heney, but no official or semi-official announcement to that end has yet been made.

"Leftie" Bannon on Deck

"Leftie" Bannon, who got into the public prints the other day by reason of a mix-up with a country horse dealer, on a visit to San Francisco, the outcome of which was a black eye for the horseman and another term of imprisonment for "Leftie," once was a conspicuous figure in the political life of San Francisco.

"Leftie" was a lieutenant for the late boss Bill Higgins and ruled the roost in one of the south side districts. So great was "Leftie's" "pull" that he defied the police, and no matter how many times they might arrest him for creating disturbances and other misdemeanors, the charges against him always were dismissed in the police courts.

In those days of red-shirted guardians of the peace Jim Smith, father of James Smith of the Western Fuel Company, and also of Ed Smith, former tax collector, patrolled Fourth street, then the toughest thoroughfare in the city. Big Jim had often arrested "Leftie," but a word from Boss Higgins had as often secured his release.

One night Policeman Smith took the law into his own hands and thumped "Leftie" good and plenty. "Leftie" complained to Boss Higgins and asked what he should do in retaliation.

"You had better go home another way," was the sage advice of the Republican boss, and which suggestion "Leftie" followed for many a year after.

Out for the Spoils

The Good Government League of Los Angeles has for its secretary and guiding star, George Baker Anderson, who performed similar services for the Good Government League in San Francisco during the last municipal campaign and actively participated in the malodorous postage-stamp primary of that period.

The Good Government League of the southern city, as is its twin organization in this city, is busily engaged in killing all candidates that are supposed to have any connection with the regular Republican organization. There they have put a third ticket in the field, as have the Goo Goos of San Francisco, the latter nominating a Democrat for every office to which a regular Republican has been nominated.

Meyer Lissner, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, is in the south endeavoring to harmonize regulars and insurgents, but the Goo Goos, who were once the pets of Lissner, decline to be harmonized and persist in reminding the state chairman of his promise to join with them in a non-partisan ticket.

In this city the Good Government machine has declared for a hybrid ticket, largely Democratic, while the Lissner organization has adopted resolutions endorsing a straight Republican ticket. The Goo Goos are acting in pursuit of a trade with the Democrats running to a division of the spoils in the next municipal campaign.

The combat is on, with indications that it will be waged with increasing bitterness, not only until the close of the current State campaign, but down and through the city canvass next year.

Admiral and His Feet

There are some of his friends who can tell what Admiral Thomas Phelps, U. S. N., is talking about in spite of the fact that they may be at any given moment thirty or forty feet away from him and unable to hear what he is saying. Admiral Phelps was a very busy man a week ago last Monday when Prince Tsai Hsun, the head of the Chinese navy, arrived from the Orient, for he had to show honors to the distinguished guest on behalf of the navy department. He was on the go early and late and was much in evidence that Monday night at the St. Francis. About midnight, Phelps was seated in Peacock alley all alone for a few minutes. Several of his friends espied him at a distance and thought they could see his lips move as he talked to himself. Going up to him, they wagged the dinks that he had been talking to himself and that they could tell what he had talked about.

"Yes, I was communing all alone," replied the companionable navy man, "but for the drinks you cannot tell what I was saying to myself."

"D—n those corns," is what you were saying to yourself," they cried in unison.

"That's correct," replied the surprised admiral. "But how did you guess it?"

Over a social glass they told Phelps why they had guessed aright. The admiral, like many other people both in and out of the service, is troubled with corns. Lately they have been a great bother to him and his friends told him that they noticed during the past month that his corns seemed to be his favorite subject of talk and complaint. So they thought that setting aside and talking to himself, after a hard day with the Chinese Prince, that he certainly must be berating his corns.

The admiral is now swearing he will never mention his feet to any living man again, no matter how the corn crop pains him.

Knight Will Be Careful

George A. Knight, the attorney and well-known Republican orator, says he will be very careful from now on when he personally threatens to throw out of his office. This new rule of conduct on his part is the aftermath of a recent experience. One day a man, young, short and stout and very polite in manner, came to Knight's office, with a bill for furniture delivered. Knight informed him he had come to the wrong man, that there was another Knight with the same initials as he had and no doubt he was the man who owed the bill. The next week the collector came back to the lawyer's office with the same bill. Knight explained to him again that he was not the man who owed the bill.

THE KNAVE

"Don't come back again or I'll throw you out," concluded the lawyer.

"No you won't," was the firm reply of the collector.

"I won't this time," remarked Knight. "I give you warning this time. If you call again, I'll put you out."

Smiling, but insisting Knight could not throw him out if he called again, the man with the furniture bill departed.

A few evenings later, Knight, with some friends was at the Olympic Club. There he saw Mr. Bill Collector in his pastime as an amateur boxer polish off neatly, so to speak, several husky fellows who thought they could box.

"I saw enough to satisfy me," said Knight in telling of the affair to several friends at the Palace, "that the fellow was right when he told me I could not put him out if he called again. But he never called again, fortunately."

Why Militia Men Fell

Members of the California militia, who are to have fifteen days' joint army practice with the regulars under Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., are recalling how a few years ago in a sham battle attack on Boston the newspapers charged that the command under Bliss was treated roughly, many of the men falling in their tracks from utter exhaustion. The California boys need not worry. They will not have that experience at Camp Atascadero. A friend of Bliss told me the truth of the Boston affair last night. The story has never been published before. Bliss was ordered at the last moment last summer in the Massachusetts joint maneuvers to take command of the army which was to attack Boston and capture it if it could. This command consisted of a lot of militia and some regulars. The army protecting Boston was in command of General D. H. Hughson, a militia general. Bliss, a regular army general, did not like the idea of a militia general winning a victory in a sham battle against him, and was determined he should not do so. Bliss is a tactician of ability, and he used his knowledge and experience in tactics to outwit the army of defense. Some extended and rapid marching had to be done to accomplish his purpose. So by forced marches he got in behind General Hughson and had Boston at his mercy. The regulars with Bliss stood the trying ordeal of forced marching, but the militia to a considerable extent was not equal to the task in its last hours. That is why so many of the militiamen fell exhausted. Bliss, however, saved himself from defeat at the hands of a militia general, and also from being laughed at by his regular army advocates in case he had failed to outmaneuver General Hughson. So strenuous a campaign is not on the cards at Camp Atascadero. If it were necessary, Bliss would do it over again, his friend says.

S. F. Real Estate Values

In the last number of the Political Science Quarterly, Thomas Magee, the well-known real estate broker, has an article on how the 1906 fire affected land values in San Francisco. Magee states in part:

"As to prices paid for property after the fire, there was a reduction, probably of from 10 to 40 per cent, depending on the location. Market street, the backbone of the city, suffered least."

The depreciation of from 10 to 40 per cent lasted but a few months. When the people caught their breath, they realized that San Francisco still held the power of position, and that her place on the map was a guarantee of permanence and eventual greatness. Within a few weeks Market street property sold above the best former prices; and today the original shrinkage of probably 10 per cent has wholly disappeared. In other locations, where the depreciation was as high as 40 per cent, depending on distance from old established centers, the depreciation now varies from 5 to 25 per cent, not exceeding the latter proportion."

A group of Easterners proposed to buy some of the best properties on Market street immediately after the fire. This syndicate attempted to buy at 60 to 70 per cent of former values; but when it discovered the independence of owners on that street and the confidence they felt in the speedy restoration of values, it immediately withdrew from the field. Outside of the best retail section, everywhere except on Van Ness avenue and Fillmore street, this syndicate could have bought freely at bargain rates, but it considered nothing but Market street. * * * At present San Francisco enjoys the unique reputation of being the only brand-new city on earth. From the vantage point of new and better and more permanent buildings, with rents as high as those that prevailed before the disaster, the majority of property owners now look back on the fire as a blessing in disguise. A New York banker visiting here recently said: "Your loss may be $300,000,000, but the advertising is worth $600,000,000 to San Francisco." The eyes of the world turned toward San Francisco; its location, its back country, and its prospects were reviewed; and that of itself was a great aid toward giving permanence and stolidity to values."

Schwab Likes Reporters

Charles H. Schwab, the multi-millionaire shipbuilding and steel man, was very complimentary to the press representatives here, saying that the reporters who interviewed him were not only accurate, but they carefully refrained from publishing things he talked about with them, but did not want put into an interview with him. Speaking generally of the press, Schwab makes the sweeping assertion that he never knew of an instance where a newspaperman had violated his confidence. This recalls to mind the experience of Senator Leland Stanford, who, in his day, was the subject of many an interview. Stanford always said that the newspaper representatives invariably respected his confidence. Collis P. Huntington remarked shortly before he died that of the many reporters who had interviewed him in his long and active career only two had violated his confidence. One of these occasions was when he was interviewed in San Francisco and the other in New York City. The late Edward H. Harriman would never be interviewed until after his quarrel with the then President, Theodore Roosevelt. Harriman got so that he liked the experience of being interviewed and liked the men who did the interviewing. "Jim" Hill, one of the greatest of American railroad builders, thinks it a compliment to be interviewed by the press and has hosts of friends among newspapermen. The same is true of Carnegie.

New Home of Bohemians

Saturday, November 12, is the official date for the opening of the new and pretentious home of the Bohemian Club at the northeast corner of Post and Taylor streets. In the clubhouse is a cozy theater capable of seating 600. In this playhouse on the night in question, there is to be elaborately staged a Greek play that Peter Robertson has written. The "Oracle" is the name of the piece, and the accompanying music is by Humphrey J. Stewart. The character of Bohemia in the play is to be taken by the talented Allan Dunn. Mackenzie Gordon's fine voice will be heard to advantage in the music of Stewart. The theme of Robertson's effort is—Bohemia being blessed by the gods in the temple of Apollo. From what I am told, the play, music and staging, together with the artistically-finished appointments of the theater itself, will make the event the most noted in the history of San Francisco clubdom. In Robertson, the club has one of its oldest and most talented members and a dramatic student, writer and critic of note. So it is especially fitting that he should write the play for the opening night in the new clubhouse of Bohemia, a place which is destined for many years in the new and Greater San Francisco to be one of its most cherished and famous institutions just as the old clubhouse was in the old days.

Affairs in the Isthmus

Dr. Victor Blue of the United States Marine Hospital Service and Lieutenant-Colonel Carroll A. Devol, chief quartermaster of the Panama Canal Commission, were at the St. Francis the other day fresh from the isthmus. In a talk in the hotel lobby with friends they both told of things on the isthmus which give an interesting insight into human nature in its variety. Besides successfully fighting the mosquitoes to combat the dreaded yellow fever on the canal zone, there is a strict quarantine law against countries in the yellow fever zone. People coming from those countries must stay in quarantine for six days, no matter how healthy they are.

"To show the cussedness of human nature," remarked Dr. Blue, "it is people from yellow fever countries who make the most objection and protest against the six-day quarantine or any kind of quarantine before being allowed to land on the isthmus when down in their hearts they know how necessary the utmost precaution is to prevent the disease at Panama or anywhere else. Why, just let one case of yellow fever get on the isthmus and you cannot tell how it might raise havoc."

Colonel Devol says there are 25,000 negro laborers at work on the canal and about 7000 Spaniards and other nationalities. He says the commission has found it necessary to employ other nationalities as laborers in order to hold the negroes down to any sort of discipline. But for men of other nationalities at work as laborers, the negroes, mostly from Jamaica, would quickly get the idea they were indispensable and become unruly.

Tales From the Arctic

House Detective Frank Bray of the Palace and Tex Rickard, the Nevada mining man and prize-fight promoter, spent some years in the Far North and have an inexhaustible fund of stories about dogs, men and gold close to the Arctic Circle. Bray tells when he was with an outfit that had twenty-four big sled dogs. They were all dandies and patient and long-enduring pullers. There was a peculiarity about one of them, however, that made the camp suspicious of him. He seemed to dream at night and every so often he'd rouse out of his sleep and jump at the nearest man's throat. He did this trick at least twenty times, according to Bray, but was always caught in time with the ash. On being caught with the lash he seemed to come out of his frenzy and howl his repentance. One night the man on watch dozed off. This dog jumped at his throat and began tearing at it. The camp was roused and the dog beaten off. He then jumped at a dog and severed his jugular.

"We were all sore," continued Bray. "Dogs were valuable up in that country and here we had a dead dog and a mad one on our hands. We decided to put the dreaming fellow on trial before we killed him. We gave him counsel and we had a prosecuting attorney, a judge and a jury of two men. The dog's counsel pleaded hard for the animal, declaring that if he were properly whipped he would be scared out of his dementia. He laid great stress on dementia and begged that the demented dog be not killed, but only tied up every night. The prosecuting attorney, I remember, said he didn't care a d— about fancy names—it was just plain mad dog. The jury decided against the dog and he was shot."

Photographs in a Damage Case

Saw the other day a copy of an extensively illustrated brief prepared for an appeal of a case to the Supreme Court of Texas. The brief was prepared for the Southern Pacific Company by one of its Houston attorneys. About two years ago a young woman was injured in a Southern Pacific passenger train accident and sued the company for $60,000 on the ground that her spine had been permanently injured as a result of the wreck. During the trial the company's attorneys were able to introduce into the case before the jury photographs of the young woman in various attitudes a year after the wreck. From the story the photographs tell she must be a devotee of outdoor sport and a gymnast and acrobat of no mean ability. One photograph showed her climbing a tree a considerable distance up. In another she was shown standing on her head on a log. In another she was standing on one foot on a high rock. Still another showed her in the act of jumping on a fast-moving automobile. One showed her helping to roll large boulders to promote the gaiety of a picnic crowd. Her attorneys had to admit that the photographs told the truth. The jury gave her a verdict for $2000. The contention of the railroad is that the young woman only sustained trivial injuries and is not entitled to the amount called for by the verdict. Hence the appeal with the unusually interesting series of photographs in the printed brief. The pictures would do credit to some prize photograph contest. I understand the pictures were taken by the young lady's friends and scattered around from time to time. That is how the railroad lawyers happened to get a set of them. The attorneys for the young lady did not know what was going on for the ruination of their client's big suit for damages until it was too late.

Grace Was a Good Spender

So Grace Van Studdiford, the music opera star, who has sang here many a time and oft in "Red Feather" and other comic operas, has finally landed in the bankruptcy court. The attractive and statuesque Grace used to be several years ago when on her trips to San Francisco a popular guest at the St. Francis. "I've got money to burn," she was fond of telling her friends and she used to burn both it and her spare time at a "jolly gait," as the Britisher might say. The bell-hops could almost divine her wants and attended to them in a jiffy so liberal was she with her tips. The chauffeurs, who did business at the St. Francis, were always sure of a gold piece after they had taken her and her party for a whirl. The fair Grace liked to spend on others instead of having them spend on her, no matter what their sex was and she found plenty who made no objection to her in the role of the spender. Then all of a sudden she fell foul of the St. Francis management. She left the place and went to a rival hostelry. The reason for the falling-out was never given, but she remarked very openly that the St. Francis would some day regret that it lost her favor and patronage. Whether the hotel has ever regretted losing the sweet singer as a guest, it is impossible to tell. If not heretofore, it would not very well regret her now as a lost guest with her in the financial dumps.

Reënt Attack on American Women

The women of the California Club, a commendable institution for the practical good it does even if its pretensions to the higher mental activities are not always warranted, are much wrought up over a new book, "The Modern Eve," which has come out of Italy from the pen of one Scipio Cighele. They are to verbally castigate this daring author for his attack on American women and mentally tear in tatters the statements contained in his book at one of their meetings in the near future. I hold no brief for either the club women or the author bold. The latter, as near as I can figure out, sees in the spreading tendency of emancipated femininity the creation of a new being, and she whose divine function is sacrificed will live for self alone. She will demand so much for herself that she will forget her children and her husband, if she elects to have them at all. Here is a sample of the author's views which has started the women of the club on the warpath against him: "Women in America have lost their sex. There are no women there, no wives. If the unsexing of women continues, American men will have to seek wives in Europe, and particularly in Italy, where women are still mothers." As American men will continue to marry right here at home instead of going to Europe, or Italy, in particular, for that purpose, there is no reason for undue excitement on the part of the good sisters of the California Club.

Chinese in Evening Dress

Without noise or bluster, the well-to-do Chinese of San Francisco are fast getting rid of their queues and beginning to wear American evening dress. The night the Chinese gave a reception at the St. Francis to Prince Tsai I sun, over a hundred of them were so clothed and without queues. Several in the Prince's own party were similarly attired and also minus the queue. The same was also true of Hung Kwai, secretary of the Chinese legation at Washington, who came west to greet the Prince. If the Chinese have been conservative about one thing, it has been their dress and queue. The reception of a few nights ago therefore is indicative of the present receptive condition of the Mongolian mind to things Occidental and is a notable event in this, the first and largest Chinese colony in the United States. In this connection it will not be a miss to state that the character of the Chinese in San Francisco has in other respects changed. Before the fire, the Six Companies, clubs and other organizations had idols and altars in their meeting places, and merchants had representations of their deities in their stores. These heathenish figures are missing in the new Chinatown. With the symbols of idolatry not now before their eyes everywhere as formerly, the Chinese seem to be more self-reliant and progressive in the opinion of some of their best men who are not classed as Christian converts.

Washing Dogs

Have you heard of the man in the town who is making a good living washing dogs?

There is such an individual and his charge is $1 per bath. He is an Englishman, who has had something to do with the dog in all his variety all of his lifetime. For about two years and a half this fellow has been devoting all his time to this peculiar calling. Steadily his clientele increased among the well-to-do people, who have one or more pampered pets of all kinds and descriptions to be found in dogdom, that for a year past he tells me his monthly income has never been less than $150. It is his experience that most people with pet dogs are content to have them given one the rough bath each month. Some few want their dogs bathed every fortnight. With rare exceptions, he does the bathing of the animals at the homes of their owners. It was through one or two society people that he got a start at his novel business. Since then it has gradually increased and he hopes to have 220 owners of dogs on his monthly visiting list before the end of the year. It is this Englishman's observation that in the homes of the well-to-do where there are children there will also be found a dog. He does not think it true that dogs are petted and pampered at the expense of children, or that dogs abound in homes where there are no children. This man has no competition in his novel line of work.

The Test in Oregon

What with Arizona people seeking to have drastic initiative, referendum and recall provisions put into their new State constitution and a lot of people in San Francisco seeking to amend the municipal charter for the same purpose, it will be of interest to watch things political in Oregon where these and other direct legislation features are already in force, and where they will be given their first great test at the November state election. Friends from Portland at present in the city tell me that the voters of Oregon next November will be compelled to attempt law-making functions by direct voting on thirty-two measures, twenty-five of which come from innovators, agitators, or self-seeking groups of citizens, having been framed without regard to conflicting needs of the body politic or substantial justice for interests involved. The result of the election, these friends say, will determine one way or another the permanency of the direct legislation principle in state politics in Oregon. They personally favor some direct legislation feature in city charters, but when it comes to applying them to the state as a whole they believe more confusion than good will result. The state election as a test will therefore be of unusual interest.

Colonel Theo. Gier Prepares Sonoma County Retreat for Ceremonies

The members of the Oakland Maennerchor, accompanied by a large number of friends, will go to Sequoia ranch in Sonoma county, where they will spend two days October 9 and 10 as the guests of Colonel Theodore Gier. The occasion will be a fiddle Saengerfahrt, and is one of the annual celebrations in which the German singing organization takes part.

John Buhmann, who is closely identified with the society in all its festivities, is chairman of the committee having the affair in charge and is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the members and guests on that occasion.

LA FOLLETTE WILL AGAIN ASPIRE TO PRESIDENCY

Wisconsin Senator's Friends to Campaign for Him Throughout the Country

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 1.—Senator LaFollette is again to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1916. It can be said that this fact was freely spoken of during the sessions of the Republican convention at Madison and plans were even made during the convention for the immediate starting of the campaign for Senator LaFollette in other states.

The public announcement of his candidacy for the presidency will be made some time during the winter. Campaign committees will be formed in all the states to press the campaign of the Wisconsin senator and a fight will be made in all parts of the Union for his candidacy.

TO APPEAL TO PEOPLE.

The appeal will be made directly to the people and the voters will be told in advance that if they desire to see a man who will really fight the great centralized capitalist interests it is their business to see that men are sent to the Republican national convention of 1912 who will give their support to LaFollette.

The program of the entire Republican convention at Madison was arranged in a good many ways in support of Senator LaFollette's presidential ambitions.

"NOT TEDDY'S POLICIES"

Congressman Lenroot of the Eleventh district in fact did not hesitate to tell the convention in his address that the policies which were being exploited around the country now by Roosevelt were LaFollette's policies. While Republican platforms plainly set the birth of the progressive movement in the Republican party to LaFollette.

Senator LaFollette To Be Operated Upon

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 1.—Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin will undergo an operation at St. Mary's Hospital Tuesday morning for inflamed gall bladder and possible complications of the appendix.

This is the result of a conference between Dr. Mayor and Dr. Philip Fox, the senator's attending physician after examinations lasting two days.

The case is not serious and it is not considered that the senator will suffer any great inconvenience through the operation. According to the statement of the Mayor an operation at this time is not vital but would be rendered sooner or later and for this reason is advisable now.

Philadelphia Canary Can Talk Quite Plainly

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—A talking canary bird is a curiosity which has attracted great interest in West Philadelphia. Pete the pet of Mrs. Peter T. Carney, developed linguistic powers about two months ago and has already acquired a vocabulary which includes "Pretty little baby" and "Pretty little bird." The canary speaks distinctly without hesitation and seems pleased to exhibit its newly developed gift. Pete is twelve years old but until recently gave no evidence of his ability to talk. He however, confines his conversations to the interval between 1 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

INITIATION VICTIM FOUND GAGGED AND BOUND

Youth Had Plaster Over Eyes and Hands Tied to Tree.

Doubt has arisen in the police department as to whether or not the recent ruling of the Board of Education has had the desired effect in preventing the initiation of new members into secret organizations in the local high schools.

Last night an anonymous call to the central station, informed the fact that a youth was bound and gagged to a tree in the neighborhood of Meridian street and Telegraph avenue with his face tightly bound in a manner which it appeared he had been gagged by his blind.

Officers Green and Caveney responded in an automobile and found Howard Thompson of 377 Gammert street, the student, with his eyes had been bound with adhesive plaster and though his hands were tied he was free to do as he pleased otherwise. Not far from the scene were congregated a host of youth and initiators who explained that the presence of Thompson and been merely the occasion of his initiation into a secret order. Officer Green assisted in releasing the student from the plaster from the face and he immediately hastened to his home where he was being treated by his mother.

Feeling that the youths had received just compensation for his entrance into the exclusive set the surprised person took him in charge and escorted him to a quiet quarter beyond the ker of a building who returned to the station feeling that the matter was more for the investigation of the school department than for the police.

Aphanizomenon Is a Bad Smell in Water

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A new affliction has settled upon New York. It is aphanizomenon. Official notice of its appearance was served by the department of water supply, gas and electricity.

Despite its scientific name, aphanizomenon threatens no peril. It is one of the plant growths commonly known as algae, which in long drought has ceased to appear in the reservoirs from which city water is drawn.

Complaints that a bad taste and disagreeable odors were noticeable in city water caused the department to make an investigation which brought to light the cause. To quiet fears that disease might be caused by using the water, a statement was issued saying that aphanizomenon is not a menace.

Bishop Loses $2500; Porter Restores It

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The priestly discoverer of Benjamin Jackson, a poor porter of a flat on the French Line pier, has all the money restored to him. The bishop of New York, after a long search, discovered the loss of his pocketbook containing about $2500 in French and American money. Just as the ship was casting loose and a great hubbub followed, Jackson got $2500 as a reward.

TWO DEATHS FROM INFANT PARALYSIS

Sunday Schools of Middletown Close; Dozen Cases in Stricken Town.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 1.—The first Sunday schools of this town held no sessions last Sunday because of the prevalence of infant paralysis. A dozen cases have been reported, six of them within the last two days. The local physicians have said that they were unable to diagnose the disease in any of the cases or give a reason for its spread.

Two deaths have resulted. The victim was a girl in the senior class of the high school. The baby daughter of a Mrs. McIntire, an instructor in the high school, has been stricken and is now in a critical condition.

Because of the fact that the disease has developed in the high school, many parents of the children in the town have met to consider the closing of the schools but after discussion in the morning voted to keep the schools open. The disease is widespread and needless alarm.

There is great fear of an epidemic as parents undoubtedly will withdraw their children from the schools.

SLAIN BY BROTHER OF MAN HE KILLED

Police Chief of McAlester, Okla., Shot Dead by Avenger from Philippines.

McALESTER, Ok., Oct. 1.—George England, chief of police of Coalgate, was shot and killed this morning as he was leaving a restaurant by Frank Thompson. The killing was the result of a feud.

Six years ago a brother of Thompson was chief of police. He was removed and England was put in his place. A quarrel followed and England killed Thompson. He was tried and acquitted.

Six weeks ago Frank Thompson returned from the Philippines and went to work in a livery stable. He lay in wait for England as he stepped into the street and shot him dead.

England was one of the best known men in the eastern part of the state. He was a cowboy and champion rider.

Y.W.C.A. CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP

Women's Organization Offers Many Inducements for Joining Association.

For the last ten days an enthusiastic body of young women have been working to add one thousand members to the roll of the Young Women's Christian Association. They are calling upon all the young women of the city and asking each to become a member and pay into the treasury of the association the modest fee of one dollar a year.

This organization is the largest women's organization in Oakland and offers many inducements to the young women. Among the privileges can be counted the Cafeteria, the free employment bureau, the rest and reading room and many other things that are of particular interest to the members.

The members are also given an opportunity to attend classes in literature, language, art, elocution, cooking, millinery and dressmaking. Each winter a free course of lectures and an entertainment of a high order is open to the members.

Santa Rosa Educators Campaign for Health

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 1.—The Santa Rosa Board of Education is making a strong campaign for health in the schools here. Not only are individual drinking cups to be provided and individual towels in the lavatories, but a corps of local physicians is giving a course of lectures to the students of the High School.

NO WORD FROM WOMAN

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 1.—So far the whereabouts of Mrs. Victor Derrig, the woman who gave Lt. Etta Smith the money to get out of the court, and avoid being a witness in the case, are unknown to the address in of Miss Smith are unknown to the prosecution. The officers believe that before long she will be heard from. She is warred to explain her connection with the girl and of course, a witness and whether she gave her own money or that of some one else for whom she was a go-between.

This Important "Hale" Merchandising Event Continues Monday

The throngs that crowded our store Saturday attested the sterling worth of these offerings, and many others that this limited space cannot include. The "October Trade Sales" are our most important merchandising event of the year, and we have thrown into this sale the tremendous strength of the "Hale" five-store buying organization.

Trade Sales ordinarily apply only to the marketing of great individual lines offered by the MANUFACTURERS to the MERCHANT. They open the way for the disposal of immense quantities of goods. It is a transaction in which the "ultimate consumer" has no immediate interest. —Hale's Trade Sales deal with the customer and present some splendid buying opportunities.

Elegant Fall Hats of Fashion

GROWTH OF CRIME IN PARIS TO BE DEALT WITH

Return to Corporal Punishment May Be Outcome of Reign of Terror.

(By GEORGE DUFREINE.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The growth in criminality throughout the city has become so disquieting that a bill will be introduced at the reassembly of the chamber of deputies providing for corporal punishment for attacks on the person. It is believed by many of the deputies that the cat-o-nine tails would prove very effective in preventing an end to the reign of crime. During the month of July alone there were 63 cases in which revolvers were used and the police at their wits end as to how to deal with the Apache.

M. Lapine, prefect of the police, in a recent interview, declares that the law is sufficient and that it is only necessary to apply it. There are views that the culpable weakness of the magistrature no longer stands in the way of punishment. There is a healthy reaction against misplaced leniency, which shows no tender heart for the culprit and so curbs an indifference to the victim. The law officers are now exhibiting greater zeal to secure conviction and sentence of dangerous hands.

Despite this renewed activity, however, it is not believed that public opinion is likely to sanction a return to corporal punishment in dealing with the ruffians of this class.

REPLY TO EMPEROR.

The recent announcement by the French minister of war that the government had placed an order for ten Bleriot monoplane and twenty Farman biplanes is thought to be an indirect reply to the German emperor's recent extraordinary speech, in which he boasted of parliamentary irresponsibility. Nowhere in the world are the performances, oratorical or otherwise, of the former emperor followed so closely as they are in France. The Kaiser is still a hereditary enemy of the French, and, rightly or wrongly, France feels that it was a who was apostrophized by the recent speech. Accordingly, she means to adopt every possible manner of defense. By the beginning of next year, the French nation ## will possess the most powerful naval navy in the world, and will be able to mobilize six thousand properly manned, equipped and ready for immediate service under trained military pilots.

In a recent interview that I had with a high military authority he said: "Our policy is very simple. We wish to be as supreme in the air as England is on the sea. Therefore, we have in view a two-power and, if necessary, a three-power naval standard. We will build two or three ships to every ship built by other nations. Germany may devote herself to Dreadnoughts; we intend to obtain the supremacy of the air."

ALFONZO HAS DOUBLE.

The King of Spain has a double in Paris. In the person of a journalist. During a visit of His Majesty to Paris one of the illustrated papers thought that its readers would like to see the King of Spain in the act of being interviewed. The journalist was, therefore, put in a magnificent motor car, which drove to a place Vendome and stopped. A reporter climbed on to the step and, hat in hand, interviewed the "King," while the camera took the picture. Verisimilitude was added by a policeman who stood at the salute while the picture was being taken. The policeman, however, was under the impression that the King of Spain was in the motor car. His Majesty saw the picture and was very much amused, and when he came to Paris the other day, he sent for his double, who is doing his military service in a regiment of Cuirassiers and saw the likeness for himself. Both the King and the Queen were very interested and the King himself photographed with the Cuirassiers' regiment. This photograph, however, will not be published.

False Cry of Fire Is Cause of Death

MOLINE, Ill., Oct. 1.—As the result of an alleged practical joke Miss Emma Ball, 21 years of age, cashier of a local department store, is dead, and Mrs. John Guessford, wife of a railway fireman, is dying in a Moline hospital. Both were riding on the East Moline and Watervtown interurban last night, when the fuse burned out, and in the darkness an unseen fireman yelled: "Fire on fire!" The two women leaped from the car. Miss Ball died on the way to the hospital.

SHE WINS IN LOVE AS GRANDFATHER DID IN WAR

General Sherman's Grandchild Routs Opposition to Wedding.

(By VANCE THOMPSON.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Miss Eleanor Thackara is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Montgomery Thackara of Berlin. Mr. Thackara was promoted to the office of consul general at Berlin from the American consulate at Havre when Consul General Frank H. Mason was moved from the German capital to Paris. Mrs. Thackara is a granddaughter of the late General William Tecumseh Sherman, and her daughter, Miss Eleanor, inherits a goodly share of her grandfather's spirit.

In the consulate office is a young New Yorker, Frederick Caldwell, who holds the position of vice-consul. There he and Miss Thackara met and it was a case of love at first sight. The Thackaras—Mrs. Thackara is the leading spirit in the American colony of Berlin—had higher aspirations and when Cupid's arrows first began to fly, the parents sought to get their fascinating daughter out of the danger zone by sending her off on a visit to Ambassador Bryan and family, at their old Tokyo, Japan.

ABSENCE INCREASED ADORE.

But absence only served to make the young hearts grow fonder and Miss Thackara more determined. Then came the cherry blossom season in Japan, with all the love and sentimentality, and the mail brought such proof of the fair exile's irresistible yearning to return to Germany, where her father and mother and young Mr. Caldwell are, that the opposition was beaten down and General Sherman's granddaughter has made her triumphant march from Tokyo to Berlin and the engagement is announced.

Moreover, the wedding is to take place this month in the German capital, although it is the Rue De La Paix that is busy preparing an elaborate trousseau for the victorious young bride.

Among the bridal presents that will be sent from Paris two deserve special mention. One is an automobile especially equipped for the honeymoon trip, this being the gift of the bride's brother, Alexander Thackara Jr., who is in the automobile business here. The other is some precious souvenirs of the bride's illustrious grandfather General Sherman, which are in the possession of his friends, Governor Sprague of Rhode Island.

WORK OF SECRET POLICE EXPOSED

Russia's Famous Officials Are to Be Unmasked in Letter.

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—If it is information published recently by a London paper is correct, something like a "Secret Police" exposure of the methods of the Russian secret police will shortly be given to the world. According to this remarkable story, Souritz, the Russian revolutionist, who played so prominent a part in the unmasking of Azeff, divulged his information from a certain Leon de Menchikov, a trusted servant of the secret police, but at heart a friend of the revolutionist party. For twenty years he was employed in various departments of the police as chief of the police at Moscow, in Poland, and in Finland, and finally as successor of Raschkevitch in the branch of the secret police known as Okhrana. During this period all the important documents that passed through his hands he carefully copied, and the revelations which he is to make will be based on this documentary evidence.

It was Menchikov who, in a letter addressed to a certain member of the revolutionary party, unmasked the police spy and agent provocateur, Azeff. It was he who denounced Landau, alias Harding, the woman spy Countess, who carried on her operations in Germany, was forced into a confession to Souritz, owing to the documents supplied by Menchikov, who was also instrumental in denouncing King Cerebrakoff, one of the leaders of the advanced party in Moscow.

Friend W. Richardson has announced that he will not contest the nomination for state printer. He has thanked his many friends for the offer to raise $2000 for the contest, but will not avail himself of the offer.

LONDON BIRTHS IN LONDON'S RICH SET LOW

Statistics Show Rate in West End Goes Down 35 Per Cent.

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The most interesting feature of the church congress of Cambridge was a discussion on what in America is called race suicide. The Bishop of Ripon said the birth rate had gone down 35 per cent in Western London but has increased 2 per cent in the East End. Those who can best afford large families have the fewest children.

Another speaker made the striking statement that since 1875 the average number of children had halved in the best families of all classes in our nation. Jews and Catholics continue to rear families, the others voluntarily restrict theirs.

TO PAY MEMBERS.

It is understood the Liberal ministry will bring in a bill for the payment of members of parliament and of returning officers' expenses. Conservatives are all at sixes and sevens on this subject. Mr. Smith of Liverpool, who has been cruising in the Levant with Winston Churchill, has plunged for the payment of members, but the rank and file shrink from any measure that would render a parliamentary candidate.

The Berlin riots aptly illustrate the necessity for tact and caution in dealing with a street riot. The Prussian police-man is emphatically a man with a big stick and as his big stick takes the shape of a revolver and sabre, the result of letting him loose is somewhat bloody. The social democrats will gain many votes for every man and woman sabred or shot in the streets of the capital. What with high prices and police brutality, the stars in their courses seem to be fighting for the social democrats in Germany.

TALKED WITH JORDAN.

I lunched the other day with David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford University, who is on his way back to America after an interesting tour

ANNUITY IS ASKED BY WELL KNOWN WOMAN

New Suit Opened Against Pulitzer Estate After Claims Are Settled.

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—An amazing contract has just come to light and upon this contract depends the life annuity of a well-known woman and, indirectly, the validity of annuities from other insurance companies purchased by the late Albert Pulitzer.

The woman in question is Mme Vera Scala, who has begun suit against the Pulitzer estate. She claims that the late Albert Pulitzer left her a goodly slice of his estate. It appears that Mme Scala had been receiving an annuity from Mr. Pulitzer for many years and she shows a contract, by virtue of which it should continue during her life.

Among many other accomplishments, Mme. Scala has the reputation of being the best nurse in Vienna. The contract bound her not to marry during the lifetime of the late Albert Pulitzer. It also bound her to live heretofore at his beck and call at all times and at all hours of the day and night. Sometimes she would be called to his bedside in the dead of night to minister to an invalid, and she would be the patient. If he found a London theater draught he would telegraph to Mme. Scala to come to cure him of a cold.

The contract covered all parts of the globe. Thus, should Mr. Pulitzer cable from New York or San Francisco or Japan, Mme. Scala was bound to respond. Another condition of the contract required that she should live in the same house as the late Albert Pulitzer. He would tolerate no red or green and the contract states that he preferred blue to all other colors because the tone soothed his aching eyes.

Entire Stock to Be Sold Regardless of Cost Greatest Sale in History

It is a well-known fact that we carry the largest stock of ladies' apparel on the coast.

This stock is now most complete—the latest and most charming winter styles.

Dresses, suits, coats, skirts, waists and hats for women. Right at the beginning of the season, regardless of cost or value, the latest styles in ladies' wearing apparel at prices that read almost like a fairy tale, but they are here for you to take advantage of.

Be on hand to-morrow at 9 o'clock. By big odds the greatest of its kind ever held on the Pacific coast.

Cloth, Caracul and Fur Coats

At Less Than Cost of Manufacture

Remember that every garment in our entire stock goes in this sale, and that every one of them is offered at a price far less than it costs to make them.

$20 and $25 Cloth Coats $10

They are long coats, made of those rough tweeds now so much in demand. In fact, they are just the kind of coats to sell around $20 and $25. They are $10.

$27 Caracul Coats $11.75

These are high-grade Caracul Coats. In fact, we expect that they would go like lightning at double the price, but you know what it means to convert the entire stock into cash without notice.

$35 Caracul Coats $15

Here's another item that shows we are prepared to take big losses. These coats are exquisitely lined with high color guaranteed satin.

$75 Russian Pony Coats $39.75

Fine selected skins—beautifully made coats—long, dashy, and absolutely worth $75. These garments are elegantly lined with brocaded satin. They will satisfy the most exacting taste of the most refined dresser. By all means see them.

Highest Grade Man-Tailored Suits

Go into This Sale Less Than Half Price

Every suit in the house is included in this sale, for the entire stock must be rapidly converted into cash so that there is nothing reserved or excluded.

$22.50 Tailored Suits $12.75

These tailored suits have most successfully met all competition throughout the city at $22.50. The variety is most extensive. Choose among them at $12.75.

$30 Suits $15.75

Those beautiful hard finished worsted suits with $30 have been marked down to $15.75. These are ideal styles of very high character. Such reductions at the first part of the season establish a precedent in the annals of sales.

$37.50 Suits $18.75

You can buy a mighty fine tailored suit for $37.50. A suit in which the tailoring is exemplary, the materials of the highest order, and just such suits as these, form another group in this unlooked-for, unprepared for sale, which brings them to you at $18.75.

1,000 Silk Waists $2.95

Worth $5.00 to $8.00

Messalines, taffetis and plain silk waists, an aggregation of some of the prettiest waists we have ever seen at $5, $6.50 and $8.50. The entire lot, in its radiance of variety, style and color, to go on sale at $2.95.

$5 Silk Underskirts

Guaranteed 3 Months

These are our regular three months' guaranteed skirts. We have thousands of them to meet the regular demand, which is now the talk of the town. They go at $1.75.

Finer Grade $2.40

These are also guaranteed for three months. The silk is of a little more expensive texture and there is a little more finish to them. They generally retail for $6.50. Sale price, $2.40.

$7.50 Dresden Silks $3.35

These beautiful Dresden silks now so much in vogue, so attractive, so popular, sold at $7.50 and even more, go into this sale at $3.35.

Trimmed Hats $5

The price concession and extraordinary values in our millinery department have the same force as the balance of this entire stock. One of the strongest items is the group of beautiful white hats deftly trimmed and tastefully embellished, which will be offered at $5. The actual value of these hats will be best appreciated when you see them.

$25 Cloth Dresses

$12.75

$25 Cloth Dresses, the styles of which you will admit are among the tastiest you have ever seen, will be offered in a variety of styles and colors at $12.75.

$30 Silk Dresses

$19.75

These are suitable for theatres, parties and evening wear. We could call them costumes, which would probably better describe them. Anyway, they are only $19.75.

To Our Customers

As the Greater San Francisco Cloak Company is to continue in its usual way after this sale is over, it is our wish that our many friends be given the opportunity to take advantage of these tremendous price concessions, and for that reason none of this merchandise will be sold to dealers, but will be reserved for the retail trade.

REPUBLICAN BOOM SWEEPS MELORE DISTRICT

Tony Mazziotte Reorganizes the Famous Old Club for Fall Campaign.

LARGEST ORGANIZATION IN ANNEXED TERRITORY

Has Nearly 400 Members and Will Support State and County Tickets.

MELROSE, Oct. 1.—The reorganized Melrose Republican Club, the strongest of its kind in the annexed district, opened its new lodge rooms at the corner of East Fourteenth street and Forty-seventh avenue yesterday afternoon. The new headquarters were made by Tony Mazziotte, the capable leader of the club and the founder of the famous "raft" clubs which were organized through the country at the last presidential campaign. Immediately after the dedication service the club hurried down to work and asked for reports from all the ward captains, which were read to those present. Final orders were then given to the captains as to opening up the campaign in their districts. Many new members have been enrolled by the leaders of the respective districts. The club boasts of a membership of over 360. A. Smith, secretary, has charge of the local headquarters and is prepared to enroll all comers under the banner of the Republican party.

FOR MELVIN AND SLOSS.

Judge Henry Melvin and W. C. Sloss are the club's choices for seats on the Supreme Court bench, and all the members have pledged themselves to support them with a will. The other candidates for office who can rely on the aid and support of the organization are "Yank" Mazziotte for governor, Hiram W. Johnson for governor, John T. Cook for county clerk, William Bridge for supervisor, and George J. Hans for senator.

A few years ago this club was the strongest organization in the county, but after the death of its leader, George J. Mazziotte, the members started to drop out and the club-roomers were abandoned. Mazziotte, the present leader, was in the northern part of the State at that time and hearing of the condition of the once famous organization took it upon himself to come to this county and attempt to reorganize it. Judging from the membership at the present time it is evident that his labors were not all in vain.

The board of directors comprises Tony Mazziotte, president; A. Smith, secretary; B. Schaefer, financial secretary; C. A. Calhoun, C. A. Ellinger, F. H. Rollins, J. D. Soraz, P. M. Lange, J. McIlwain and F. Milton.

ASSESSOR GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—At a special session of the City Council held this morning, C. A. Assessor Harry Squires was granted a two-day leave of absence from his duties, to be taken on Monday and Tuesday, to visit his mother in the hospital for treatment.

NATURALIST TELLS OF FEATHERED FRIENDS

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—Charles Deane, a local naturalist, entertained a number of nature lovers with an address on birds at the home of Mrs. William M. Moore, Berkeley, last night. Deane is known as the "man who lives in the woods" and has the greater part of his time in the study of the native birds. He can indicate the notes of the birds in such a manner that a person believes it is a real bird singing.

Alameda Personals

ALAMEDA, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Arthur Morio arrived in New York on her return trip from Europe, where she spent several months ago to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Morio arrived on the Kaiser Wilhelm II on Thursday and was met in New York by Mr. and Mrs. William H. L. Hynes, who left here about two weeks ago for an Eastern tour. The Alameda club will spend the next week touring the principal cities of the East. They will be home at the end of next week.

Mrs. Fred Brooks of 1515 Broadway is entertaining a large house and to Mrs. Edith Brooks of Ben Loma and Dr. Darnhurst for the past month and will now be with Mr. Fred Brooks for the next two or three weeks. Dainty and as attractive as the hostess herself was the luncheon given by Mrs. Randolph McLintock yesterday at her mother's home on Central avenue. The luncheon table was a symphony in pink. After the discussion of the delicious menu the afternoon hours were devoted to bridge. The house lady who enjoyed Mrs. McLintock's hospitality were as follows: The Misses Glavin and Margaret Parsons, Caroline Hall, Charlotte Hume, Rose Conner, May Jiscoll, Amy Swartz, Emily Lomelle, Jack Ellinger, Margaret Dunne, Jessie White, Azsulla Langan, Edith and Helen White, Roberta H. Scott and Mrs. Harry Welch. Mrs. Ernest McLintock entertained the Little Sewing Club, composed of the young maids and matrons from both sides of the bay at her home on San Antonio avenue yesterday. After a session with the sewing large the ladies enjoyed a delicious light repast. Those of the fifteen who were present yesterday were Mrs. Guy Gould, the Misses Anne and Mary, Edward De Cima, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Edith McLintock, Mrs. Harden, Mrs. Howard Baxter, who is a member of the club, was unable to be present on account of her recent illness. Mrs. E. G. Rissman of 2190 Van Buren street entertained about fifteen friends yesterday at a house warming. Mr. and Mrs. Hagan took possession of their new home on September 1. The friends came with offerings of flowers, potted plants and many pieces of beautiful china and cut glass for the new home. Games, music and conversation with a short session at what made up the pleasant afternoon. Those asked for the serving of delicious refreshments were: Mrs. J. J. Gorman, Mrs. J. C. Gorman, Mrs. E. Nellie Slapton, Mrs. W. M. Ramsey, Mrs. W. J. Kohler, Mrs. Emily Quinn, Mrs. M. P. McIlroy, Mrs. E. Fisher, Mrs. L. Lombardi, Mrs. A. Mousnier, Mrs. E. Plummer, Mrs. Winifred, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. B. Treadway.

NEW BERKELEY INSTRUCTORS TO TAKE UP WORK

DR. G. Y. RUSH

Dr. Glanville Rush (above) and Dr. Fred Clay, new professors at the University of California.

Drs. Gay and Rusk Come to Instruct at University

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—Two new members of the department of pathology arrived last evening from the east. Dr. Frederick P. Gay, to be professor of pathology, and Dr. Glanville Rusk, to be assistant professor. Dr. Gay comes direct from Harvard university, where he has been a member of the medical school. Dr. Rusk is a graduate of Johns Hopkins university, where he took his doctor's degree. He comes now from New York, where he has been for seven years pathologist to the Manhattan state hospital and to the Psychiatric institute.

Berkeley Society

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—The Witches club, an organization which meets monthly for an afternoon with needlework, convened yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. P. King, 2420 Dwight way. The women comprising its membership numbered, together about four months ago for the purpose of making garments for the families of their acquaintance. Their work being conducted along personal lines and not connected with any local charity.

Two new members joined yesterday and the list now includes the following: Mrs. Walter P. English, Mrs. E. P. King, Mrs. Marion King, Mrs. E. S. Hall, Mrs. W. C. Gibson, Mrs. Patricia Calhoun, Mrs. L. C. Campbell, Mrs. George P. Gibson and Mrs. Maud Curran. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Calhoun 2424 Dwight way. The first of a series of four dances, which was given last night at Town and Grove hall and proved a successful affair, will be given next week. A recent musical was furnished by Sanders' orchestra. Light refreshments were served and the committee in charge of the arrangements carefully planned the details of the evening. Those serving as attendants were Mrs. E. O. Davis, Mrs. J. H. Hermann and Mrs. Ida Vase. The Wawona club is a young men's social organization which holds weekly parties at headquarters of its own on the corner of Grove street and Bancroft way, and the entertainments given by the club last year proved very popular. A new section will probably be established at the Elbel club on Wednesday morning of next week, when the members are invited to attend a "celebration" lesson in the art of cutting and sewing. If such a section is organized, it will be the first of its kind in the city. The instruction of Mrs. Grant Wallace, formerly a resident of Oakland, but now recently of New York. There are many young members of the club to whom it is believed a physical culture and dancing section would appeal.

A dramatic section is also proposed and the Elbel club members have been asked to meet Madame Anais Mohler Wednesday afternoon, October 12th, with a view to forming such an organization. The Casa Guido club met Friday with Mrs. L. McGregor Nelly at the Madison Park apartments in Oakland. The members took up the study of the play, "The Sign of the Cross," which will be continued through several future meetings. Mrs. Katherine Miller, who has been the club's leader since its inception, is directing the study of the play, which work and will be as usual, a social topic in connection with it. Mr. and Mrs. Pio Alberto Morbio have sent out cards for a dance to be given October 21 at the Town and Grove Club in honor of Miss Marguerite Morbio and Adolph and Carol Morbio. The hall will be banked in greens and palms and the dance will be one of the prettiest of the early season and will include many guests from about the bay as well as the members of the younger set in this city.

EAST OAKLANDERS WANT OWL CARS

Night Service Needed On Lines to Annexed District, Residents Declare.

MELROSE, Oct. 1.—At the regular weekly meeting of the Melrose Improvement Club in their rooms, 3115 Fortyeighth avenue, a committee was appointed to confer with the Oakland Traction Company and the Southern Railway Company in the hope that they would grant the people of the annexed district an owl service on the car lines of East Fourteenth street.

At the present time, the last car from Twelfth and Broadway bound for Hayward leaves at 11:40 and all the people who take the last Southern Pacific boat from San Francisco must walk to their homes in San Leandro and Elmhurst. After 11:40, the Seventh street local runs only as far as East Oakland and all the patrons who live in the annexed district must walk from there.

If no result is obtained from the company, from this club the members intend to ask all the improverment clubs in the district to co-operate with them in the matter. As few of the streets are paved and fewer sidewalks have been laid in the territory, it is very unpleasant to be compelled to walk through the mud on a dark night in the winter time.

MONSTER SPH NX FEATURE OF SHOW

Men of the University Wood Working Department Aid English Club.

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—Revering practically a double stage to present Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Cassius and Cleopatra," the students of the University of California are making final preparations for the staging of the show, which will take place October 8. Co-operating with the English Club in preparation for the play are the men of the woodworking department, who are constructing a monster sphinx which will form some of the spectacular scenery of the play.

It is for the sphinx scene that the extra stage has been decided on by Manager Howard H. Krueger. Instead of enclosing the main stage with the massive "prop," the center section of the diorama, where the big bouffies are held, will be reserved for the desert scene. This will be saved, and by the addition of a drop curtain, is expected to present a good likeness of the desert.

The whole purpose of the scene is to provide the Egyptian queen, Cleopatra, with a scene of reclining in the paws of the sphinx on a bed of red poppies. As the Roman commander comes out of the night, he falls before the sphinx and exclaims, "A sphinx! Cleopatra! In league with the serpent! Old Egypt! With the dead head, don't run away!"

The role of Cleopatra will be taken by Miss Bertha Sachse, a student, while George Mansup will play the part of Caesar.

Alameda Guardsmen Leave for Atacadero

ALAMEDA, Oct. 1.—Some 400 left yesterday afternoon on a special regimental train for Atacadero for two weeks' military schooling and camp drill in conjunction with regular troops. The company went in command of Captain Rushton McConnell, with First Lieutenant C. P. Magagnos and Second Lieutenant Harold G. Miller in command of the platoons. This is the first public appearance of the two lieutenants in their new positions. Magagnos being first lieutenant and Miller being promoted second lieutenant from a sergeant a few days ago.

Major M. W. Simpson, Lieutenant Sumner Crosby and Lieutenant R. Y. Thuring, attached to bat a son headquarters are also with the company train.

Oakland Defeats Lowell at Rugby; Score 21 to 5

Oakland High School's rugby fifteen defeated Lowell High's stars by a score of 21 to 5. The match was played on the Grove street grounds in Oakland. The first half ended with a score of 10 to 0 in favor of the Oakland. The second half, after a long struggle, resulted in a 11 to 5 final score. The Oakland team then outscored a 10 to 5 in a comparatively short time. The Oakland team played the first game to the Oakland.

CROWDS WATCH PAJAMARINO RALLY

Student Enthusiasm Holds Sway at Big Celebration at Greek Theater.

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—More than eight thousand persons, visitors from all the bay cities, gathered last night in the Greek Theater to witness the fantastic celebration, known as the Pajamarino rally, given by the students of the University. The grotesque costumes worn by the 1200 students that took part, the huge bonfire and the college songs combined to lend an air to the scene that will never be forgotten by those who attended. Student numbers were given by the University Glee Club and the variety quartet. Robert C. Moulton acted as chairman of the meeting, while Professor Edmund O'Neill, William A. Stetson and Colonel George C. Edwards spoke.

The Lexington "40" Has Stormed the Fort Up until today almost the entire motor industry has been dominated by a few men and those closely allied. Armed with millions of dollars, they controlled almost the entire motor car output, and demanded whatever tribute they desired but the LEXINGTON "40" has stormed the fort. The secret is out. A first-class car—yes, and absolutely highest-class motor car may now be bought for sixteen hundred and fifty dollars. Can you think of another "40" at that price, or for anything less than $2200, and if you can, just compare it with the LEXINGTON. Compare the appearance, the means of control, the accessibility, or compare motors, or transmission, or wheels, or bodies, or equipment. Compare anything about any such car with the LEXINGTON, and you will see that we are not at all overstating our claims when we say that the LEXINGTON "40" HAS NO EQUAL WITHIN HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS OF ITS PRICE.

INDIAN SUMMER IS TOURING SEASON

Days Make One Rejoice to Be Alive at the Wheel of Motor Car.

"Will motorists of California waste another Indian summer hesitating over a choice of motor car when a machine like yours can be had?" writes an enthusiastic motorist to Chester N. Weaver, general manager of the Studebaker interests in California.

Weaver says "No," and backs up his statement with an array of facts and figures which are nothing short of stupendous in the way of pointing out the tremendous demand which exists today for automobiles.

"The experienced motorist—and I consider myself such, having used one of your machines for two years," continues Weaver's interesting correspondence, "is man acquainted with the pleasures a car can bring to him in the various seasons of the year. He looks forward to the months of October and November as the two which, above all others, make him rejoice to be alive at the wheel. For the climax of motorist enjoyment comes in the Indian summer days."

DEMAND IS UNUSUAL

While the letter is unique in some ways, Weaver describes it as sounding the keynote to the cause for the demand for motor cars during the fall months. It shows, by a large pile of contract acknowledgments of cash deposits and specified deliveries within the next few weeks of D. M. F. 30 and Standard 20 machines that, if the Indian summer days are not the sole reason, they are at least a contributory cause.

According to Weaver, during the next few weeks more than 2500 D. M. F. and Standard cars will be sold and delivered. More than 1500 represents the demand in Central and Southern California, the balance going to Southern California and a portion of Arizona. This probably represents a record never before equaled in the history of the industry.

GOODYEAR BRANCHING OUT.

Recognized by the Los Angeles auto supply trade as one of the most important deals recently consummated in the southern metropolis is that whereby the W. D. Newcomb Rubber Company appointed the Automobile Equipment Company sole selling agents in that territory for Goodyear tires. Heading this company are Leon T. Shetter and Walter Saldaña, both recognized as the foremost authorities today in motor tire circles. In consequence, their choice of Goodyear in preference to several other available makes of tires is generally considered a matter of great significance as an indication of the present trend of affairs in the Southern California tire situation. Indeed, today the Automobile Equipment Company is one of the most discerning and discriminating concerns in the west, and every time they take on is thoroughly considered as to its ability to maintain the firm's impeccable reputation.

HAYES SALES MANAGER RETURNS.

W. B. Cochran, general manager of the Hayes Auto Sales Company, has just returned from a visit to the Los Angeles branch very much enthused over the automobile trade conditions found there. "The Hayes office," said Cochran, "are pointing into our Los Angeles store at a remarkable rate, and beyond doubt this coming season will see the Hayes store as the most popular of the cars in Southern California. Two especially interesting orders came in while I was in Los Angeles, one from New York and the other from Pennsylvania. Both were from parties who intend to spend the winter in California, and the orders were placed thus early so that the cars might be waiting for them when they reached the winter home."

LITTLE BUICK ON TRYOUT.

During the past week the members of the first of the Los Angeles Hunt agents, have been giving the new arrived Buick a thorough and strenuous trial over the steep west grade in San Francisco and Alameda. The results, according to H. M. Lawrence, have been highly satisfactory. The little machine has proven itself a "turkey" in the climb, showing ability to top the hill in less than a minute. In addition, this car has opened wide on some of the level stretches, it has developed a speed that gladdened the heart even of the Murray, for whom it is known that no car can go too fast.

It has been understood for a considerable while among the closer followers of the automobile game that the Buick factory has been working out a design for a cheap, priced car, designed primarily for general utility work and as an accessory often to higher priced machines. Consequently the appearance of this midsize Buick was anticipated for some time. That it is measuring up to expectations is well indicated by the lively interest that the local motor car fraternity is evidencing in the machine now being displayed in the Howard Automobile Company's showroom.

INTEREST IN TOUR TO TAHOE.

Unusual interest is being taken in the proposed automobile tour to Lake Tahoe. The committee having in charge the details of the tour reported yesterday having received a number of entries and enough inquiries from owners of motor cars to assure the tour a success.

Today are going to make the tour an open event, said W. M. Klinger, a member of the tour committee, "and any owners or enthusiasts can compete. The fact that the time schedule for the tour will be the feature of the event will add interest to the contest, as it will make it possible for a private owner to make a good score and result in an increased entry list."

Newspaper Solicitors to Meet in This City

Newspaper Solicitors' Union No. 12785 will hold a special meeting at Central Labor hall next Tuesday evening when business of general interest to the organization will be discussed, and it is especially desired that all members be present. The meetings as a rule have been held in San Francisco, but as many of the members live on this side of the bay and it is impossible for them to attend the meetings over there, special meetings are held here for their benefit.

Actual work on the new motordrome begins tomorrow, when a large force of carpenters under command of Promoter and Builder Prince start action. The preliminary work of staking off the site will take at least a week. This means that by the 15th, when the shipment of lumber arrives at the location, work on the track will commence. By the 23d of the present month Prince guarantees to have the course ready for preliminary speed work. November 3 the track will be thrown open to the public, a finished product, and by far the greatest roller coaster ever seen on the Pacific Coast will take place.

In brief, these are the present plans of the builders of Oakland's famous speedway. Present indications look to the fulfillment of them to the letter. The opening plans are not as yet complete. It can be authoritatively stated, however, that we will have with us the greatest card of drivers ever gathered within a single arena. Oldfield, Strang, with his new high-powered Chase machines which are now being constructed by the famous Thrasher manufacturers for him, Kessler, Le. Edna, C. L. Bragg, A. Livingstone, Scott Miller, Stone, Fleming and Du. They form the advance guard of the speedsters who are to grace the opening of the track.

In addition to these men there will be a gathering of the world's premier motorcycle drivers. De Roder, Balke, Freddie Dwyer, Seymour, the Samuelson brothers, Murray, McCormick, Graves, Collins, and a dozen others of the seven-horse-power fame are tuning up their little racing machine in preparation to coming here. A surprise is in store for the majority of the public when these boys meet inasmuch as we really have never seen any class of drivers here. Motorcycle races, particularly if the drivers are evenly matched, are, if anything, far more spectacular than the clashes between the high-powered machines. To be fully appreciated they must be seen.

OLDFIELD AND STRANG FOR FEATURES

The feature race of the opening meet will be the heats of 5, 10 and 20 miles between Oldfield and Strang, winners of the best two in three. The following Sunday, November 13, Ralph de la Haine and George Robertson come together in a similar race. Then, Sunday, November 21, the winners of the two previous meets will be matched. Intense rivalry exists between De Palma and Oldfield. Neither seems to have it on the other from a standpoint of superiority. Bringing these stars together will be an attraction worth traveling miles to see.

24 HOUR RACE CHRISTMAS.

A 24-hour race, starting at midnight December 24 and ending at midnight of the 25th, with cash prizes amounting to over $10,000, and with an additional cash bonus to the driver who is first to pass the 1500-mile mark as an incentive, is a banner card which is issued for Christmas day.

In addition to the motordrome races we are assured of the Purty race being held on this side of the bay. The San Francisco dealers to a man are anxious to have the race held here in view of the course which we have.

PLANNING FOR AVIATION MEET.

Preparations for the international aviation meet are progressing rapidly. Price now has contracts with one of the world's best bird men, and he is working hard to bring his birding together on the motordrome ground, the best of the aviators of England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and America.

DANISH VISITORS AT SAN LEANDRO

Three Hundred Delegates to the State Convention Guests of Citizens.

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 1.—More than 300 delegates of the Danish League of America, which is holding its annual convention at Fresno, gathered four special cars from the Oakland traction company yesterday morning and made a pilgrimage to San Leandro where they were received with a brass band and escorted in seven automobiles to the city hall. At the hall a speech was made by Mayor J. J. Gill in behalf of the people, welcoming the visitors.

After being shown through the hall they were taken around the town and shown all the points of interest, after which they left for Oakland with a very favorable impression of the bustling little town.

Mayor J. J. Gill, Postmaster Charles Q. Ralston, Marshal A. G. Schaefer, L. J. Toledano, M. J. Andrus and Fred Schmidt represented the people of the town. Captain Thurnyck came to San Leandro to receive a check from London, England, for $5000.

Newly-weds Saved; Give Rescuer $5000

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—The arrival of a few days ago of Captain M. Thurnyck, owner of a small fishing boat operating on the Labrador coast, makes it high a remarkable tale of rescue on the high seas.

On the 15th of September, while on a fishing trip, the vessel was blown out to sea and across the Atlantic, in a big storm, in which the three members of the crew were drowned. Captain Thurnyck, in his fishing schooner, came across the shipwrecked honeymoon couple clinging to each other in the raging of the shuddering waves off the coast of Labrador. Captain Thurnyck rescued them just in time and sent them back to England in one of his fishing vessels and the check for $5000 is the substantial side of the gratitude which the rescued pair gave to the worthy captain.

"Civic Cat" Was Gift to Mayor

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 1.—Marked "Civic Cat" Harlowe With Care, a slatted box was dumped on the floor of Mayor C. E. Kelly's office this day, causing an instantaneous stampede for fresh air and the great outdoors.

Led by the mayor, the city hall employees beat it without ceremony, leaving his honor and the police in charge of the city's affairs until the distracting corps could be drafted into service.

The cat was finally rescued from the executive office and sent to the city park, where it was given a secluded corner to itself.

Agencies Working Vigorously for Oakland's Progress and Prosperity

OAKLAND STILL STRIVING TO ADJUST ITSELF TO THE NEW CONDITIONS

Erecting Modern Business Blocks, Laying Durable Pavements, Building Quays and Reconstructing Car Lines

The strenuous efforts which Oakland has been making for over four years past to adjust itself to the growth of population and business and the enormous traffic which has been thrown on the main thoroughfares and on the streets near the southern waterfront, carrying the heavy commerce which has developed there, are still as strongly in evidence as they ever were. The new era of permanent pavement construction has fairly started along the south side. The old-time macadam pavements in that quarter have begun to disappear forever. Their day is passed. Pavements of this character not much over two years old had to be redressed some months ago to save them from total wreck as the result of the heavy raining which they have been carrying and which these streets will have to carry in a still greater degree henceforth. The doom of macadam on these streets is sealed. Nothing can save them. The recently redressed streets may go successfully through another winter, but that will see their finish.

Laying Permanent Pavements on South Side Sts.

Permanent pavements have begun to be laid on all of the east and west streets along the south side and on several of the thoroughfares leading northward from the estuary waterfront. Several blocks on Second street are undergoing reconstruction at present with permanent pavements, and the process of the street's transformation will be carried on henceforth continuously from Market to Oak street, when the salt water fire protection pipe system which is now being extended to the two extremes of the thoroughfare is finished, which will be accomplished within the next sixty days or so. Some of the Second street blocks have been paved with basalt pavements on a concrete foundation. Those blocks, now in course of reconstruction, are being paved with hard-pressed brick laid on a bed of concrete. This class of pavement has proved to be a high grade, smooth surfaced and durable, in Seattle and some other commercial cities on the Pacific Coast. The laying of smooth and durable pavements on these south side streets will change the whole character of the property in that section, which will be rapidly advanced as the construction of the new quay wall progresses.

Preparing to Construct South Side Quay Wall

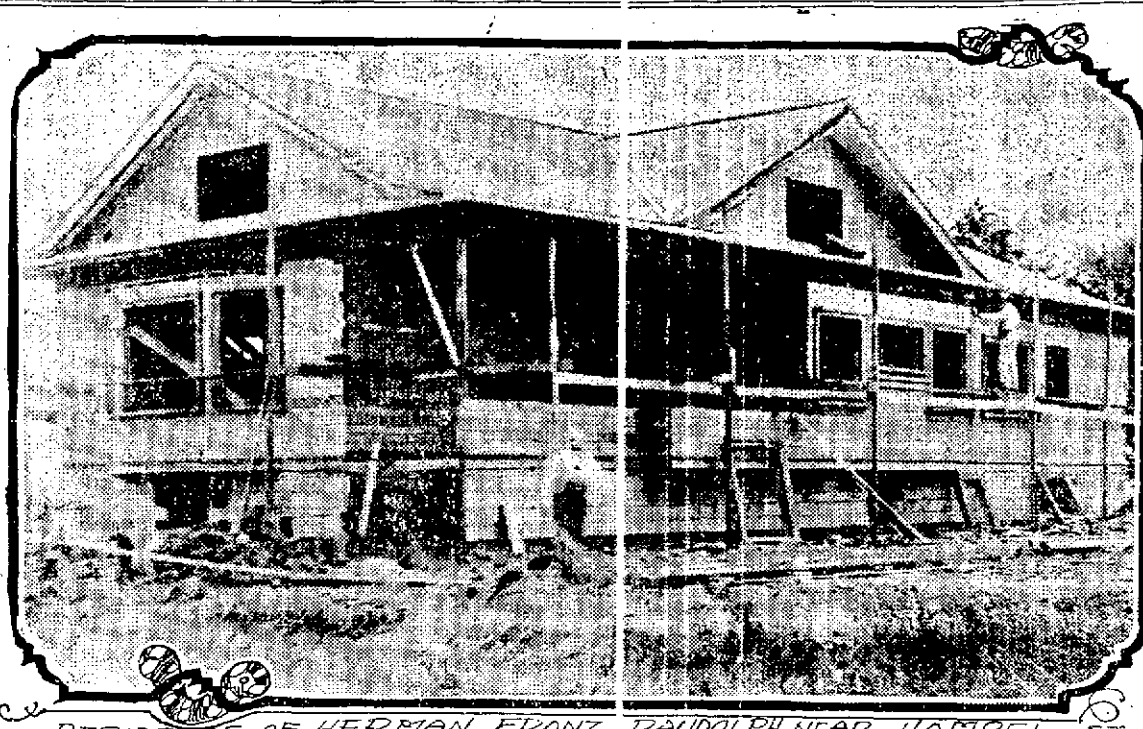

Preparations for the construction of the new quay wall are now in progress. The former owners and tenants of the property bought by the city for this important commercial improvement are now clearing the land of the merchantable material which has been stored on the property so that when the contractors are ready they can open the trench twenty-five feet wide and forty in depth, which they will be required to dig to reach a hard-pan foundation for the massive reinforced concrete wall, which will constitute the facing of the new quay. On the north side of this wall, a broad quay for the handling of commerce, the construction of the belt line and the erection of warehouses will be built, and in front of it the estuary will be dredged to a depth of thirty feet at low tide to conform with the depth of the 500-foot channel, which the federal government is under pledge to dredge from ship channel in the bay to the line of Fallon street, and for which Congress has made an ample appropriation.

Importance of the Improvement

When all of this is done, the largest steamships employed in the trans-Pacific will be able to enter Oakland harbor and moor at the municipal quay at any stage of the tide; and, inasmuch as the quay wall recedes several feet inshore from the old pierhead line established by the War Department engineers, they will be able to swing around when leaving port in the broad basin fronting the quay and pass out bow-on to sea.

The Hansbrough Bros., to whom the Carterra Contracting Company assigned the $222,000 quay wall contract, have complied with

COSTLY HOMES IN ROCK RIDGE

Many of the Highest Type of Residences Are Shortly to Be Built There.

The grounds for C. B. Wells' $40,000 home in Rock Ridge are being laid out and beautifully improved, and building will be begun at once. A $20,000 home will be started shortly, as will J. C. B. Wells' $20,000 residence. Mrs. Louise L. Wells, formerly of Modesto, has plans ready for a $12,000 home on Prospect avenue, which will be commenced within the week. Charles H. Manning will build a $8,500 home near the entrance to Rock Ridge place.

Ordinarily in the history of a new tract the first building is slow and just within the restrictions. After the property has been proven, some one may get sufficient courage to erect a $10,000 home there, but he seldom shows sufficient confidence to do that until he has watched the property built up. Rock Ridge is having just the opposite experience, for it is already admitted to be the home place for wealthy people. That the property is in that has been claimed for it is proved by the class of buyers it has attracted and the class of building that is going in.

BANKERS' HOTEL PROGRESS MADE

Four Stories of the Massive Structural Steel Frame Completed.

The structural steel frame of the Oakland (Bankers) Hotel has been raised during the past week to the floor of the fifth story. As the building will be seven stories in height three stories are yet to be added to what has already been erected. The structure is assuming imposing proportions, which will not be drawn out, however, to their fullest degree until the walls are up and the towers over the main front of the building are completed. In massive strength the structural steel frame shows it to be one of the strongest buildings of its class erected anywhere in the country. This reinforced concrete foundation walls are now being completed to the ground floor level, where the masonry walls proper will begin.

MUCH BUILDING IN BERKELEY

New Theater Among Structures to Be Erected Shortly; the Building Permits.

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—One of the finest church buildings in Berkeley will soon be erected at Dwight way and Bowditch street, the permit for which was issued this week. This building, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will cost $2,300 and will be modern and up-to-date in every way. The site on which it is to be erected is central and can be easily reached from all sections. The members of the congregation have been discussing the building for many months, but it was only recently the necessary funds were secured to carry on the work.

NEW THEATER.

A one story brick building, which will be used as a theater, is to be erected on Adeline street, 56 feet north of Sixty-third in the immediate future. The permit for the construction of this building was secured by W. Krahn, the owner of the property. The new building will cost $7500 and will be fitted with all the latest safety appliances.

OTHER BUILDINGS PLANNED.

E. B. Green has secured a building permit to erect a two-story seven-room dwelling on the property he owns on the south side of Hillcrest court. This property, which has been vacant for several years, is a beautiful building site and green plans to make the house one of the most attractive. The ground about it will be parked. The house will cost $5600.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Following are the permits which have been issued during the last week:
Alterations, 1709 Milvia street—Hermann Mueller, $85.

OPENING OF THE ORLAND HEIGHTS

Newly Subdivided Tract One Mile West of Mills Seminary Is Attracting Attention.

The great interest shown at the opening of Orland Heights last Sunday has been maintained throughout the week according to Shomon & Sieber, the Oakland realty dealers who are handling the property. One-fourth of Orland Heights was sold on the opening day, and many lots have been sold since. A large sale is expected this Sunday, as many people who saw the tract last week have expressed their intention to return and take certain lots which attracted them, and there will be many new buyers who could not come before.

The climate of Orland Heights is a strong inducement to those who dislike fog and wind. Lying in the "East Oakland warm belt" it is sheltered from the cold winds and fogs which sweep across the bay. Orland Heights is directly on the Mills College car line, and is one mile west of that well known college. It is on a sloping hillside, so that each homestead has a beautiful view and a perfect natural drainage.

As the building restriction on the property is $5000, the buyer is assured of protection from shacks and yet has an opportunity to build a modest, modern home, at a price within his reach.

NEW HOTEL ON FIFTEENTH STREET

Plans Prepared for Substantial Five-story Modernly Constructed Hostelry.

Oakland's hotel properties are to be increased by the erection of a five-story structure on the north side of Fifteenth street, east of Jefferson, and facing the north frontage of the Taft & Panoyer block. Plans for the new hotel have already been drawn by the architect, Miss Julia Morgan, for Calkins & Dolan, the

BOULEVARD BUILDING ACTIVE IN OAKLAND'S MODERN EXPANSION

Fine Drives Have Added Enormously to Oakland's Attractions, to Values of Property and Aided Settlement

Boulevard construction is becoming a notable feature in Oakland's latter day development. Tomorrow night the city council will open bids for the laying of an oil macadam pavement on North Broadway, and gutting, curbing and sidewalking the same from Clifton street to Ocean View drive in Claremont. This improvement has been long sought and has been undertaken in response to the application of the Broadway Improvement Club and other interests concerned. The Broadway Improvement Club passed a strong resolution asking the council to proceed with the construction at once. The new boulevard will open up the whole northern hillside territory of Oakland, which is now being rapidly settled and occupied by costly and high classed residences.

New Territory Opened by Boulevards

The new boulevard will add approximately one-half mile to Oakland's chain of beautiful boulevards, which have done and are doing so much to attract visitors from all of the bay counties to this side of the bay, and add to Oakland's fame abroad. Oakland has indeed a larger mileage of smooth modernly constructed high-class boulevards than any city on the Pacific Coast, and they have added immensely to the value of property tributary to them. The principal boulevard is, of course, the Foothill or Scenic boulevard, which the County Board of Supervisors built from High street to Hayward and a large section of which the city inherited when the annexed territory was joined to it nearly a year ago. Ultimately this boulevard will be extended through the Fruitvale and East Oakland foothills to unite with the system of boulevards traversing the park districts surrounding Lake Merritt. The latter comprise the east lake-side boulevard, which was constructed twenty years ago and was the first roadway of its kind to be built in Oakland and the wisdom of its construction has been since amply indicated, although the silurians of that period vigorously opposed it. Then comes the Harrison boulevard, which extends from Fourteenth street to the Grand avenue boulevard, which in its turn joins the north lakeside boulevard and winds itself through the Pleasant valley hill district northward. The construction of a new boulevard, known as the Fruitvale avenue boulevard, has been started. This skirts the inner foothills north of the scenic boulevard. In a few years hence Oakland's chain of boulevards will intersect every section of the residential districts in Oakland from the Contra Costa boundary line to the eastern boundary limits on Stanley road, there uniting with the chain of county boulevards, which will reach Livermore as soon as the link is forged between Hayward and Dublin, for which part provision has been made already by the County Board of Supervisors.

Boulevards Have Enhanced Property Values

All of these boulevards have added millions to the value of property contiguous to them. Next to the extension of the street railways they have been the most important factors in Oakland's recent development. Their value is increasing steadily with the passing of time. They adding constantly to Oakland's attractions, encouraging investment and settlement and the best class of residence improvement is throughout every foot of territory traversed by them. They are a never-ending source of delight to automobilists, which flock to them by the hundreds to enjoy the pleasure which riding over their smooth and even surface affords, and their construction constitutes one of the best investments which the city of Oakland has made in modern times for its own benefit, and for the benefit of its property-owners and the people generally.

owners of the property. Beginning of the erection of the buildings is delayed pending the conclusion of negotiations with the Coakley Bros., the owners of the lot adjoining on one side, and the owner of the lot adjoining on the other side, for the erection of party walls. The site of the proposed hotel has a frontage of fifty feet on Fifteenth street and a depth of 100 feet. The new hotel will be located in the heart of the western extension of the business district, which has taken place within the past three years and which will be the scene of great business activity during the next year and the years to follow.

SEPTEMBER REAL ESTATE MARKET

Good Business Month; Wants of Business Men in Downtown District.

"The month of September has rounded out with a volume of business being done of over $350,000 by our firm," said Wm. J. Layman of the Layman Real Estate Company. "These sales have been diversified, including business blocks in the heart of the downtown center. The demands for high class homes have been good, with frequent sales, one of which was the purchase of the residence of W. B. Dunning, vice-president of the Oakland Bank of Savings, by W. W. Parlin, a Southern California capitalist, for $20,000. Another sale to E. P. Taylor, the prominent Twelfth street merchant, for B. H. Burrell of Port McDowell, was that of a beautiful home on the north side of Perry street near Crescent. The tone of the market is showing a steady improvement."

LEASES AND RENTALS.

"It is very gratifying to note," says P. B. Malsden, manager of the renting department, "that the Phayre building, the doctors and dentists exclusive building, just completed at Fourteenth and Jefferson streets, is already 70 per cent rented, although erected without any lease previously contracted for. This fact further accentuates the strong demand in Oakland for modern office buildings and shows that the retail shopping district has advanced as far west as Jefferson street."

"Among the leases closed this week we would also mention that of the southeast corner of Eighth and Washington streets. This corner, 15x60, has been leased to the Normal Pharmacy for five years at an annual rental of $2400 and the entire corner is to be reconstructed, plate glass windows being installed with marble bases."

DOWNTOWN WANTS.

"We would emphasize the strong demand in the downtown district for modern stores, especially in that district bounded by Twelfth and Fourteenth streets, Broadway and Washington. We have now on hand a dozen applications for space in this district from firms who represent the pick in their particular lines. It means that the congested district must expand or this city will lose many valuable firms, each of which represents a considerable pay roll. Let the property owners standing in this district put up modern buildings and see how quickly tenants will flock to them. The ground increment in the following two years will pay for the building."

BUILDS ANOTHER 3-STORY FLAT

R. J. Pavert Takes Out Permit to Erect a $10,000 Structure of This Class.

R. J. Pavert, who has built several three-story flats adjacent to the Eleventh street, east of Jackson, and in other parts of the city, has taken out a permit from the Board of Public Works to erect a three-story structure, containing a first and four-room flat, and a southwest corner of Fallon and Eleventh streets, the same to cost $10,000. Mr. Pavert some time ago purchased the southwest corner of Twelfth and Jackson streets for the purpose of substituting for the three-story frame building standing on the premises and then occupied by a conservatory of music, a reinforced concrete business block of five stories in height. The frame building has been vacated and is to be moved at once to make way for the new structure.

INVALID DRAGS HERSELF FROM BURNING DWELLING

REDLANDS, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Charles Stewart, an invalid, had a remarkable escape from death at Grifton when she managed to drag herself from her burning house just four minutes from the time before she dropped unconscious. Her two young sons were enveloped in the flames, but succeeded in escaping before they were badly burned.

E. H. Champlin, 1-story shed, north side Sixty-sixth street, 400 feet west of San Pablo avenue; $50.

Mrs. M. E. Hewitt, 1-story 2-room dwelling, west side Willow avenue, 200 feet south of Hopkins street, Fruitvale; $175.

Jack Rohan, alterations, 33915 Washington street; $25.

A. Guenther, 1-story stores, west side Shattuck avenue, 85 feet north of Sixtieth street; $2000.

C. H. Kinner, 1-story 5-room cottage, west side Lockley avenue, 400 feet north of Hudson street; $1550.

D. T. MacArthur, 1-story 6-room dwelling, north side John street, 60 feet west of Piedmont avenue; $1800.

Hal Sing, alterations, 505 Seventh street; $50.

Rhoda, alterations, 3715 Lincoln street; $175.

A. Augermeyer, re-shingling, 4850 Dover street; $50.

G. B. Starr, alterations, 1253 Broadway street; $25.

L. H. Sanford, 1-room addition, 221 Bond street; $250.

Miss J. Henry, porch addition, 2129 Richmond boulevard; $100.

Scott, Rountree, re-shingling, 752-6 Willow street; $50.

State Savings Bank, alterations, northwest corner Thirteenth and Franklin streets; $2000.

S. C. Sheldon, 1-story, northeast corner East Fourteenth and Forty-fifth avenues, Melrose; $250.

E. W. Owen, 1-story 5-room dwelling, north side Sixty-second street, 271 feet west of Racine street; $2000.

Price Brothers, 1-story 6-room dwelling, south side Forest street, 42 feet east of Clarendon street; $2500.

D. E. Huntley, alterations, 1259 Webster street; $50.

EYES OF EUROPE TURNS TO ARCHDUKE FERDINAND

Guiding Spirit of Bosnian Affair Soon to Be Ruler of Austria; Rise in Prices Rouses Germany

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Although Emperor Franz Josef of Austria is in excellent health, the fact that he is 80 years of age has caused the European diplomats and his own subjects to turn their eyes on his successor, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand. Very little is known to the public of this member of Austrian royalty. He desires obscurity and whatever he does he does so in a quiet manner. He is very retiring, a student, a philosopher with a passion for gardening.

Despite his quiet manner and avoidance of publicity, however, it is believed by many that when this man comes to the throne he will wield a powerful influence on the destinies of Europe. He is a Jesuit. Therefore it goes to say that he is influenced by the Vatican. He is a Jesuit, as far as his diplomacy goes, by the great statesman, Cardinal Merry del Val. It is claimed by some well-informed writers that it is the ambition of Merry del Val and Archduke Franz Ferdinand to make Austria the most powerful nation in Europe.

CHARACTER OF MAN.

To gain an idea of the character of man the archduke is, I need only refer to the Balkan troubles nearly two years ago when the whole of Europe was brought to the edge of war and held there shivering for a week. When the war clouds had been dispelled it was found that Austria had annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina. At that time it was not known as to just who was responsible for this bold stroke but since then the affair has been sifted by many of Europe's leading statesmen, and it can be said with almost mathematical certainty that the guiding spirit in the Bosnian affair was Archduke Franz Ferdinand.

If this is true, and there seems to be no doubt of it, then the Archduke is the guiding spirit of the German empire. Germany, for although the emperor made a great deal of noise in the Bosnian business, he was merely the assistant and not the master. Conceding that this is the guiding spirit of the German empire, the virtual commander of four million German soldiers, of the large German fleet, of the Austrian army and of the navy, which is building with feverish rapidity.

Long life to the aged emperor! But when the peaceful old man departs this world, one may look for some bold strokes by Austria.

RISE IN PRICES.

The continued and rapid rise in the price of meat and other articles of food causes increasing anxiety throughout Germany. Public meetings are being held in Berlin and many provincial towns, protesting against the fiscal policy which has given rise to this extraordinary state of affairs, and calling on the government to open the frontiers for the free importation of the food stuffs until prices are reduced.

One of the most remarkable of these meetings was held at Castrop, where the burgomaster, addressing this people, said:

"Things have gone so far that the worker today is hardly in a position to buy a pound of meat. This state of affairs cannot continue. The working people are suffering from insufficient nourishment."

"These high prices have their origin in the empire's preposterous fiscal policy, with its high duties. The working classes are in a state of high discontent and misery, and I do not hesitate to state this publicly."

Observe, this mayor of Castrop is no Socialist agitator, but the head of a town where Socialists have few supporters.

An inspector of mines in Westphalia declares that the scarcity of food is remarkable. He has noticed that the miners' breakfasts are growing scantier.

WORST NOT REACHED.

Evidently the worst has not yet been reached. The butchers' guilds announce that in a few days their prices must be raised still higher.

The situation in South Germany causes much anxiety, owing to the impending decision of the Austrian government to prohibit the exportation of cattle from Austria to Germany.

In spite of the heavy duty on imported cattle, South German towns have found it cheaper to consume Austrian meat than their own. Over a thousand head of cattle are exported weekly to Germany for consumption in Frankfurt, Mayence, Munich, Nuremberg, Augsburg, and even as far as Dresden and Cologne. Over 80 per cent of the consumption of Munich is of Austrian origin.

The mere threats to prohibit this export has raised the price of South German cattle about 20 per cent.

That the Belgians take their troubles lightly is evident by the manner in which they pitched into work following the disastrous fire at the exhibition at Brussels in August. Today all the buildings that were destroyed by fire have been rebuilt, and the exhibition is again doing an excellent business. The British section, which was almost totally destroyed, has been reopened and the country has furnished additional exhibits.

The Belgian section has also been reconstructed, and is much more beautiful than before the fire. The Germans, Dutch, French, Canadian, Australian, Japanese, Russian, Persian, Danish, Italian, Turkish, Chinese and Egyptian sections were untouched and have remained open all the time. Although the leaders of the exhibits have sustained considerable loss by fire, it was by no means a public disaster.

A ghost story comes from Stettin. It appears that one of these mysterious spectral visitors has been at work for some time in a tenement of a laborer named Buchsler, where it is reported to have brought many strange things to pass. Credible witnesses saw and smelled, notes and pans, and bottles, lift themselves up without any assistance and sail through the window into the courtyard. Brooms hover in the air as if levitating a trip to the kitchen. Cupboards hang open, their doors and emptied their contents of the floor.

These spectral occurrences seem to center around a young girl, the 11-year-old daughter of the tenant, a shy and undergrown little thing, but who was credited by the neighbors with wonderful magnetic gifts. The other day, however, the ghost story was called to the attention of the police. It appears that about every time the uncanny visitor made his appearance certain sums of money would disappear from the cash box of Frau Buchsler.

Accordingly this thrifty woman placed the key of the cash box around her neck and when the mysterious hob-goblin was unable to find the key it showed its rage by wailing and destruction. No tale was too wild to be believed in Stettin. It was widely credited that the little girl was physically assailed by the goblin and left marks of her flesh like the print of a cat's paw. When the police took the matter in hand, however, one officer called upon Frau Buchsler to produce the ghost or to give some signs of his existence. She refused, however, saying that it was impossible, as she had done something to annoy the disturbing spirit. The authorities, however, continued their investigation and learned that Buchsler had been sending a great deal of money to the tax man, without a doubt, extracted from his wife's cash box. So the family have been informed that should the mischievous spirit commence his tricks they will be taken into custody for the robbery of the tax man's office, which can be made to cover everything to which the authorities object, but is not provided for specifically in the law.

Bank Rehabilitation Delays Court Action

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Judge Kraft today continued the election of a trustee for the El Dorado Lumber company until October 10, on the representations of the attorneys for the Depositors' Association of the California Safe Deposit and Trust company, that the negotiations for the rehabilitation of the bank are proceeding favorably in San Francisco.

The United Iron Works, which is the successor of the Oakland Iron Works, has erected a four-story corrugated iron building on the east side of Jefferson street, and extending from Second to First, for the enlargement of its plant, which now occupies a large portion of both frontages of Second street, east of Jefferson. The new building is not quite finished, but it will cost approximately $20,000. It covers an area of 55 feet by 200 feet, and has three frontages, as it extends over the entire length of the block on the east side of Jefferson street, from First to Second. The building has been in course of construction for several months past and when finished will add largely to the facilities of the United Iron Works, which has developed into one of the most important iron works on this side of the bay.

100 PANAMA HATS TORN OFF HEADS OF WEARERS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—The city's poor farm at Marshalsea went through annual inspection last week, and 700 persons, including members of both bodies of council and every one on the city payroll, took a day off and went to the poor farm. About one hundred of this party unfortunately wore Panama or straw hats. No sooner had they got inside the grounds than all Panamas or "straws" soon were torn to bits.

Mayor Magee arrived in his auto and the entire 700 made a push for him. He had a lovely Panama. Mayor Magee stood on the seat of his auto and fought well, but was borne to the ground and his Panama torn from his head and used as a football by 700 frenzied Coney men.

Improvement Club Urges Street Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The Peninsula Heights and Vicinity Improvement club has appointed a committee to wait upon the Board of Public Works to complain of the bad state of many of Twenty-sixth street, between Mission and Bryant streets, and urge immediate action to place the highway in order.

Arrangements were completed for the club's third annual entertainment and ball, to be given Saturday evening, October 15, at Graham hall, Alabama street and Precita avenue.

OAKLAND STILL STRIVING TO ITSELF TO THE NEW CONDITIONS

(Con. from Preceding Page)

the time allowance set for beginning work by the construction of an office building and tool warehouse on the premises. As soon as the pile-drivers and other machinery which is being specially constructed in the east for them to carry on the work arrives the great undertaking will be started in earnest and pushed as rapidly as possible to a finish.

Rebuilding Traction Co.'s Broadway Tracks

Another feature in the line of development affecting the south side is the reconstruction of the Broadway tracks of the Oakland Traction Company, which has been made necessary in spreading them farther apart to better assure the public safety. The work is a big undertaking as it involves the destruction of the old concrete cable channel in use when the line was operated when the cable was the motive power. It also involves the ripping out of the old rails riveted to the concrete embedded iron tie frames, and the substitution of modern standard electric railway rails on wooden ties encased in a solid concrete roadbed.

The work has been in progress for several weeks, in which a large force of men is employed. It disturbs travel temporarily and will do so for many weeks to come, but when finished Broadway, which has for several years been the scene of almost continuous excavation and the rupture and repairing of its pavement as the result of putting overhead wires underground and building a new sewer to drain deeper basements and carry off the stormwater, will have a season of rest so far as the roadway is concerned. It will be followed, however, inevitably by a long season of the erection of massive modern class A buildings which have been planned to take the place of old-time frame structures that have outlived their usefulness and ceased to be revenue-producing to their owners. These changes combine to mark the progress of modern development and expansion which Oakland is making in its main business district.

NEW TOWN OF THE PULLMAN CAR CO. MAKE IT EASIER FOR POOR FARMER

Rushing Construction of Big Shops; Neighboring Industries Expanding.

Drawing from its fund of experience in creating the model city of Pullman, Ill., the Pullman Car Company is going to erect its former work of building its new town near Richmond. Last week the contractors who have the construction of the new shops in hand arrived from the East with instructions to rush the work with all possible speed, and already an extra force of men has been engaged to carry out the instructions from the officials of the Pullman Car Company.

The industrial growth adjacent to Richmond has been keeping step with the efforts of the Pullman Car Company, and now that the shops are to be pushed to completion many contemplated industries adjacent to them have removed their activities of enlargement and expansion.

The real estate market has been up and down, and Henderson & Tapscott report an unusually brisk week in North Berkeley Terrace, having closed forty sales during the week with a number of homes in the vicinity of the Pullman Car Company.

EDITORIAL

Transportation

One of the most important factors in the development of a high-class residence section must necessarily be good transportation. In this respect Rock Ridge is indeed to be congratulated. Rock Ridge has excellent transportation today and is to have still better as two articles in today's Gazette will show.

It is interesting in studying the development of Oakland to look back five years ago to the time when Claremont was assessed for $250 an acre—the same property that is selling today at $3500 a lot. And to Piedmont assessed at $700 an acre, selling today at the same $3500 a lot.

And yet what transportation did Piedmont or Claremont have five years ago when they were first put on the market? Practically none. The car lines have followed the people to those districts. In Piedmont and portions of Claremont it is still necessary to take a car to reach a Key Route line to San Francisco. From Claremont it is still necessary to transfer to either 14th and Broadway or Berkeley. And yet, look at the high-class development that has come into Piedmont and Claremont within those five years.

And now about Rock Ridge? There was a College Avenue car line with good service long before Rock Ridge Place was opened—a car line just one block from it and bringing Rock Ridge within fifteen minutes of 14th and Broadway, over the existing running line in Oakland.

The Country Club car line ran to the eastern borders of Rock Ridge Park before that subdivision was placed on the market. This line will be extended into the property, and another line running to the end of the Key Route near of which we cannot speak more fully at present will run along the edge of Rock Ridge.

Two Key Route lines are contemplated—one at 40th street and the other at Claremont. The College Avenue car makes connections with these lines, though with Forest street now cut through the Claremont line it is today with in close walking distance of Rock Ridge.

And if Claremont assessed for $250 an acre five years ago is selling for $3500 a lot today, what is to be expected of Rock Ridge with her larger restrictions more carefully drawn, and ten minutes nearer to 14th and Broadway? Especially when you realize that Rock Ridge is selling today at the prices of Claremont Park five years ago when she had a transportation.

The answer is opportunity—opportunity to the buyer in Rock Ridge today.

WILL BUILD SOON

Contractors Will Erect a $4500 Residence.

Edenberg & Anderson well known contractors of this city will build a $4500 residence in Rock Ridge Place in the near future. Their site is on Ocean View Drive just off Broadway and in addition to all the other causes is particularly valuable on that account. A modern home complete in every detail will be built with a view to selling it later to some person who neglected buying in Rock Ridge when such homesites were available.

News Notes

Frank A. Miles has this week been added to the list of Rock Ridge buyers. Mr. Miles' home is a beautiful one on the corner of Ocean and Gray streets in Rock Ridge Place. It is for sale at a site which will be a veritable garden spot when Mr. Miles has built it some upon it and planted lawns and trees.

Charles H. Manning's new home is a picture of which appears in today's Gazette will be one of the best residences in Rock Ridge Place. Mr. Manning's home is a beautiful one on a spot upon which a build such a home.

William Blumet will begin the construction of an $8000 home in Rock Ridge Place on the large home site just opposite the thingy or park.

Why the Best People Buy in Rock Ridge

The most desirable residents of the bay area are today buying homes in Rock Ridge because there they can get the things essential to a high class home.

Rock Ridge Place has a situation which is beyond compare. It lies in the broad valley hills, united by the hills of the mountains. It has a view of the bay and the city which can never be surpassed.

The plan of Rock Ridge is right. The property is laid out long ideal lines to bring out the beauty of the bay and the city and at the same time to give the buyer a view of the bay and the city which can never be surpassed.

Consequently the most desirable residents of the bay area are today buying homes in Rock Ridge because there they can get the things essential to a high class home.

The pretty home which Charles H. Manning will build in Rock Ridge Place.

New Street Brings Rock Ridge Close to Claremont Line

A city improvement which is of great importance to Rock Ridge is the work of cutting Forest street through from College Avenue to Claremont Avenue where the Key Route line operates.

When the work now under way is completed the entire line to Rock Ridge properties will be but a few blocks from the Claremont line.

For at least one year the College Avenue line has been operating from Rock Ridge Place to the Claremont line. The work now under way will bring the line to the Key Route near of which we cannot speak more fully at present will run along the edge of Rock Ridge.
